FLOATING FRAGMENTS.

Phil Robinson will lecture to-morrow night.

The vines of the green peas are sprouting through the ground.

Last evening's cold wind produced a considerable coating of ice on standing water.

Ed. Curtis, the new secretary of Idaho, is a young man and a native of that Territory.

Those who delight to hear the relation of an intensely thrilling narrative should go to the Theatre to-morrow night.

The invitation to Mr. Robinson's lecture will be 50 cents to the parquette circle, and 25 cents to all other parts of the house.

Brother Geo. Orison returned yesterday from Arizona in good health, and reports things in a prosperous condition in the Salt Lake settlements.

W. B. Douglass, Esq., and wife returned last evening, after a pleasant sojourn in the East. They spent a portion of their trip in Washington. Welcome home.

Mr. Phil Robinson, the brilliant war correspondent and literary genius will deliver a lecture in the Theatre to-morrow night. Turn out and hear him.

Saturday being the 51st anniversary of the birthday of Mrs. Dr. Harney, a number of ladies assembled at her residence and a very pleasant time was spent, in honor of the occasion.

It appears from a dispatch from Chattanooga that a hundred and fifty members of the Church in the Southern States Mission are expected to leave for the gathering place within a few days.

A man named Chalmers, a "Mormon," bound for Salt Lake, got off to take in Council Bluffs, and while in the city lost his ticket and was considerably worried, but policeman Edgar found it, sending him on his way rejoicing.—Omaha Bee.

After all the money foolish Americans gave Oscar Wilde because he did not eat his hair and went daff over a sunflower, here is what he says: "America is a land where the men have no honor, the women no virtue, the flowers no fragrance and the food no taste."

An army officer recently made the drive, with horses and wagon, from Fort Thornburgh to Fort Bridger, over the new (Carter) road, a distance of ninety miles, in one day, from daylight to dark. The drive was made for a wager of $500, and the Lieutenant won the money. He changed horses three times. So says the Chicago Times.

They have had a snowstorm of ashes the other side of Idaho City. More Kemper tells the World that the snow that fell on More's Creek summit, eight or ten days ago, is the color of ashes. It is about as strange a phenomenon as the yellow variety that fell at Silver City about the same time. More says that on the summit when the ash-colored kind can be seen, the snow is disappearing more rapidly than in other places where the sun strikes just as fairly and where only the pure white has fallen.—Idaho Democrat.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

PRIESTHOOD MEETING.

The monthly meeting of the Priesthood of the Salt Lake Stake of Zion, will be held on Saturday, March 24th, 1889, at 11 a.m., in the Assembly Hall. The meeting will be held one week sooner than usual, in consequence of the time for the regular meeting of the Priesthood occurring during the time of the General Annual Conference of the Church.

ANGUS M. CANNON, DAVID O. CALDER, JOSEPH E. TAYLOR, Presidency of the Stake.

Wants a Farm.—Brother Wm. Parks, late of North Carolina, now living in the city, is anxious to get a farm to work on shares. He has been accustomed to farm work and has a good reputation for being steady and reliable. He is a family. Address Salt Lake City P. O.

Seventies' General Meeting.—Notice is hereby given that the Seventies will hold their regular meeting at the Council House, on Wednesday the 21st inst., at 7 o'clock p.m.

ROBERT CAMPBELL, Clerk, In behalf of First Council of Seventies. Salt Lake City, March 19, 1889.

Testimonial.—We are in receipt of a communication from John Chapman, of Nephi; which states that the Elders' Quorum of that place had presented to Apostle Geo. Tensdale a number of books, the presentation being accompanied by resolutions expressing the respect of the donors.

Successful Home Manufacture.—The extent of the business being done by the Z. M. L. Shoe Factory, can be appreciated by the fact that during 1887 it turned out 89,000 pairs. The demand increases, and it is now making 300 pairs per day, or 1,800 pairs per week, and it is estimated that this year the total product will be over 90,000 pairs of shoes, women's, and men's shoes and boots. This quantity is but a small proportion of the consumption of the Territory.

Springville Theatricals.—On Saturday night Mr. Philip Margetta, the excellent comedian, and the Springville Dramatic Company, played "The Lancashire Lass" in the handsome new theatre hall of that place. Mr. Margetta played the roll of "A Party by the Name of Johnson," creating an amount of amusement. The hall was densely crowded, many having to be turned away. In consequence the bill is to be repeated to-night. The company play with marked ability.

Brick Making.—Preparations for brick making have begun at the brick yards in the upper portion of the 21st Ward. At Simpson's yard they have already commenced to unload. At E. Brule's, they are making the yard much larger, and intend this summer to work on a more extensive scale. Last year they made two million bricks and sold them at from seven to nine dollars per thousand. If the weather keeps favorable, they expect to commence making bricks shortly after Assembly Hall Services.—At the Assembly Hall, yesterday afternoon, the congregation was first addressed by President George Q. Cannon. He first treated upon the importance attached by the Latter-day Saints to all that pertains to earthly existence, the genius of their religion leading them to take that position. The God they worshipped was a Being of mechanical, governmental and creative power. His first recorded communication to man was of a practical character. In the days of Enoch, Moses and others he revealed principles and laws for the government of the people best adapted to the wants of those to whom they were communicated. Our government, the finest earthly form extant, was considered the ripened fruit of man's experience for ages, yet all the principles it incorporated had at some time or other been revealed from God. They were incorporated in the Gospel, which contained all that was good. It included the equality of man before God, and no man could be a follower of Christ in the one sense without embodying in his faith the common rights of humanity. Such was the faith of the Latter-day Saints and having such views it was ridiculous to assume that their growth was a menace to other communities. It was the duty of all Latter-day Saints to maintain the principles of human liberty.

The speaker proceeded to show that God had shown His hand in every considerable change and revolution that had occurred in the world, and that the good of the earth never persecuted the wicked, but the latter invariably opposed and oppressed the good. Those inspired by Satan had sought to destroy man's agency from the beginning. The Latter-day Saint had escaped another peril, and when the deliverances wrought out by God were reviewed amazement was the result. The people had escaped, by His matchless power, a condition of bondage that would have been intolerable. A year ago, on March 22nd, there was rejoicing among the persecutors of the Saints including preachers, politicians, and the general rabble, because they thought the ruin of this people had arrived, or the means of its accomplishment had been attained, and yet to-day peace pervaded the community. Were it not for God and the realization of His promises the Saints could not endure.

President Cannon proceeded to show, very instructively and clearly, the influence the Gospel, as revealed through Joseph Smith, was having in the world. Doctrines and principles that were revealed by that system fifty years ago, and were then considered absurd were now being received as truth—notably the doctrines of repentance beyond the grave and preaching to departed spirits; the eternal duration of matter; the six periods of the creation, in place of six ordinary days; cures of the sick by faith and prayer, etc. Thus a little heaven was leaving the whole lump and truth was being established in the hearts of men. God was working among all nations as well as among the Saints.

The legislation aimed at the Saints was a blow at the platform of the Democratic party, although members of that political body who supported the Edmunds law seemed to be ignorant of that fact until Jeremiah S. Black, an apostle of democracy, expounded the doctrines of the organization. The efficacy of per-ge was exemplified in the baffling of the late attempts to enact a supplemental legislation. On the evening of the 23d of February, President Taylor felt exercised as if a great peril existed and called upon a number of brethren to join in supplicating God to circumvent any attempt against the liberties of the people. It was remarkable that at that time it appeared inevitable that an intemperate measure should pass. Senator Edmunds made attempts to have it passed, but a quorum could not be obtained, and if a quorum was obtained he was powerless in answer to prayer. Heavenly messengers and influences were put in operation to prevent the passage of the legislation. Doubtless the Saints had prayed that the Lord might continue to deliver his people from the snares of those seeking to oppress them. It showed the efficacy of prayer, and when petitions to the throne of grace were answered, it inspired those who offered them with greater confidence.

Elder John T. Cairne next addressed the congregation. He was pleased to be once more at home among his brethren and friends, and to mingle with them in their religious worship. He felt thankful for the deliverance that had been brought about from threatened oppression. Those who opposed the Latter-day Saints were not aware of their true position. They did not know the nature of the principles of the religion of the Saints. They set up a system and called it "Mormonism," when, as a matter of fact it had no resemblance to it. Those who wished to understand the religion and objects of any people could only get correct information from that people themselves. We were asked why we did not relinquish principles that were obnoxious to so many. We were engaged in a great moral and religious reform, and no principle could be should be renounced because of opposition. Not only should the Latter-day Saints rejoice that the opponents of liberty had been once more defeated, but all good people everywhere should share this sentiment of rejoicing. Had the result been other wise, the liberties of other people would have been liable to an attack.

A Team Incident.—About noon to-day a team was passing down East Temple Street hauling a plow. The implement bounded about considerably and struck Mr. T. W. Elbert's buggy, in front of Z. C. M. L. The horse plunged and kicked, causing the vehicle to be dashed against an adjacent express wagon and the driver, a son of Mr. Elbert's, to be thrown out and kicked. Fortunately he was not seriously hurt. The buggy was somewhat damaged.

Fire at Minersville.—On Thursday last the house of Edwin Myers, of Minersville, Beaver County, with its contents, was totally destroyed by fire. Mrs. Myers was out visiting and sent some of her children home ahead to make a fire. Sparks from the fuel flew around and the place was soon ablaze. A subscription was raised in aid of the sufferers, the people stepping forward to assist them with marked generosity. So we learn from the Union.

Serious Runaway.—Yesterday a couple of residents of the Sixth Ward went some miles west of the city on a shooting expedition, taking with them a team and wagon. Towards evening the mules with a fragment of the wagon attached came dashing into town, and ran around the school house. Besides the wrecking of the wagon, one of the mules was badly hurt. These were not by any means the most serious effects of the affair. On seeing the runaway without the driver Mrs. Mary Watson became so alarmed for their safety that she was suddenly prostrated and has been seriously ill ever since, a complaint with which she has been afflicted having been aggravated by the shock to her nervous system.

The Lecture.—Mr. Phil Robinson lectures to-morrow evening in the Salt Lake Theatre on his Personal Adventures as a War Correspondent in Afghanistan, India, Zululand and Egypt. Quite apart from the lecturer's popularity in the Territory—which we feel sure is enough in itself to ensure him a full house, Mr. Robinson has the advantage of coming before the Salt Lake public with specially attractive subject matter. His descriptions of the "First Time Under Fire"—shell-fire, rifle-fire, round cannon-shot, and the assassin's musket—are as graphic as possible and would alone suffice for a lecture. But Mr. Robinson devotes one-half of the evening to the subject and passes on to review the most exciting episodes of each campaign in succession. The Afghan war provides him with a laughable but perilous ride on a run-away camel; with a most picturesque murder in the Kohat Pass; two attempts to kill him on his way between the city of Candahar and British India, and a very thrilling adventure with a Mahomedan fanatic in the city of Candahar itself. Again, among his experiences of the Zulu war are the accounts of the Prince Imperial's death at the hands of the Zulus (the news of which the lecturer was the first to ride away with and to give to the world), and his own escape with a party of seventeen English officers from a five hours' pursuit by an immense number of Zulus, after visiting the scene of the massacre of the British troops at Isandhlawana. From the Egyptian war (from which Mr. Robinson has just returned) the lecturer selects the procession of the British fleet through the Suez Canal; the charge by moonlight of the Life Guards; the victory of Tel-el-Kebir and the rush upon Cairo that followed; the finding of midshipman Du Chaur in the lecturer's hands in his prison; and the lecturer's marvelous escape from the enemy when returning from Cairo to Alexandria by train.

FIRE BLOOD.

Many families pride themselves on their noble ancestry; but here, in this democratic country we do not care so much about pedigree as our health; or, at least, that ought to be the principal object of our solicitude. We cannot have good health if we are overworked, or if we are in the least out of order, disease manifests itself in the skin and flesh, and in fact, in all parts of the system. To restore to health, take Scott's Emulsion or Blood and Liver Syrup. Physicians speak in the highest terms of this medicine.

Dr. Everett, Cooper Plains, Stouven Co., N. Y. mentions two cases of Scrofula and Erysipelas in which Scott's Emulsion or Blood and Liver Syrup effected a cure, and says, "I think it one of the best purifiers of the blood. It has met with perfect success in every case where I have used it."
