MAY WEATHER REPORT.

Report of the Utah Weather Service for the Month of May, 1895.

Temperature—The temperature for May, 1895, averaged about one degree below the normal; the average for the Territory being 57 degrees. The highest monthly mean, 68.4, was recorded at Manti, and the lowest, 45.2 degrees, at Soldier summit. The highest temperature recorded during the month was 99 degrees at St. George, on the 7th, 8th and 28th, and the lowest, 19 degrees, at Fillmore, on the 14th, making the range of temperature for the Territory 80 degrees. At stations having self-registering instruments, the greatest local monthly range was 78 degrees at Fillmore, and the least local monthly range 59 degrees at Salt Lake City. The warmest days were the 7th, 14th and 15th, and the coldest the 8th, 9th, 10th and 28th.

Precipitation—Average for the Territory 1.49 inches, which is about .70 of an inch below the normal. The greatest monthly amount recorded was 2.59 inches at Millville, and the least amount, .10 of an inch at Ulida. The average number of days on which .01 of an inch or more of precipitation in the shape of rain and melted snow fell was 6. The principal part of the precipitation fell during the first and last weeks of the month.

Snowfall—(Stations and Amounts)—Fillmore, 10 inches; Grouse Creek, 1.5 inches; Ogden, 1.5 inches; Parowan, 6 inches; Soldier Summit, 3 inches, and a trace at Salt Lake City.

The University Summer School.

Leading members of the faculty of the University of Chicago attend some courses in regular work in the building of the institution. It was then largely a private affair undertaken in the interests of various teachers and to the cause of education in Utah. The results were so encouraging and the demand for such work has been so great that it has been decided to make the Summer School a permanent feature of the University work, and hereafter the University will periodically hold a brief summer session, although the work at present is still carried on on the responsibility of the faculty.

By this Summer School many teachers are able to refresh their knowledge of subjects that they are teaching, get new ideas and methods of presenting those subjects, and answer their study and investigation in lines in which they are interested. Students, also, who have been compelled to leave school before graduating their course find in these summer sessions opportunities that they had supposed were beyond their reach. Most institutions of higher education are finding that their best, their most effective university extension work is done in these summer schools as they are called.

To get good results, students must have access to libraries, museums and laboratories, and these are rarely within reach except to those living near an institution of higher learning.

More extensive and more extended courses are to be offered the coming session than were given last season, and in addition Dr. J. F. Millspaugh, superintendent of schools of Salt Lake City, will deliver a course of five lectures on School Management and Administration. There will also be a course of free evening lectures by Dr. Talmage, Dr. Park, Dr. Maxwell, Commissioner Lewis and others. Those attending lectures will be upon popular topics, and the public are cordially invited to attend them.

The session for 1895 begins Monday, June 24th, and continues until Friday, August 2nd.

Work is easier, care is lighter, the table better, the household more healthful and contented whenever Dr. Price's Baking Powder is used.

On the Tour.

Letters received from members of the Salt Lake Concert company, who are now in Colorado, continue to speak in glowing terms of the reception they are meeting with on their tour. They sang on the 14th at the Manti tabernacle, where a great crowd was present and where a regular ovation was tendered them. One letter says that had they been all natives of Manti they could not have been given a more royal "send off." The Manti choir, under the leadership of the well-known musician Prof. A. C. Smythe, silenced to a body and sang two selections. President John R. Mason pronounced a seeling prayer, and Willard Weihe made a speech on behalf of the company, exhorting grove ally to the work. Prof. Smythe held close to the cause of the divine art. Prof. Smythe afterwards said the visit of the Concert company and its rich entertainment would be of immense benefit to him in his labors. On the 15th a picnic was given at Mount Pleasant, the usual program being given and that St. Peter was present also to take part through extreme carelessness. Sunday afternoon, the 16th, the company went to about 5:30 p.m. at Castle Gate, an excursion having been run from Provo to the latter on the first contest outside of Utah was given at Grand Junction, where a big house, enthusiastic encores of every number and fine newspaper notices were the result. The company was very generally entertained at this point by Mrs. Crawford, who was formerly Miss Hansen, daughter of this city, an old friend of Messrs. Goddard and Pyper. On the 18th the company performed at one of the most delightful hotels in Glenwood Springs, Colorado's big summer resort. The audience was hardly up to the average here, on account of the late opening of the summer season, but the people were appreciative and quite generous in the matter of encores. A complimentary concert was given at Aspen, the audience being good and very liberal on the program and over the members of the company were found with. Wonder of the road and pluck of the tiny little singing party.

The letters from which the above information is gleaned were written from Leadville, where the company sang on the 20th; they also visited Ten Mile Canyon (Upper Tunnel town) and the visitors to the mines somewhat, but all were well and are certain was it a good trip.

SAVED MRS. RENNIE'S LIFE.

Mrs. Jessie Rennie of Virgil, N. Y., had been sick for a year or more with ovarian of the gall and ulcers of the stomach. Physicians said her life could not live. Mrs. Rennie's mother had found much benefit from the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and induced her daughter to use it, which she did, with the result that it cured her of these diseases, and she says she was never so well as now.
