FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY, AUG. 6

Board of Canvassers.—The Utah Commission have named as the Board to canvass the returns of the late election: Arthur L. Thomas, Salt Lake County; Frederick W. Hoyt, Summit County; Melvin B. Sowles, Salt Lake County; W. C. A. Bryan, Juab County; and Wm. W. Riter, Salt Lake County. The Board will meet on Wednesday next, August 11th, at 11 a. m., in the rooms of the Utah Commission, to perform their labors.

Sister Carrington's Funeral.—The funeral services over the remains of Sister Rhoda Maria Carrington were held at the family residence, in the 17th Ward, at three o'clock yesterday afternoon. The speakers on the occasion were Apostle John Henry Smith, and Bishops John Tingey and Frederick Kessler. The remarks were comforting to the bereaved, and were mainly directed to describing the nobility of character and exalted virtues of the deceased. The attendance was large.

Severe Accident.—A dispatch received in this city gives the following account of an accident which occurred at Milford, Utah, yesterday:

David Reese met with a painful accident while at work in the Adelia mine, North Star District, at 3 o'clock this morning, caused by a box of giant caps exploding in his hand, lacerating his face and blowing off one hand completely, the other being badly shattered. He also received a very severe cut in his leg. Upon examination it was found necessary to amputate the mangled portion of the hand above the wrist, the operation being performed by Dr. Winceyow, of Beaver. At last accounts he was resting as easily as could be expected.

Large Contract.—Mr. Elias Morris the well-known contractor and builder, of this city, is about to begin the erection of extensive works for the operators of the Blue Bird mine, at Butte City, Montana. These works will be almost a duplicate of those at the Ontario mine, above Park City, and include two furnaces, six retorts, three dryers, two large stacks, three double boilers and a melting furnace. The 30,000 fire brick to be used will be furnished by Mr. Morris, who will take with him to direct the labor a number of his most experienced and practical men. One million common brick will be needed for the buildings.

FROM SATURDAY'S DAILY, AUG. 7.

Bound Over.—Mr. Harry Holt, of Millard County, was taken to Ogden yesterday afternoon, and arraigned before Commissioner Felschaw on a charge of grand larceny. It is alleged that a couple of years ago Orth Brothers placed a number of calves in Mr. Holt's care, and that he refuses to give them up. The examination before the Commissioner was waived and the defendant held in $2,000 bonds.

Overcome by the Heat.—On Thursday afternoon Mrs. H. Leyland was standing outside of her house in the Eleventh Ward, conversing with another lady. She had been there but a few moments when a feeling came over her, causing her to exclaim that she had been struck by something. She fell to the ground in a swoon, and was taken into the house and restoratives applied. It was some time, however, before she regained consciousness, and the effects of the intense heat, which was the cause of her sickness, have not yet disappeared.

Dropped Dead.—About 10:30 o'clock last night, Charles N. Monch, of Montana, was standing at the gate in front of his father-in-law's residence, at the corner of East Temple and Sixth South streets, when he had a sudden attack of heart disease and fell to the ground unconscious. Efforts were made to revive him, but he expired in a few moments. He has been a sufferer from the disease for some time. He leaves a wife (the daughter of John Hepworth) and one child. His age was about 38 years. The funeral will be held to-morrow.

Obsequies.—The funeral services over the remains of Charles S. Whitney were held at the family residence yesterday afternoon. The attendance was large, many being unable to gain admittance to the house. The proceedings were conducted by Elder Robert Patrick. The opening prayer was offered by Elder W. B. Barton and the benediction was pronounced by Patriarch John Smith. Elders John Nicholson and C. W. Stayner were the speakers. The dedicatory prayer at the grave was offered by Bishop John Q. Cannon.

Language and Music.—Mr. Godfrey Hessel, an accomplished scholar, is about to open classes in languages and music—organ and piano. For this purpose he has fitted up a room at 55 N. Second West Street, where he will begin teaching at 8 n. m. on Monday, August 9th. Those who wish the benefit of his services should make early application, either at the address given above, or at this office. He will also give private lessons at the residence of pupils, if they so desire. Mr. Hessel is eminently qualified to teach the branches herein mentioned.

Killed a Dog.—Between 6 and 7 o'clock last evening a young man named Ellerbeck was driving through the Sixteenth Ward. When passing the residence of Mrs. Gray, whose husband was killed in a railway accident at Ogden a short time ago, a large dog belonging to the lady got into a fight with Ellerbeck's dog. The young man became enraged, jumped out of his buggy and shot the animal owned by Mrs. Gray, which was considered a very valuable one. Complaint was made in the justice's court to-day, and an investigation will be had as to whether or not Ellerbeck did what was right in the premises.

Arrested for Grand Larceny.—This morning Marshal Frank H. Dyer arrived from Evanston, Wyoming, bringing with him George Rauber, who was arrested on an indictment for grand larceny, found by the grand jury of the Second District. Rauber will be remembered as the person who, in connection with his partner, Geo. B. Warren, also of Beaver County, received letters from the east relative to counterfeit money, and who invested all his property in the spurious bills. Both then went east to carry out their nefarious designs. The parties to whom they sent their cash, however, never gave them anything in return, so the speculators were badly bitten. In converting their property into money, Rauber sold a team and buggy belonging to Warren, according to his story, at the latter's request. He is now charged with having stolen the team, and his former partner is the complaining witness. All the facts will probably be brought out at the trial. Rauber was sent to the penitentiary in default of bail.

Missionary Labors.—Elder M. P. Madsen, of Ephraim, Sanpete County, recently returned from a mission to Scandinavia, for which place he left Salt Lake City on the 11th of October, 1884, in company with 27 other missionaries. On November 1st he arrived in Copenhagen, where he was sick for some time, from the effects of the damp climate. He was assigned to labor as traveling Elder in the Copenhagen Conference, where he remained one year preaching the Gospel, and acquired a fair knowledge of the Danish language. During this period Elder Madsen and his companion held a meeting in the city of Callunborg, where the Elders had not been for eight years. There was a large audience present, and when the name of Joseph Smith was mentioned the tumult began. At last order was restored sufficiently to close the meeting with singing and prayer, and the Elders started from the hall. They were set on by a mob of about 25 drunken men, but fortunately managed to get out of the building unhurt, though they were jostled about considerably. A large crowd then followed them, but they successfully eluded them and got off safe.

Brother Madsen was next sent to labor in Jutland, in the Aalborg Conference, but was only permitted to remain two weeks. They were waited on by the chief of police, who, after examining their passports, informed them of the edict of banishment. For the next eight months Elder Madsen labored successfully in the Aarhus Conference, where quite a number received and embraced the Gospel.

In April, 1886, he was assigned to the Isle of Fyen, where the feeling against the Saints was very bitter. Every Elder of foreign birth was banished if discovered. Fortunately Elder Madsen was enabled to perform his duties there unmolested, and after a visit to Sjalland, to the relatives of his parents, and obtaining some genealogical data, he was released to return home, having greatly enjoyed his missionary experiences.

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY, AUG. 9

Already Published.—We have received from O. J. Anderson a well-written description of the details of the suicide, at Castle Dale, of C. H. Halvorsen. As the particulars of the tragedy have already appeared in our columns, however, it is deemed unnecessary to publish the account in question.

Petty Larceny.—On Saturday night a soldier named Michael Burns went to Maxtral's second-hand store and hired a suit of citizen's clothing, which he donned to go on a spree. About three o'clock Sunday morning he returned and again clothed himself in a soldier's garb. As he was leaving the store, however, he took a vest and attempted to make off with it. He was seen by the man in charge and the nightwatchman, who escorted him to the City Hall, where he will be tried on the charge of petty larceny.

All Tremendous Crash.—Last evening's storm was introduced by a sudden gust of wind from the north which made things movable rattle about tremendously. The first blast caught the builder's scaffold contiguous to the new tower above Prospect Hill, lifted it bodily, and sent it to the ground with a crash, scattering the timbers in every direction. The frame must have been stoutly constructed, as it remained intact until it struck the ground. Of course the tower itself was entirely uninjured. In fact it is built so solidly that probably nothing short of an earthquake would be likely to affect its equilibrium.

Arrests.—On Friday evening, at West Weber, Weber County, John Douglas was arrested by U. S. Deputy Marshals Eckson and McMillan, on the charge of unlawful cohabitation. He was taken before U. S. Commissioner Felschaw and waived examination. He gave bonds in the sum of $1,500 to await the action of the grand jury.

Soren L. Peterson was arrested at Ogden on Saturday, on an indictment containing several counts and charging cohabitation with more than one wife. He was formerly under $1,500 bonds to await the grand jury's investigation of his family affairs. Bail was fixed at $2,000, D. H. Peery and Josiah Ferrin being sureties.

"Historical Record."—The July number of this useful magazine, published by Andrew Jensen, 154 N. Second West Street, Salt Lake City, is out. Among its contents is a brief history of the First Seven Presidents of all the Seventies, and an interesting sketch of Sister Amanda Smith. The last 20 pages contain Church chronology from 1853 to 1883, and is valuable for reference. The publisher intends to complete this part of the work the present season, so that every subscriber for the current volume will, at its close possess a complete chronology of important events in the history of the Church from its rise to the close of 1884, besides the magazine itself. The subscription price is $1.25 per annum.

The Missing O'Brien.—Last week an item was published in the News regarding the mysterious departure of one Charles O'Brien from his home in the First Ward, and the consequent anxiety of his wife for his safety. On Saturday evening Mrs. O'Brien received the following telegram from Mr. T. L. Allen, of Coalville, Summit County:

"Your husband stopped with me last night (Friday, Aug. 6th). He left for Evanston this morning. He is well."

Mrs. O'Brien is of course in a very excited state of mind over what seems to be the desertion of herself and babe by her husband. From present appearances it would seem that O'Brien is making his way out of this part of the country. His wife made application to the U. S. Marshal this morning to see whether he could be brought back, but as no offense is charged against him, the officer could do nothing in the premises.

Shocking Fatality.—A correspondent at Mine No. 3, Almy, Wyoming, sends the following account of a fatal accident which happened there on Saturday, August 7th:

A horrible accident happened here this morning, whereby Brother George Newbold, 63 or 64 years of age, was instantly killed. From all the information that I can glean, it was a clear case of reckless handling of loaded coal cars—in the hands of a newly-appointed boss over the top men—at the mine. The cars, when loaded, are switched off on a down grade. Brother Newbold was running the two front cars down to the switch, while the boss, Tom Curran, took off the brakes of five cars behind; he allowed the cars to have too much headway and they got beyond his control. Seeing his danger, he jumped off and shouted to Brother Newbold to do the same, but it was too late, the shock of the cars coming together knocked the unfortunate man under the wheels, severing his head from his body, which was otherwise mangled about the left hand and right arm.

Further particulars may be learned after the inquest by Coroner A. M. Bisbing and a jury.

Deceased leaves a wife and large family.

A version of the affair given by a correspondent at Almy, differs in some respects from this. It is stated that Brother Newbold was taking two flat cars from the dump of No. 3 mine, and being unable to hold them with the brakes they collided with some other cars which were standing about 400 feet from the mine. He was thrown on to the track and two wheels passed over his neck, leaving the head hanging by a small piece of skin. The arms and body were otherwise mangled, and presented a sickening sight. The deceased was 63 years of age on the 3d of June last, and was a late arrival from the Nottingham Conference. A wife and seven children are left to mourn the loss of a kind father.

At the coroner's inquest the jury returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death by running two loaded cars which had become unmanageable from the mine; and that this action was not in the regular line of his duty, but was under orders from the boss, Thomas Curran.

DROWNED IN JORDAN.

THOMAS JACKSON FINDS A WATERY GRAVE.

Last evening Jordan River, near the Black Bridge, was the scene of another drowning, the victim in this instance being Thomas Jackson, an old man about 65 years of age. Yesterday afternoon, being Sunday, he was off work and got in the company of Sam. Newton (a blacksmith, who has an unenviable record in the police court) and a number of others, and all engaged in drinking liquor. Jackson and Newton entered into an argument as to their respective abilities as swimmers, and finally a wager was made, each one putting up his watch on a race of five hundred yards, in the Jordan. Jackson repented of his action, however, and took back his watch, but was so taunted by Newton that he renewed the agreement, and they started for the river. They were accompanied by James Holland, Robert Lemmon and Edward Maynes, the latter holding the watches to award to the winner. On the way down Jackson seemed rather dubious about entering the water, but was urged on by the sneers of Newton, who was anxious for the match.

About half-past 8 o'clock both men entered the water just north of the bridge, and started out. They were somewhat under the influence of liquor at the time. After going about 100 yards one of those on the bank noticed that Jackson had given out, and was sinking. He was at this time about ten feet from the bank, in the current, and Newton was about fifteen feet farther off. The man who saw that Jackson was failing called to Newton to push him to the bank as he was drowning. Newton replied, "To hell with him. Let him go," and swam on the full distance, when he got out. As the parties on the bank could not swim, Jackson received no assistance and soon sank. When Newton returned to the starting point he claimed the two watches. Maynes refused to give Jackson's up, but as he was the smaller man, he was compelled to. The parties then left the scene of the accident, and Maynes reported at the City Hall, where Jackson's clothes were taken.

In the pockets of the deceased's clothing was found $6.25 in silver. On Saturday he had drawn $19.75 of his pay. He was a native of England, where he had a family. Several years ago he came to Utah, and has been somewhat addicted to drinking. Lately, however, he seemed to be steadier, and was employed by Mr. Bamberger, who had him at Lake Park working for him.

Efforts have been made to recover the body but up to the present writing it had not been found.

SAN FRANCISCO, 6.—At the third day's session of the National Encampment to-day the committee on resolutions submitted a report denouncing polygamy; that Congress be asked to pass such laws as will eradicate the evil from the country.

The feature of the afternoon session was the discussion over the service pension bill.

The Department of Massachusetts offered a resolution favoring the passage by Congress of a bill which provides for a pension of eight dollars a month to every surviving soldier and sailor of the war whether disabled or not.

The committee on resolutions, to whom the matter was referred, reported adversely.

Bennett, of Indiana, submitted a minority report favoring the measure.

A vote was first taken on the latter and defeated by 327 to 86.

Several efforts were made during the day to bring up the consideration of the next Encampment place, but without avail.

A session will be held this evening, when it is supposed both the selection of a place for the next Encampment and the election of officers will be accomplished.

CHICAGO, 7.—In the Anarchist trial to-day the defendant Fielden was on the stand again. He denied having any knowledge of the dynamite plot and in his speech he declared he did not urge that any overt act be committed against any particular person or persons; that his remarks were simply directed against the present social system.

The other witnesses for the defense gave immaterial testimony.

The only testimony of any particular importance this afternoon was that of S. T. Ingram and John Burnet. The former witness swore that the circular calling the Haymarket meeting, which he produced in court, was given to him on the street the night of May 4th, shortly before the meeting took place. The circular was one of those from which the words, "Workingmen array yourselves and appear in force" had been omitted.

This was the only circular of the kind that had been presented in evidence by the defense. It had been preserved since the Haymarket riot by the witness who was present at the meeting. The State presented in evidence a lot of circulars taken from the Arbeiter Zeitung's office, from which the words mentioned had not been expunged, and the defense has presented a number of revised ones, but till now no one of them has been traced to the hands of an eye witness of the riot, who had received it from the distributor.

John Burnet is an ordinary looking young German who said he was a cigar maker.

He was standing 30 feet south of the entrance to Crane's alley on the Haymarket, when the bomb exploded. The State's attorneys picked up their ears at once.

"Did you see the bomb thrown?"

"I did."

"Did you see the man who threw the bomb?"

"I did."

"How did he throw the bomb?"

Stand up and show the jury how he did it.

Witness stood up and went through the motion of throwing something into the air with his right hand toward the northwest.

Witness was then given a picture of Schaubel.

"Is that the man you saw throw the bomb?"

"I don't think it is."

The cross-examination was devoted to a comparison of the witness' present statement with those he made to the State's attorney on May 4th. Since that time witness had visited the scene of the riot and taken the measurements of distances between the entrance to the alley and where he stood, and from where the bomb was thrown to where he stood. He had them carefully entered in his note book, and they were as nearly the same as those the State's Attorney could be expected, taking into consideration that the night was dark and the witness' memory unaided. The State has claimed that the bomb was thrown from very near the entrance to the alley. Burnet's testimony makes the spot further south by nearly thirty feet.

The cross-examination was concluded somewhat dramatically by the State's Attorney, as follows, after which the court adjourned till Monday:

"What did you do when the bomb exploded?"

"I went away."

"What for?"

"Because I didn't want to be killed."

"You say you saw the bomb explode?"

"Yes sir."

"Did you know it was a bomb?"

"Yes sir."

"You may go."

DENVER, 7.—An El Paso special says: Cutting was sentenced late this afternoon. The sentence is one year's imprisonment at hard labor and $500 fine. If he is unable to pay the fine there will be 100 more days imprisonment at hard labor. The judge gives Medina, the prosecutor, leave to enter a civil suit against Cutting for damages after the sentence expires. In reference to the recommendation of the public prosecutor that Consul Brigham should be complained of to the United States and his removal requested, the judge says that he will refer that question to the Supreme Court in Chihuahua. It is now thought that Cutting will be hurried off to Chihuahua before morning. There is some alarm in El Paso about an attempt at lynching, but it is unfounded.

CITY OF MEXICO, 7.—It is announced on good authority that U. S. Minister Jackson has resigned, but that Secretary Bayard has not yet accepted his resignation. It is said Minister Jackson's resignation has no connection with the recent border troubles, as it was filed in June last. Mr. Jackson has had the confidence and respect of the Mexican government and the American citizens of Mexico.

LAREDO, TEXAS, 7.—A detachment of 400 Mexican troops arrived in Nuevo Laredo last night. They are principally infantry and artillery and brought two cannon along with them. They have placed the cannon to command Fort McIntosh on the Texas side of the Rio Grande, and have been noticed taking observations from their positions all day. Considerable indignation is expressed by the Americans at the arrival of these troops, and this action on the part of the Mexicans does not argue well for a peaceful solution of the present difficulties.

PARIS, 7.—The Mexican minister here has sent a communication to the papers, in which he says that a conflict will not arise between Mexico and the United States over the Cutting affair. He concludes with the statement that Mexico is perfectly tranquil.

KANSAS CITY, 7.—As foreshadowed yesterday, the city authorities are to-day stopping street-car travel in an attempt to enforce payment of the delinquent license tax on the street cars. About 60 cars have been stopped since 11 o'clock to-day on five lines and the drivers arrested. These lines are all the property of the Metropolitan Railway Company, which recently bought out the Corrigan Consolidated Company. The back tax in question—$1,500—has not been paid, and is contested by the new company. The Mayor says the cars cannot start until the taxes are paid. The street-car company officials say the delay only increases the city's liabilities in the way of damages.

A temporary restraining order was issued late this afternoon by Judge Stover, enjoining the authorities from interfering with the street car travel, and it was accordingly resumed. The order is made returnable the 16th inst. The present demand of the city, it appears, is not for the old tax, but for the license from July 1st, when the new company assumed control.

CINCINNATI, 7.—The mill and grain house of Fleischman's distillery, in the Millock bottom, were burned to-night shortly after midnight. The warehouse and distillery proper are located on the opposite side of the street and there is great danger that these may catch. The loss so far is over $100,000. Partially insured.

PHILADELPHIA, 7.—A telephone message just received at the Associated Press office at 10 p. m., says that the schooner Henry Diston is ashore at Abaco inlet, and there is also a distressed schooner of the brigantine build flying signals of distress. The sea is so rough that the life saving crew are unable to go to them.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., 7.—The Courier-Journal's special from Ashland gives particulars of a railroad accident by which four lives were lost and two people fatally injured. The wreck occurred on the Chesapeake & Ohio road, between two freight trains near Limestone on a short curve. Both trains were running wild.

YONKERS, 7.—President Cleveland, accompanied by Secretaries Manning, Endicott and Whitney, left for New York at 12:15.
