Mr. Bryan's subject was "Moral Courage," and he took occasion to shower encomiums on the guest of the evening for his notable display of that evening for his botable display of that quality in 1896, at the time of his with-drawal from the Republican party to follow silver. He said: "Some may be disposed to stamp the word 'failure' up the political career of our distinguished guest, but he has set an example that must weigh heav-ily on the side of divic virtue. He has found without displayer a fire as hot faced without flinching a fire as hot and bilish as ever came from cannon's mouth, and he has won a victory great er and more glorious than ever crowned the life of one who fawned at the feel power or bartered away his manhood to secure an office,"

Bryan did not inject any politics into his speech, which was brief and direct iargely to Mr. Towne. He said: 'Great issues are at stake; great inter ests are involved, even our civilization itself, and through us the civilization of the world. This nation is a world pow-er; it has not acquired its influence by war, but for a century its ideas have been permeating the world, and every citizen owes it to his country, as well as to his generation and posterity, to throw the weight of his influence on the right side of every public ques-
