SALT LAKERS IN GOTHAM.

Special Correspondence,

EW YORK, March 1 .- It is the regret of her many friends, that Miss Ada Patterson is so closely conflued to work, that it is out of the question to even catch a glimpse of her charming self. The last edition : of her book, "By the Stage Door," is sold, and now the public may be looking for another which will excel in Interest the last one. As is probably Miss Patterson writes the monthly interviews with actors and actresses in the Theater Magazine. The famous beauty, Lillian Russell, is the latest to be interviewed. Miss Patterson's talents are recognized in the literary world, and in the office of her employer, Mr. Hearst, her opinions and jodgment are often sought, but it matters not how her time is occupied, she ters not how her time is occupied, size has a word of welcome for her Utah friends that is sincere and hearty; and a five minutes talk with her on news-a five minutes talk with her on news-paper or magazine work is always re-paper or magazine work is always re-reshing to anyone interested in the news of the day. Mrs. Hai Russell (Ada Dwyer) ran up from Philadelphia Saturday night after the performance to spend Sunday with her friends at the Waldorf, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Whitney. "Merely Mary Ann" is having a most successful run in the city of "Brotherly Love."

At No. 3 West One Hundred and Third At No. 3 west only inducted and Third street. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Plunket, formerly of Salt Lake, have been spend-ing the winter. It isn't often their Utab friends see them, business keeping Mr. Plunket for long hours, leaving ittle time for visiting.

It is with real pleasure we recount the engagement of Julia Dean with so talented an actor as E. J. Morgan-"The Gentieman From Indiana" is a role well suited to Morgan, and that Miss Dean has been selected to play the leading lady is surely a long stride in her adopted work, and one she is thoroughly capable of filling. Feb. 27, at Indianapolis, saw the opening per-formance, and best wishes for Miss Dean's success go with her, Mrs. Morton, Miss Dean's grandmother, has suffered a stroke of paralysis, but is uffered a stroke of paralysis, but is slowly improving.

Mr. Dudley Oatman, son of Wm. Oat-man, formerly of Walker Bros., has joined the sextet of the "Earl and the Gel, that is now rehearsing at Lyric hall, Forty-second street and which will be produced in Chicago March 12.

On Washington's birthday, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Whitney, Mrs. Col. Willard Young, Miss Retta Pyper and Miss Hattle Whitney took the train for Vas-sar college to visit with the Misses Hattle and Clara Young, who are stu-dents there. A most delightful day was upent by all, tobogganing being the popular sport, was indulged in by the party, the experience being novel and exciting to western travelers, especially exciting to western travelers, especially to that portion of the party who have outgrown their coasting days.

The Relief society, which organized at 20 West Twenty-fourth street Tuesday, Feb. 21, has for its president Mrs. F G. Pack, and first and second coun-selors Mrs. J. R. Clarke and Miss Flor-Ralfson. The study of the Book Mormon will be taken up very thoroughly with other work, under the efficient management of Prest. Pack, Meetings will be held at the above address, every Tuesday evening.

The late Jas A. Herne, will be rewered well by the old theater goers of Utah, and it is pleasant to note the inherited talent of his children. Misses Julia and Chrystal Herne, have shown remarkable ability along dramatic lines. Julia has written a play that produced next week at Carne e Lyceum, as a sort of starter, with a excellent cast. Great hopes are ingie Lyce dulged in by her many friends, for the life and success of the venture, Crys-tal Herns will play an important role ne will play an important role in the piece. . . .

weeks. Mr. Savage is here in the interest of his firm.

At the Waldorf there are many Salt Lakers at present, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Salisbury and daughter, Col. and Mrs. C. A. Walker and Mrs. Treweek, who will be guests of that popular hotel for a few days.

At Vassar college, Saturday evening, "Old Heidelberg" was given by the girl students. Miss Phyilis Thatcher vent up to Poughkeepsie to visit with her cousing, the Misses Hattle and Clara Young, and to witness the per-formance, which she says was most creditable in every way.

gling in throwin gthe dust or catching The three day session of the Ameri-can Newspapers Pubslishing associa-tion came to an end Thursday. Over 200 of the principal newspapers of the country were represented. Mr. H. G. Whitney, of the "News" and Mr. Lipp-man, of the Tribune, being present from Salt Lake.

Col. Willard Young made a flying trip to Washington the past week, on business, returning Saturday evening.

Elder Mark Hoibrook of Bountiful, who has been called to labor in the Philadelphia conference, spent several days with his friends, Mr. and Mrs. F. Y. Pack, in New York, visiting and Ogden still continues to send out good representatives. Sunday, Mr Parley Wright of the Wright Bros. farm, merchants, was a visitor to the chapel, and favored the congregation with a sermon. Mr. Wright is always a welcome guest; his brother, Charlie Wright, who accompanied him east, returned to Utah several days ago.

Last Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Early entertained a box party to see "Sweet Kittle Bellairs," (Henrietta Crosman) and after the performance partook of a sumptuous supper at the residence of Mr. Early. The guests were, Misses Florence Gwilliams, Leona and Tillie Taylor, and Clyde Squires. Mr. and Mrs. Early are particularly happy in their social are particularly happy in their social entertainments, being favorites with young and old.

In a theatrical way, this has been a season of good things and surprises, and first, among the artistic good things, comes the little afterthought of Maude Adams, in "Op o' Me Thumb," playing for just 30 minutes after "The Little Minister," and who wouldn't be willing to stay that 30 minutes, to see Miss Adams do a bit of character willing to stay that 30 minutes, to see Miss Adams do a bit of character work worthy the greatest artist? In dress make up, and dialect she has stepped on the stage, fresh from the London laundry room in the coster monger quarter. Her mother, Mrs. Annie Adams, taking a hand in the costume, has turned out as clever an outfit for the "Slavy" as can be im-agined. But the play, the humor, the pathos of it, the incomparable ten-derness of the nameless orphan, who hungers for even one loving word from a brute of a street gamin, all these, are set to the finest chords of melody.

a brute of a street gamin, all these, are set to the finest chords of melody, in the hands of Maude Adams. Not a moment is one allowed to think. She convulses her audience with her quaint humor, melts them to tears, surprises them with every turn of her bead, un-til laughter and tears struggle for mas-tery, and all the time the head un-til forlorn waif and admiration for the courage wrapped up in the frall body. "Amanda" is game to the end. Through the courtesy of Mr. Sam Myers, Miss Adams' manager, well known in Salt Adams' manager, well known in Salt Lake, being a dear friend of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Spencer and other residents of the Eighteenth ward, and known of the Eighteenth Ward, and Known throughout the profession, as one of Manager Charles Frohman's ablest lieutenants, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Whit-ney, Miss Hattie Whitney, Miss Retta Pyper, Mrs. R. C. Easton and niece, Miss Clawson, occupied a box Tuos-day evening at the Empire, to witness this artist's latest triumph, afterwards this artist's latest triumph, afterwards visiting Miss Adams in her dressing room to offer congratulations. Friday afternoon, the same party, with Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Pitts and Mr, Meyers, all spent a delightful 'wo hours with Miss Adams at her bijou home, where the charming hostess poured tea, and Mr. Meyers untiringly passed toast and sandwiches. All took part in conver-sation, scenes from home, with fa-millar names of by-gone days play-ing prominent parts, with possible reing prominent parts, with possible re unions in the future when New York' favorite again visits the west. "Op o' Me Thumb" will be counted among the great things she has done in her professional career. Other friends the great things she has done in her professional career. Other friends whom our Sait Lakers have visited with, are Emma Lucy Gates, Col. and Mrs. Willard Young and Miss Sallic Fisher, who is now rehearsing every day for Frank Daniels' new play, "Sergeant Brue," and playing every night in the "Office Boy." Of "race suicide," Mrs. Foster said: "I am pained to the heart to see the tendency of modern society against the rearing of large families. It seems to be considered that many children are joys which I have known. I am sorry for the one child or even two children who grow up without the large circle of brothers and sisters. I have borne only four children. I wish it had been twice that number.

The states to the north and south have been drained of surplus population for a decade to build up these virgin lands, but the process is not complete.

While vast tracts are still open to homesteading in other parts of the west, they are the refuse-the arid, rough or worthless claims, undesired by rough or worthless claims, undesired by the settlers of the last three decades. Little wonder, then, that the virgin lands of the Indian Territory, capable of producing a bale and a balf of cot-ton, seventy bushels of corn or forty-five bushels of wheat per acre, should be in demand, or that Oklahoma farms, with almost equal fertility, and which are to be subdivided and rearranged to suit the development of the country and the increasing population, should at-

I believe from the very depths of my being that American type—man and woman—is the best type the world knows today. I am glad I have done a little to he'p preserve the type. Surely an American woman who knows how superior is her position in the family and in soci-ety to that of any other woman—sure-ly she should be willing to give to the future in proportion as she has re-ceived from the past. Mrs. Foster has passed her sixtieth birthday. She has enjoyed almost uninbirthday. She has enjoyed almost unin-terrupted health during all her life and every day is now filled with in-tense activity. Her husband, E. C. Foster, is a lawyer in active practise, associated with the department of justice, and her sons are strong men doing their full share of the world's work. Late James M. Hardie.

J. M. Hardie, theatrical manager and actor, who will be well remembered in America, where he appeared years ago with many well known stars, and later toured the country with Mrs. Hardie (Sara Von Leer) in melodramas, returned to England and became known

Mr. Hurdie was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1846. He came to America as a lad and went on the stage in San Francisco in 1867. He came to the east-Francisco in 1857. He came to the east-ern states in 1872. Among his first New York appearances he played Lærtes to the Hamlet of Edwin Booth at the Ly-ceum theater on Nov. 20, 1876. He was in the cast at the Bowery theater Jung 22, 1877. When "Our Boarding House" *was produced at the Grand Opera House in December, 1878, Mr. Hardio appeared as Walter Darrympic. He sup-ported Fanny Louise Buckingnam in "Mazeppa" in 1877 at the Broadway theater. In 1879 he was in the support of John T. Raymond, appearing at the Mazeppa in 1914 at the Broaver theater, In 1875 he was in the support of John T. Raymond, appearing at the Grand Opera House as Rudoiph in "My Son," and as Col. George Shelby in "Colonel Sellers." On April 1, 1880, he appeared as De Baradas in Richelieu with Edwin Bootn at Booth's theater, and in the same en-gagement as Clarence in "Richard III," as as the king in "Hamiet." On May 30, 1881, he appeared with the Hoey and Hardie combination at the Grand Opera House as Count Mau-rice de Lancey in "A Child of the State," in which he did some forcible acting. He appeared in the same role at the Windsor theater in September, 1881, and was still playing it in the sea-son of 1882. On March 26, 1883, he appeared as 1881, and was still playing it in the sea-son of 1882. On March 26, 1883, he appeared as George Fielding in "Never Too Late to Mend," with George Clarke at Booth's theater. During the same season he appeared in "The Romany Rye" at the Fourteenth Street theater. In March, 1884, he played at the People's theater as Jack Hearne in "The Romany Rye." Sara Von Leer, the future wife of Mr. Hardje, playing the heroine. In 1885 he, with his wife, formed the Hardle-Von Leer company, which pre-sented "A Brave Woman" at the Grana Opera House and the Union Square theater, and finally on the road. In April, 1888, they were playing "On the Frontier" at the Bowery, Third Avenus, the Thalia and Windsor theaters, and also during the fail and winter season. They toured with the piece, but had some pecuniary hardships. They also presented the piece in New York dur-ing the season of 1889 at Jacobs' Third Avenue theater.
