FINDING that I should not have sufficient time to have Machinery manufactured in the Eastern States, in time to be freighted across the plains the coming season, it has been considered wisdom to defer my visit East.

I, therefore, now propose to leave here about the middle of October, and will spend the winter months in attending to all orders for Machinery, &c., that may be intrusted to me; and by that means will be enabled to freight across the plains the following season as early as the road will permit.
