"KID" REGAN'S LITTLE GAME.

Tried to Throw Officers Off the Scent With a Fake Story.

Peter Regan, known as "Kid" Regan, wanted in New York for the murder of Roy Joyce in a Broadway saloon last April, has been caught at Los Ange-les and will pass through Salt Lake in a few days in custody of a New York officer en route to the metropolis

For many months it was supposed that Regan was dead. A "pal" of the alleged murderer told the New York police that Regan had made his way police that Regard had made ins way after the murder to Pocatello, Ida., and that while trying to make his way to Salt Lake City was run over by a train and killed. He said that Regan was buried at Pocatello. The authori-ties started an investigation and found that the story was not true, but mere-ly a clever scheme to throw the officers ly a clever sche off the track.

Few events to which the historic halls of the Lion House are opened, exceed in warmth, geniality, and general in-terest, the annual sessions of the "Ver-mont Party," the band of 30 Utah peo-ple who, in Dec. 1905, journeyed to Sharon, Windsor County, Vt., to take part in the dedication of the monu-ment of the Prophet Joseph Smith. The third anniversary of this inter-esting event occurred yesterday, the birthday of the Prophet, and at the inbirthday of the Prophet, and at the invitation of the various committees, nearly all the members of the party, with their friends to the number of 150, or more, assembled last night to celebrate the occasion.

The first hour was passed in social conversation in the Lion House parlors. At 6 o'clock, the banquet hall was entered, where a "Green Mountain" dinner, provided by the gentlemen of the party as a return compliment to the ladies, who had served the meal on the last celebration, was partaken of. Chef King furnished the taken of. Cher King furnished the meal, which was a royal one, and the walters were young gentlemen, mostly sons of the members of the Vermont party. While the banquet went on, the Clive orchestra furnished appropriate then adjourned again to the parlors to give time for the clearing of the ban-quet hall, which was speedily arter conveyed an idea of the stupendous difficulties under which Mr. Wells la-bored, than the pictures showing the progress of the work. The Pyper, Whit-ney, Ensign, Spencer quartet, led the singing, and Prof. A. C. Lund, of Provo, gave "The Seer," in very artis-tic fashion. Patriarch Lorin Farr and Patriarch John Smith pronounced the provers and the other every second Patriarch John Smith pronounced the prayers, and the other exercises con-sisted of the "Messenger of Morn," by Orson F. Whitney, from his own poem of "Elias," "Our Respects to the Lad-ies," a sentiment delivered by Ben-jamin Goddard, a response by Miss Edith Smith, and some feeling remarks by President Joseph F. Smith, who re-called the beautiful experiences called the beautiful experiences through which the Vermont party had through which the Vermont part: had passed, and paid a special tribute to the labors of Elder Wells. The gathering adjourned close to 11 o'clock, with the unanimous vote that the evening had been one of the most delightful yet experienced by the Ver-mont party. The only absentees of the occasion were Elder C. W. Penrose, new in Furges and the veterer lobe now in Europe, and the veteran John McDonald, whose health would not per-the visit of strangers to Temple block for the 12 montht. Not more block for the 12 montht. Not more than 50 per cent of visitors to the bureau enter their names. The omis-sions are accounted for in various ways. There are very few who refuse to register or wilfully neglect to do so, but it often happens that the place is so crowded that some leave the building without browing that the building without knowing that there is a registry open and a standing invitation for the entrance of names. Sometimes an entire family will visit the bureau at the same time, and one person will register, as a representative of all. Then, again, calls at the bureau or an. Then, again, cans at the burelu are often made hurriedly, perhaps an organ recital is about to begin, or a train has to be caught for departure from the city. These are some of the things that cut down the registration percentage. Careful estimates have warranted the conclusion that not more than half of the persons who enter the temple block s sight seers are booked, and the 200,-100 indicated above would not over-reach the actual mark. From such a took pleasure in trying to repay the debt of gratitude that he felt was owing by him. The Bureau of Information knows no such thing as "knocking." either of per-sons or places. There are usually things sons or places, there are usually timigs on exhibition there that give the tour-ist a pretty good idea of the condition of the state in a material way, and questions on any subject are freely an-swered in a way, there could give of-showing, it will at once be apparent that the favorable advertising that the city of Salt Lake and the State of Utah receive from the Bureau of In-formation is of immense importance. There are days during the busy season of tourist travel when the bureau registry shows representatives from nearly every state and territory in the Union and from many foreign nations. The majority of people who travel are tors freely express appreciation for the courtesy extended them, as well as for the information imparted, and many afterwards write to the bureau or to friends in this city, speaking in the most kindly manner of the reception they received during their visit to Salt Utahns who travel throughout this country and abroad very often meet with people who have visited the Bureau of Information, and almost in-variably the traveler from the west is made the recipient of kindly treatment, because of the fact that the other per-son was kindly treated here. The following is a case in point.

Two young men from Utah, while traveling in the neighborhood of Ma-zomanie, Wis, met a banker who ac-corded them much courtesy, and as a reason for doing so explained that he had been shown kindness and hospitali-ty by the people of Salt Lake, and he
