Cole called up his resolution asking the Secretary of war for information in relation to Goat Island, which was adopted, as also Casserley's resolution asking for information upon the condition of accounts between the government and each Pacific railway company, except the Northern.

Majority and minority reports of the French arms investigation was received.

Sumner protested against the report and renewed his protest as to the con-stitution of the committee being contra-ry to constitutional law. After a long debate the reports were ordered printed.

The consideration of the enforcement act was resumed. Morton hoped the amendment would be rejected. Casserly had been prompted to offer an amendment by the occurrences of the election at the navy yard, Mare Island, which, if as reported, ought to bring the blush to the cheek of every

The House in committee considered the bill to revise and codify the pension laws, finishing the 8th section. An amendment removing prohibition was rejected. An amendment to allow pension to be forfeited on account of the marriage of the wife in case of second widowhood, provided the widow was indgent, was adopted. The bill went over and the House, in committee, took up the tariff bill amendment to fix a reduction of 20 per cent, and one fixing 15 per cent was rejected.

EASTERN DISPATCHES.
