Consumption Can be Cured.
Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic, Schenck's Mankake Pills, Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption.

Frequently medicines that will stop a cough will occasion the death of the patient; they lock up the liver, stop the circulation of the blood, hemorrhage follows, and in fact they clog the action of the very organs that caused the cough.

Liver complaint and dyspepsia are the causes of two-thirds of the cases of consumption. Many persons complain of a dull pain in the side, constipation, coated tongue, pain in the shoulder blade, feelings of drowsiness and restlessness, the food lying heavily on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching up of wind.

These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver. Persons so affected, if they take one of two heavy colds, or if they are checked, will find the stomach and liver clogged, remaining torpid and inactive, and almost sure they are aware the lungs are a mass of sores, and hereafter the result of which is death.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is not expectorant which does not contain opium or anything calculated to check a cough suddenly.

Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic dissolves the food, mixes with the gastric juices of the stomach, aids digestion, and creates a ravenous appetite.

When the bowels are constive, skin sallow, or the symptoms otherwise a bilious tendency, Schenck's Mankake Pills are required.

These medicines are prepared only by J. H. SCHENCK & SON, N. E. corner Sixth & Arch Sts., Philadelphia.

And are for sale by all druggists and dealers.

NOTICE.
Elder Joseph L. Wall, of Glenwood, Snyder County, who was called by the vote of the late General Semi-Annual Conference to take a mission to Michigan, has been honorably released therefrom by the Council of the Apostles, on account of sickness in his family and other adverse circumstances.
JOHN TAYLOR, President of the Council of the Apostles.
Bishops and Counselors.

The Bishops and their Counselors of this city and such others of this Stake as can make it convenient, are requested to meet, at 7 p.m., in the upper room of the Council House, Saturday the 10th inst. We make this call at the request of Pres. John Taylor and Bishop Edward Hunter, who are expected to be present.
ANDREW M. CANNON, DAVID O. CALDER, JOSEPH E. TAYLOR.

Seven.—There are but seven prisoners in the County jail just now. A short time ago there were fifteen, eight having been disposed of by the District Court.

Railroading.—The work of building the extension of the Utah Northern Railroad is being rushed ahead. A gentleman, who was on the ground a day or two since, informs us that eighty teams and a corresponding number of men were at work on it.

Conference Notice.—The regular quarterly conferences of Bear Lake and Summit Stakes of Zion will be held on Saturday and Sunday next at Paris and Ogden respectively. Elder C. C. Rich will attend the former, and Elder F. D. Richards and Joseph E. Smith will be present at the latter conference.

Kicked.—Last Sunday, a son of Mr. Joseph Goddard, of Logan, was kicked in the forehead by a mule, inflicting a serious but not dangerous wound. The little patient was doing well, under the treatment of Dr. O. C. Ormsby. So we learn from the Ogden Junction.

Musical.—The Musical Times for November is out. An excellent number of a good magazine. In addition to much interesting and instructive reading matter, it contains an original long-meter tune by Prof. George Careless. Published by Calder & Careless of this city.

Mining.—The celebrated "Emma" is being re-timbered, the old timbers having rotted. A small quantity of ore has also lately been shipped from the mine. Mining matters in Little Cottonwood generally are said to be more active than for some time past. Ore is being shipped from different mines in considerable quantities.

Eighteenth Ward.—The 18th Ward Mutual Improvement Association was organized last evening, for the winter season. The officers are, Horace G. Whitney, President; John R. Park and Robert Patrick, Counselors; R. V. Decker, Secretary; Julia Young, Treasurer; Emil Lehnardt and Charles Durran, Janitors.

The Rogers Fizzle.—The attempt to create an anti-Mormon sensation out of the death of the itinerant tinker, William Rogers, has now ended as one of the completest of fizzes. The adjourned session of the Coroner's inquest was held last night, terminating at half-past eight o'clock.

Dr. McPhail testified that, in accordance with a request of Dr. Douglass, he had made an analysis of the stomach and a portion of the liver of the deceased, for the purpose of detecting the presence of arsenic or strychnine, finding no traces of either. The witness also stated that in making the analysis he made partial tests for such mineral poisons as lead, mercury, tin, bismuth, antimony, etc., but found none of them.

The jurymen, George Auer, Joshua Taylor and J. C. Little returned a verdict to the effect that deceased came to his death from natural causes.

At a former stage of the inquest Coroner Taylor intimated that United States Marshal Nelson, in ordering and having conducted an autopsy of the remains of the deceased, without notifying him, displayed much more than the usual amount of obtrusiveness and assurance than is generally displayed by the ordinary run of mortals. That is exactly our view of the matter.

If the office of United States Marshal of the Territory includes those of inquisitor and coroner it should be generally understood, that in addition to his other title of Marshal he might be dubbed Grand-Inquisitor-Coroner—U. S. Marshal, William Nelson.

As an inquisitor he tried his hand on Dr. Clinton, by trying to maltreat him into telling something to criminate somebody he wanted criminated, making propositions to him to that end. Failing to "squeeze" anything out of a living man, he next tried his hand at "squeezing" something for the same purpose, out of a dead one. Both "squeezing" attempts are utter and contemptible failures, and the motive that prompted them was evidently as rotten as the last subject he tried to manipulate—the corpse of Rogers. What function will this meddlesome officer next assume? It is something new for the United States to send us a Coroner in the person of its Marshal.

District Court—Thursday, November 8th.

Samuel Cohn vs. Central Smelting Co.; trial by the Court in progress.
J. C. Morrison, Jr. vs. J. J. O'Reilly et al.; trial by jury in progress.

Jurors Dismissed.—This afternoon all of the jurors serving during the present term of District Court were dismissed from further duty, excepting those composing the jury trying the case of J. O. Morrison against J. J. O'Reilly et al., and they will also be discharged so soon as that suit is disposed of, probably this evening.

The Saints in Wyoming.—A there has been some dubiety as to which Stake of Zion the Saints located at Evanston, Almy, and other places in Wyoming properly belong, it has been thought best by the authorities of the Church to include them in the Summit Stake of Zion, as that arrangement appeared to be most agreeable to their feelings, and most convenient to them in the matter of meeting at the local conferences.

Going East.—This afternoon, E. N. Fuller, Esq., for several years the principal editor of our cotemporary the Herald, left for Chicago, for the purpose of joining his family. We understand he purposes making his absence from the Territory only temporary. During his stay here, his uniform gentlemanly and courteous demeanor has made him many firm friends, who will be ready to testify to his cordial greeting whenever he concludes to return. In his departure the Herald loses a gentleman of great literary ability and Salt Lake a most excellent citizen.

We understand that Mr. Byron Groo assumes the post on the Herald heretofore occupied by Mr. Fuller.

What Next?—As our readers are already aware, the trial of the suit of Dr. Jeter Clinton against Marshal William Nelson and his bondsmen for $20,000, for false imprisonment and maltreatment, was commenced in the District Court yesterday.

A jury was obtained without much delay and the evidence for the prosecution was given. The plaintiff testified to the treatment he received at the penitentiary after his arrest, the main facts of which are already somewhat notorious. The first night of his incarceration he was placed in a contrivance called the "sweat box," used as an instrument for torturing prisoners at the penitentiary. It is a cage, composed of iron and wood. There he was exposed to a fierce south wind, and to clouds of dust, whirled into his narrow place of confinement. He was next taken to an upper room, with a low sloping roof, with nothing to shelter him from the hot rays of the sun in the most sultry season, but the bare shingles. Here his lower limbs were encircled with manacles, precluding the possibility of his dressing or undressing himself. The room was without ventilation, and the bedding was filthy beyond description. He was thus maltreated while he was suffering from an acute disease of the kidneys and spleen, and medicine he solicited for his relief was kept from him. Under those circumstances Marshal William Nelson took him out riding in his carriage and made proposals to him to tell something that would criminate some of the authorities of the "Mormon" Church and it would be made all right with him.

Dr. J. M. Benedict testified to having visited the plaintiff in the room in the penitentiary described by him, and finding him suffering severely from an affection of the spleen and kidneys.

The defendant made no attempt to introduce evidence in rebuttal, but by his attorneys, Tilford and Hagan, moved for a nonsuit, on the ground that the penitentiary was a proper place for the Marshal to confine indicted prisoners. The motion was argued on both sides, Mr. P. L. Williams appearing for the defendant.

In rendering his ruling upon the motion, Judge Schaeffer stated that in examining the law on the subject he found it silent with regard to where prisoners should be confined after indictment and arrest but before conviction, leaving the matter of the place of imprisonment discretionary with the Marshal, as that officer was responsible for the prisoner's return into court. He further stated, in effect, that, considering the nature of the charge, he did not think the Marshal had exceeded his duty in his treatment of the plaintiff. The motion for a nonsuit was therefore granted, and twenty days was given the plaintiff in which to file the necessary papers on appeal to the Supreme court of the Territory.

We believe that the general expectation in the public mind as regards the very summary disposal of the case at its present stage has been realized. The anticipation was, we believe, based on former judicial occurrences in the same court, in a certain class of cases.

The assertion of the Judge that the law does not specify where indicted and arrested prisoners are to be kept until after trial, is exceedingly technical and far-fetched. The law provides that prisoners committed for trial shall be confined in the County jail. If a person under indictment and arrest is not virtually if not actually and therefore legally under commitment for trial, what then is his status before the law. He is certainly awaiting his trial. A strict interpretation of the Judges view would lead one to suppose that the Marshal's discretion was most sweeping; that he could confine indicted but unconvicted prisoners anywhere, so he returned them safely into court. He could hide them away in a cave or obscure dungeon, put the thumbcrews on them, deny them the privilege of consulting counsel or communicating with friends. Such rulings and remarks take us back to the days of judicial darkness.

With regard to the justifiability of the Marshal's conduct, as to the nature of the charge, his honor will surely admit that it is frequently happens that an innocent man is accused and indicted for a serious offense as a comparatively trifling one. It is so in this case—a notoriously trumped-up one. Besides, it was well known that there was not the slightest probability of Dr. Clinton leaving the country at all, to say nothing of attempting to escape from legal authority.
As for the opinion also expressed by the Judge that the plaintiff had not been treated with undue severity or harshness by the Marshal, it will be generally conceded that, as maltreatment was a portion of the case, it could only be shown in evidence, which was a matter for the consideration of the jury, not the Court. But the Judge suddenly assumed the functions of both court and jury, and apparently non-suited the plaintiff on the evidence as well as the law. It certainly would have shown a more proper disposition on the part of the Court to inquire into the official conduct of its own officers if it had allowed the evidence to have gone to the jury.

Opinions differ with regard to degrees of severity and harshness. It is well they do. We would be loath to suppose the opinion general that it is not unduly harsh or severe to expose an aged and, at that time, ailing gentleman in an open cage, during a whole night, to a powerful windstorm; to subsequently place him in iron and confine him in a badly-ventilated room, in stifling heat, and deny him medicine to relieve his pains, and all to get him to tell something to criminate somebody else. We hope the time will never come when we will be forced to the belief that the opinion of the Judge in such a matter prevails to any extent. Were the Judge himself a sufferer instead of the adjudicator of this mild regime, his opinion would doubtless turn a sudden summer'sault.
