Their efforts reveal a startling crime in this direction. They have been encounded and will print to. They have prepared and will print today a list of 1,400 fraudulently registered names: they say they have, no doubt there are 3,000 names that should have appeared on this fraudulent list if closer scrutiny could have been given. They have issued seven warrants for the arrest of persons violating the registration law, but no arrests have yet been made. There is no anticipation of disorder at the polls. The voting places have been greatly increased and the crowds about them will be accordingly smaller. Besides, the new law prohibits persons from congregating within 100 feet of the polling place.
