THE WELLS CANAL.

Eastern.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., 19.—The express train, which was due here at seven o'clock this morning from Detroit, on the G. W. R. R., is in the Wells canal. The train was drawn by two locomotives and consisted of several baggage cars, the express and the usual number of passenger coaches. An open draw was not observed by the engineer and both engines and all baggage and express cars plunged into the canal, filling the canal and leaving the room for the passenger coaches. It is reported that all the passengers and employees escaped injury. The conductor and brakeman of the freight train on the western end of the N. Y. C. R. R. have struck for an advance in their pay, and no freight trains are running between Rochester and Buffalo.
