

SPECIAL BUSINESS NOTICES

ISAAC BEARS, the well known grain, flour and produce merchant, has removed from Main street to First South Street, opposite Dinwoodey's furniture store, where he will be ready to supply his former patrons or new customers, with anything in his line. Call on him. d1447

FIRE. TEASDEL'S.

NOTICE OF REMOVAL.

The Clothing, Carpets, Boots and shoes, and Gent's Furnishing Goods Removed to Next Floor North of Grocery Room to enable immense improvements being completed, necessary since the damage of Building by the Recent Fire.

S. P. TEASDEL.

BEST $1.25 and $1.75 LADIES SHOES in the city at DUNFORD'S.

Fire, FIRE.

Announcement from P. Schwartz that he has removed his entire stock of Dry Goods, Gent's Furnishing Goods, opposite Townsend House, which have been partly damaged by fire and water, will be sold at a great sacrifice, to close business. Those who wish to secure bargains should call at once to Schwartz' place opposite the Townsend House. Remember, all only for a few days. d1447

Read E. B. Clawson's notice of arrival of Car Diamond Steel Bottom Scrapers.

JOHN C. CUTLER, Agent, has just received a lot of new Cloths and Jeans from the Provo Mills. He has a large stock of home made Trunks, Brooms, Cotton Batting, Washboards, hand-made Laces, Artificial Flowers, Snell's and 19th Ward Soap, etc. wholesale or retail.

CARPETS, WALL PAPER, LACE CURTAINS, WINDOW SHADES, CORNICES AND A FULL LINE OF UPHOLSTERY TRIMMINGS, AT REDUCED PRICES, AT H. DINWOODEY'S FURNITURE STORE. d129

Read E. B. Clawson's notice of arrival of Car Diamond Steel Bottom Scrapers.

RED CANYON, ROCK SPRINGS AND WEBER COAL.—The only reliable market for lump, assorted and egg coal, large stock always on hand, and full weights guaranteed. Prices to retail, and special attention given to suit the wants of the public. Office, Deseret Bank Block. d1298

LOOK!

CARPETS, WALL PAPER, WINDOW SHADES, LACE CURTAINS, OTTOMANS, HASSOCKS, CORNICES, MOUNTAINS, OIL CLOTHS AND LINOLEUM, FURNITURE COVERING AND UPHOLSTERY TRIMMINGS, IN FACT—ANYTHING DESIRED IN THE FURNISHING LINE AT PRICES THAT DEFY COMPETITION AT CARPET DEPT. Z. C. M. I.

CHILD'S FELT AND STRAW HATS, full lines, at DUNFORD'S.

Read E. B. Clawson's notice of arrival of Car Diamond Steel Bottom Scrapers.

BOOTS AND SHOES, best goods, at DUNFORD'S.

THIRTY STYLES OF BABY CARRIAGES AT HENRY DINWOODEY'S FURNITURE STORE. PRICES FROM $8.00 TO $40.00.

For PURE HOME-MADE CANDIES, Cakes, Crackers and Good Bread, call on HENRY ARNOLD, at the GLOBE BAKERY. d129

MEN'S FELT, STIFF AND SUMMER HATS, lowest prices, at DUNFORD'S.

Solid merit will tell.

Eye all the bitter opposition of jealous rivals, no better illustration could be had of this fact than the immense sale already attained by the great Throat and Lung Remedy, Dr. Aug. Kaiser's German Elixir. For the cure of Coughs and Bronchial Affections, it is truly wonderful, even those suffering from Consumption in advanced stages find great relief, and numbers of patients have found their delight, not only relief but cure. It being perfectly harmless, makes it at once popular with mothers, who of all others, are the most necessary of such a medicine. The genuine bears the Prussian Coat of Arms, the false, the signature of Dr. Aug. Kaiser, and has his name blown on every 75 cent bottle. A trial size may be had for 25 cents.

For sale, wholesale and retail, by the Z. C. M. I. Drug Department and Messrs Allen & Co., Salt Lake City. d1235 w29

By Universal Accord.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS are the best of all purgatives for family use. They are the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, and their extensive use, by Physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, prove them the best and most effective purgative Pill that medical science can devise. Can be used by the weak and infirm, and by the young and old.

In intrinsic value and curative powers no other Pills can be compared with them, and every person, knowing their virtues, will employ them, when needed. They keep the system in perfect order, and maintain in healthy action the whole machinery of life. Mild, searching and efficient, they are specially adapted to the needs of the digestive apparatus, derangements of which they prevent and cure, if timely taken. They are the best and safest pills to employ for children and weakened constitutions, where a mild, but effective cathartic is required.

For Sale by all dealers. d1417

The Most Beautiful

Biscuits, delicate pastry, and light white bread made with Gillette's Cream Tartar Baking Powder, Double Flavoring, Extracts and Cream Yeast. They are absolutely healthful and nutritious. Gillette's manufactures nearly twenty articles used in the kitchen and cuisine, and they are all the very finest and best.

A Grand Piano.

The only Upright Piano, selected for special mention from those entered in competition at the Centennial Exposition, is to be seen at the Piano and Organ Warehouses of D. O. Calder. The Judge's report is as follows: "The Model of Honor and Certificate of Distinction are awarded the Hallett, Davis & Co's Grand, Upright and Square Pianos for volume of tone, good construction and excellence of workmanship, and because of originality of design and artistic skill in the Upright Instruments with ingenious combination of mechanical devices for securing permanence in tone." The public are invited to call and examine this superb instrument. d1511w

A Cook wanted; apply at this Office.

Among beliefs founded on fact is the fact which the public entertain in the efficacy of Glenn's Sulphur Soap as a remedy for skin diseases and a beautifier of the complexion. It has widely superseded the greasy ointments, ointments and other oleaginous compounds which have caused eruptions, and the ladies declare that it is far preferable to any cosmetic, as a means of whitening the skin and removing tan, pimples, freckles, moth patches, and the like. Both the medical profession and the press have borne evidence to the salutary qualities of this standard external specifice for all diseases affecting the cuticle.

Sold by druggists. Price 25c. per cake. 1 Box (3 cakes) 75c. 100 cakes, 75c. per box. Prepared by C. N. Crittenton, Prop'r, 7 Sixth Avenue, New York.

HILL'S Hair and Whisker Dye, Black or Brown, 50c. each.

In the cure of consumption there is probably no known medicine equal to the Syrup of Hyophosphytes, prepared by Mr. James I. Fellows, chemist, St. John, N. B. A number of cases have come under our notice the past year, when the re-ults which have followed its use have been astonishing. We write this unhesitatingly by any one, and advise the afflicted to try it. d1511w

Cheek Jackson's Best Sweet Navy Tobacco.

ON Broadway, New York, the great thoroughfare, a prominent feature of even that famous street, convenient to all places of interest, and noted for its luxurious appointments—is situated the Grand Central Hotel, is now kept on both plans the American at $2.50 to $3.50 and the European at $1 and upward per day. An elegant Restaurant, at moderate prices, is conducted by the Grand Central. d1511w

IMMENSE STOCK Ladies and Misses WALKING, TOILET and HOUSE SLIPPERS, at DUNFORD'S.

GENTLEMEN wanting a good Business suit should call and see those Utah Cassimeres at WM. LONGMORE, 89 Kimball Block. Cleaning and repairing. d147

Grand Auction.

There will be sold on Thursday, May 22d, at 10 a.m., west of City House, between Main and West Temple Streets, at very fine and well kept lot of household goods, consisting in part of one elegant piano, one organ, bedroom and parlor sets, lounge and easy chairs, hair and spring mattresses, extension Reporter cook stove, sideboard, China and glass ware, and bedding. Everything good. The owner is going away. Come to this grand auction, and we will make it pleasant for you by giving you a good bargain. H. A. REED, Auctioneer.

A Cork Carpeting.

LINOLEUM is neat, carpet-like in appearance, and of extraordinary durability. It is peculiarly soft and elastic to the tread, handsome in appearance, and never cold like ordinary oilcloth. Kept by all first-class carpet dealers. The genuine article has "LIXOLEUM" printed on the back of every square yard. All others are inferior imitations.

Household Goods Wanted.

When you wish to sell your traps go to John Crane, on First South Street, between Theatre and Deseret Bank. He pays the highest cash price.

EVENING NEWS.

Wednesday, May 21, 1879.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Reward.—George C. Lambert, of the Juvenile Instructor office, has lost a black mare, two years old, with a halter on. He will reward the person who will give him information of her whereabouts.

District Court.—Proceedings, Wednesday morning, May 21, 1879; Judge P. H. Emerson presiding.

J. B. Dilley et al. vs. Joseph Marion; judgment for plaintiff for $100 and costs.

Excelsior Manufacturing Co. vs. J. N. Barker; jury trial in progress.

Departing Missionaries.—The following named missionaries left Ogden yesterday morning, for their fields of labor: Lyman R. Martineau, Frank Benson, S. L. Ballif, Beth Landon, Jr., Chas. W. Hulst, Thomas Lloyd, Jos. Goddard, Sister Elizabeth H. Goddard, wife of Elder George Goddard, and Sister Annie Turner of the 21st Ward, accompanying the missionaries to Europe, whether the whole party are bound with the exception of Elder Landon, who goes to the Southern States.

Base Ball.—The last year's interest in base ball is strongly cropping out again, and to-morrow's championship game bids fair to attract an unusually large crowd. Both teams have been materially strengthened, and now regard each other as rivals in every sense of the word.

The interesting part of the season is drawing near, this game being followed by the fourth game on Decoration Day, games with the Laramie Club on the 5th and 7th of June, and those with the champion "Athletics," of San Francisco, on the 23d, 4th, 5th and 7th of July.

City Council.—Proceedings at the City Council on Tuesday evening, May 20th, 1879, Mayor Little presiding.

A petition was presented, signed by Hugh Anderson and 18 others, residents and taxpayers of the 7th, 18th and 19th Wards, representing that they were in urgent need of water for culinary purposes, and fire protection, and asking that it be furnished them from the water works, the petitioners subscribing, in total, the sum of $700 towards the improvement, which they promised to advance upon the completion of the work, providing that it be refunded to them in water rates or city taxes. The petition was received and referred to the committee on water works.

John Wm. Snell petitioned for the purchase of a certain tract of land on section 25, some distance east of Van Natta's road, on the side of Conglomerate Mountain, where he wished to open a quarry, and represented that if he acquired the title to said land he would in no wise interfere with the claims or grants heretofore made by the Council. Received and referred to the committee on public grounds.

A petition from M. Buxbaum & Co., was presented, which set forth that it was very convenient to the proper transaction of the business in which they were engaged, viz: dealing in wool, to be without a platform from which to load and unload merchandise and, believing that the Council had no desire to obstruct the facilitation of business, they asked to be allowed to erect a portable platform, from one end of which to two feet high, in front of their warehouse on Third West street, to remain during the pleasure of the Council. The petition was received and referred to the committee on streets and alleys, with authority to act in the matter.

Wm. Salmon petitioned for the privilege of erecting platform scales on which to weigh coal, etc., on the Market lot, corner of West Temple and First South streets. Received and referred to the committee on streets and alleys, to whom was referred the petition of John W. Long and other residents of Grape street, asking that said street be graded and widened, etc., reported that they had visited the locality and thought the improvement very necessary, and therefore recommended that the street supervisor be instructed to attend to the matter in the order of business. Report accepted and recommendation adopted.

The committee on city prison, to whom was referred the March bill for prisoners' meals, reported that it be allowed at the rate of 11 cents per meal and that this rate be continued until the Council accepted and recommendation adopted.

A bill for an ordinance in relation to billiards and other tables and pin alleys, came up as unfinished business and passed the Council, thus becoming a law.

Adjourned to Tuesday, May 27th, 1879, at 7 o'clock p. m.

President Cluff's Surprise.

We have received from our Provo correspondent "Jacobus," an account of a surprise entertainment, given last Monday evening, in the B. Y. Academy building, by the students of that institution, under the auspices of the faculty, in honor of President H. H. Cluff, who is shortly to take his departure for the Sandwich Islands on a mission.

The rooms were handsomely decorated with wreaths of evergreens, vases of natural and artificial flowers, paintings, portraits, statuary, etc. The entertainment began with a vocal and instrumental concert, varied with recitations, dialogues and readings. Supper was then partaken of, during which time toasts, sentiments and speeches went the rounds, among the latter those from President Smoot, Prof. Macer, Bishop Harrington, and Mrs. Zina Williams, eulogizing the labors of Bro. Cluff in the capacity of Treasurer of the Academy's board of directors, and as a friend and brother.

President Cluff responded by an address, expressing his appreciation of the mark of respect shown him, his good wishes for the institution, his sorrow on the one hand at having to leave it, his joy on the other at being considered worthy of the award he was about to fulfil, and closed by assuring all that his prayers were, and would be for the prosperity of the Academy and all connected with it.

A large Bible and album were presented to Brother Cluff as a token of respect, from the faculty and students.

A dance constituted the third and last part of the programme, and closed, about midnight, one of the most enjoyable occasions ever witnessed in the Academy.

The English-Breast Affair.

This venerable case again puts an appearance. Contrary to general impression, the case did not go to the Supreme Court of the United States the second time, it having been up before that tribunal once, and remanded back to the District Court which gave a verdict for the plaintiff for upwards of $40,000. In pursuance of this order, the property of the individuals implicated in the abatement of English-Breast's liquor establishment, has been levied upon for the payment of that amount.

Among these are Messrs. Andrew Burt, James Tome, John Reading, Alex. Burt, Charles Crow and R. Y. Hampton.

Distraction by Grasshoppers.

We learn from our Ogden correspondent, "Semper," that the grasshoppers are exceedingly numerous in Ogden Valley and are committing great ravages there. The grain crops, which but the other day looked splendid and gave promise of a fine yield, in one day have been entirely swept away by these merciless destroyers. They have eaten the young grain clean to the earth. The people in the valley feel somewhat discouraged, as they have suffered so much in former years from the visits of these pests. Nothing of a similar nature had yet been reported in the immediate vicinity of Ogden City.

Condolence.

We extend our heartfelt sympathy to Bishop Samuel A. Woolley and his wife, Frances Ann, in the sad circumstance by which they have been again deprived of one of their loved little ones. Their little daughter, Ida Louise, died from hemorrhage after diphtheria, this morning at 2 o'clock.

Drowned.—The Junction says Joseph Wickham and another man were drowned while crossing Snake River in a boat, at Salmon Falls, a few days ago.

The Prevailing Malady.

The following is one specimen of the modern degeneracy:

Arms have they but they hug not—windmill.—Yonkers Gazette.

Ears have they but they hear not—corn stalks.—Detroit Free Press.

Heads have they, but they understand not—cabbages.—Oli. by Derick.

Eyes have they, but they see not—pulpit.—Boston Transcript.

Teeth have they, but they do not have the toothache—burr saw.—New York Commercial.

Wit have they, but they are about the only ones who know it—the above journals.

Ogden's Tramps.

The Ogden Dispatch, of last evening, gives an account of a dozen tramps who visited the house of Mr. Lee Swigart near the observatory the night before, and demanded food and lodgings. Mr. Swigart being at home alone slipped out of the back door and meeting Mr. L. D. Wilson near by, told him of the outrage. He went to the house and found the itinerant scoundrels had taken possession of the place, and were resting their tired limbs on the sofa, chairs, bed and floor. At the point of a six-shooter he compelled the villainous crew to vacate the situation.

That Pitchfork Affair.

The case of G. A. Emory vs. Harry Tyson came up to day before Justice Tyler, and ended in the defendant being fined $15 and costs, for assault and battery on the person of the plaintiff as charged in the affidavit. It appears that Mr. Emory had charge of the stables at the race track and had discharged Tyson from his employment, settling up with him in full with the exception of one dollar, which he told Tyson he did not then have, but would pay him as soon as he got the change. Tyson went away, but afterward returned and was ordered away by Emory, when an altercation ensued in which each party affirms that the other first used the pitchfork. As near as we can learn, however, Tyson attacked Emory with the implement and wounded him. The latter then choked Tyson and took the fork away from him.

"Mormon" Married Life.

We have been permitted to peruse a letter dated the 17th ult., from Mr. J. A. McKnight to a relative in this city, containing among other things, his views of the "Mormon" marriage question. The writer, it will be remembered, is a young man, native to Salt Lake, and now in the city of Paris. We append a few extracts from his communication:

"From a practical point of view I cannot lose sight of the difficulty that must be felt when the country becomes thickly populated, in providing for the numerous families with which the Mormons wish to burden themselves. Their care, provision, and comfort, must of necessity be meagre in most cases, where they have two or three wives and from a dozen to thirty children. Still, and as for the matter of raising their children to useful habits, giving them something to do from the time they are able to obey orders, is apt to make the majority of them self-dependent, and certainly fits them better for life than the pampered idleness and sloth that is found in the fashionable world (so called). Their frugal fare, made sweet by activity, is far better for the body than the pastries and spices of modern cookery, which tickle the palate, but ruin the stomach. And an earnest industrious childhood, under proper treatment and example, must have a good effect upon the character and constitution of either boy or girl, and instead of hindering, as some erroneously contend, it assists the intellect, and strengthens the understanding."

"I doubt not that there are many men who are so constituted, morally and intellectually as to be absolutely unable to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the character of the men, and the temptations of the world are made—when they often find that their faith has been given to men who cannot appreciate it—who expect truth, virtue, and obedience from the woman, but render only in return the necessities of life—or perhaps luxury, and are in great fault with and corrupt."

But I fear that this is not the case of men who are influenced by any manner of religious institution. They have not the goodness in their character of the men of the world, and are not able to resist temptations which will break their faith to their wives—and it is as true that there are men whom no temptation could induce to infidelity to her who is pure and true for their sake. But in the world, the women know nothing of the