DESERET EVENING NEWS: SATURDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1905.

ORCHID DISCOVERED AFTER HALF CENTURY'S SEARCH. RARE

small, greenish brown in color, y with brownish red and covered fearful risks and hardships they would meet in Tibet.

It is now known that original Fairle-atums that startled the orchid world 50 years ago must have come from Tibet, though by what means they were obtained there is no record. It was the natural assumption that they had come from the warm regions of India that led to the failure of the sci-them with success. Anyhow Sir Tre-vor Lawrence will be deprived of his long cherished distinction for some

The plant now in flower at Kew gariens has five growths and two flowers. dens has five growths and two flowers. The flower has a slender, halry scape about 10 inches in height, a prominent and charming dorsal sepal, 1% inches in breadth, with a white ground beau-tifully veined with violet purple, and with brownish green veins near the center and whiteish halrs round the reserve margin.

All Hyer fils are cured by Hoofs Pills, 25c. margin. The petals droop and have an up-ward curve at the tips; they are 1½ inch in length, with a white ground streaked with purple and yellow. The upper margin of the petalls is much undulated and covered with prominent purple hairs. The pouch is rather English clairvoyant, has no equal in the city, 157 West in

Pure Health Foods. The Battle Creek Saniturium heat

Consult Madame Zeima, the noted

Gardner SALT LAKE PHOTO SUPPLYCO

C. BOUVIER, a well known r cerees, not beautiful but alluring, igiorant but clever, and married to an deal husband for her ends, the old French man-of-letters, lectured the other day in Lon-Comte de la Motte, who was tres laid et prodigieusement bete, she scraped ac-quaintance with de Rohan, learned his don on "Marie Antoinette et comapla and laid her plots accord-He explained how the cardinal came ingly to be under the displeasure, even the The whole of the scandalous affair was of her contriving; de Rohan was nothing but her dupe, and her sole ob-lect was her own advantage. She per-suaded de Rohan that she could make hatred, of Marie Antoinette-first by arrying to Maria Teresa's ears, while his peace at court; she made him write to Marie Antoinette, and forged letters in reply; she arranged that famous, al-most farcial, meeting in the gardens at Versa Use Versailles.

The sham queen was a certain Mile, Leguny, a "friend" of M. de la Motte's, dressed for the occasion exactly like Marie Antoinette in Mime, Vigee Le-brun's ploture, and to her it was that the egregious cardinal did homage, from her that he received the rose with the message. Your exact on our cole heat ear, representing Maria Teresa as dryear, representing Maria Teresa as dry-ing her tears with one hand, while the other brandished a sword for the par-tition of Poland. That letter was read aloud at a supper party of the du Bar-rys, and Marie Antoniette and her mother were thenceforward de Rohan's bitter enemies. When Louis XV died de Rohan lost his place at Vlenna, and his sole idea, his monomania, was to regain the favor of the queen. Next we come to Mme. de la Moite, the daughter of a destitute country message, Vous savez ce que cela veut dire. Things were now ripe for Mme, de la Motte to recoup herself for her exde la Motte to recoup herself for her ex-penses. At the king's jewelers' there was a magnificent diamond necklace, which would have been presented to Mine, du Barry if Louis XV had not died before it was ready. The makers had tried several times in value for had tried several times in value for to Marie Antoinette, who had refused it even as a present from her husband. They applied to Mine, de la Motte for her help. She forred Marie Antoinet. the daughter of a destitute country gentleman-man-more country than gentleman-whose mother used to drive her out to beg in the streets and beat her black and blue if she brought home up and adopted by the Marquis de her help. She forged Marie Antoinet-Boulainvilliers. An adventuress, a sor-et's signature to a letter in which de 43 South Main St., Salt Lake City, Utah.

lace for the queen; her dupe presented it and handed the diamonds to Mme de la Motte. de la Motte. The story of the discovery, the ar-rest of de Rohan, the trial-in which the queen's name was never so much as mentioned, and she had no chance of asserting her innocence-and the ver-diet, which, by acquitting de Rohan, was halled by the populace as proving the guilt of the hated Marie Antoinetie. were clearly and dramatically fold by M. Houvier. As to Mine, de la Motte she was living in splendor on the pro-ceeds of some of the diamonds when she was arrested. Her sentence was to be publicly whipped, branded and im-prisoned for life; but she succeeded in escoping to England, and lived there till 1791, when she threw herself out of window in Lambeth. It was to be noted that M. Bouvier made very light of Cagliostro's part in the affair, ascribing it all to Mme, de la Motte. He did justice to the spark la Motte. He did justice to the spark of nobility shown by de Rohan (and entirely ignored by Carlyle) in ordering the destruction of what he believed to be genuine letters from Marie Antoi-nette, because, though they might have proved his own innocenes, they would have compromised his queen; and he dwelt with eloquence on Marie Antoi-nette herself, the pure-minded woman who had sent away the Comte de Ferwho had sent away the Comte de Fer-sen, the only man that ever touched her heart, lest he should come between and the formidables tortures of he duties as queen, wife and mother, and yet was condemned to be smirched by so sordid a business as this of the diamond necklace,-New York Times.

Rohan was requested to buy the neck-

DON'T USE POOR OIL

For use on sewing machines, bloycles and all purposes regulring a fine lubricant the best is cheapest in the end. Genuine Singer oil can only be obtained Special Correspondence. ONDON, Sept. 20 .- Great excitement has been caused among orchid collectors by the information which has just come to light that a rare specimen whose habitat for nearly 50 years has been sought in vain, has just been rediscovered. The ecstatic joy with which the tidings have been received can be appreciated only by those who are devoted to this most fascinating of all forms of hortiulture, but the story itself illustrating the romance that underlies the pursuit of these floral gems, is of general interest.

There came to London in 1857 from India a miscellaneous stock of orchids. They were duly sold at auction and some of them were bought by a Mr. Fairlie of Liverpool. In his possession they bloomed and one of them was they bloomed and one of them was recognized with rapture as a variety previously unknown and of singular beauty. It was named after its owner Cypripedium Fairleanum. The Indian collection contained several other specimens of the same plant and keen was the competition that ensued for their bossession. But most of the pur-chasers simply wasted their money. The plants did not flourish. The orig-inal stock dwindled and died. For many years there has been only one specimen in existence among orchid collectors, and a diminutive one at that. But its possession has been suf-

hat. But its possession has been suf-teient to confer additional distinction is distinguished owner, Sir Trevor that. Hortleultural society. every orchid enthusiast is to get hold | tempt private individuals to incur the of an orchid that nobody else has. Sir Trevor has several times been offered big sums for his puny Fairleanum, but nothing could induce him to part with

Meanwhile India has been ransacked n vain by orchid hunters for other specimens of the plant. Scores of ex-peditions have gone in search of it. Not a few lives have been lost in the perilous quest. But the Fairleanum eluded everybody. The money that has been expended in abortive efforts to find it would represent a saug for-

The Tibet expedition, which sought to open up the Forbidden land to the trade of India, brought back speci-mens of pretty nearly everything that could be obtained in that grim region. One member of the mission who was a botanist, discovered a lot of orchids which wave sent to Coloutta From which were sent to Calcutta. From thence two of them were dispatched to Kew gardens. One of them has just flowered and experts have pronounced it the long sought and rediscovered Falrieanum.

The Tibet find included over 200 specimens of the plant. The bulk of specimens of the plant. The bulk of them are now on their way to London where they will be sold at auction in a few weeks. They will undoubtedly fetch good prices, but single specimens will not sell for anything like the prices that would have been paid for them had there been say only half a dozen of them. It is rarity more than beauty that determines the value of orchids. Still, it is not likely that another consignment will be obtained from the native haunts of the plant for many years, unless it should be for many years, unless it should be found necessary to send another exits distinguished owner, Sir Trevor pedition to Tibet to scare the Russian bogy. Great as are the prizes of orchid rticultural society. The aim of hunting, they will hardly suffice to had come from the warm regions of India that led to the failure of the ef-forts made to cultivate them. The heat to which they were subjected killed them. It is probable that orchid growers will now be able to cultivate time to come at least, pure blood ura blood by tal will do you until taking it fedoy and see how quickle will give you an appetite, strength a vigor and core your cheunalite, t

Change. No matter w opla's favori

ickis urgh

Presidential Election Will Make No

Sold by F. J. Hill Dra Your Best Work, Cannot be done unless you have goe

GREAT CLEANER Cleans pot and pan and marble floor nothing ever did before

10 C Lever good schukesper sale is Developing, Finishing, Main and 3rd Sa

32

le Collier de la Reine/

he was ambassador at Vienna, the gossip of Paris concerning the frivolity of her daughter, then Dauphine; and next by the well-meant but absurdly indiscreet letter which he addressed to the Due d'Aiguillon for the king's private too little money, until she was picked up and adopted by the Marquis de

New, Light on a Famous Marie Antoinette Episode.