Order appointing time and place to hear petition for distribution.

ON READING AND FILING THE PETition of Charles Longson, Executor of the estate of Robert Dunn, deceased, setting forth that he has rendered his account of his administration upon said estate in this Court, that all the debts have been fully paid, and that a portion of said estate remains to be distributed among the heirs of said deceased, and praying among other things for an order allowing and this account and of distribution of the residue of said estate among the persons entitled to it, and ordering that all persons interested in the estate of the said Robert Dunn deceased, be and appear before the Probate Court of the County of Salt Lake, at the Court Room of said Court, in the County Court House on the 21st day of October, 1886, at 11 o'clock a. m., then and there to show cause why an order of allowance said final account and of distribution should not be made of the residue of said estate among the heirs and devisees of the said Robert Dunn, deceased, according to law.

It is further ordered that the Clerk cause copies of this order to be posted in three public places in Salt Lake County, and published in the DESERET EVENING NEWS, a newspaper printed and published in Salt Lake County, three weeks successively prior to said 21st day of October, 1886.

FROM THE ORIENT.

MISSIONARY MATTERS IN THE FAR EAST—THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK.

CONSTANTINOPLE, September 25th, 1886.

President D. H. Wells:

Dear Brother:—Through a letter from Brother Spori I learn that he is growing hopeful of the mission in that land. One man, he writes me, has accepted baptism; he states that the wife of the newly initiated is zealous, and the prospects are good for baptizing the responsible members of the family. There is also a man in Jaffa waiting to receive the ordinance of baptism. His letter throughout was encouraging. The German speaking population of Palestine is comparatively large, and I still feel sanguine that a good mission can be opened in that land, and then let us hope the Gospel may be introduced to the Arabs.

Among the acquaintances I have recently made is a Mr. Malmon, an English archæologist of distinction. He has been laboring for many years among the Arabs in the neighborhood of Bagdad, at the ruins of old Babylon. London, Paris and Berlin have all had their famous museums enriched by his labors. Some years ago he was in Salt Lake and met President Young. "A great man he was," was his estimate of him. "Then," he continued, "I was prejudiced against your marriage system. I knew nothing of any but the monogamic, and influenced by your bitter enemies, I wrote against your system. I have had since then much experience among the orientals, especially the Arabs; and having observed how true they always are to their wives, how peaceful their polygamous households are, and how wives of the same man generally treat each others as sisters, I discover my prejudice then was not reason, and I see where I may have done your people wrong." "Are the Arabs easily converted to Christianity?" I enquired. "No, they don't accept Christianity, and they ought not to," said he, "Christianity would only spoil them. They are devoted, honest and virtuous as a rule, and they so often detect crooked ways in even the Christian ministers that they treat them generally with suspicion and distrust." "But they could not find fault with the doctrines which Christ taught," I rejoined. "Nor would they," said Mr. Maimon, "if Christians practiced them. It is true Christians have these doctrines better in theory, but the Arabs have them better in practice." How would it affect them in Christian material civilization if they would accept the Christian religion?" I asked. "It would simply make a caricature of them," he replied. "There is no religion that I know of that so takes hold of the hearts of men as that of the despised prophet of Arabia, and I am no Mohammedan either. Islamism is by no means the religion that Christian writers would make us believe it is."

Mr. Maimon said he would be pleased to bring about a meeting for me with an American Prince, the second, nominally, in the American Church, but the real head. I have been fortunate in meeting a number of prominent individuals, and now the hot weather is over, I expect to meet one or two of the Supreme Judges. The immediate returns are of no consequence, as they are simply curious to see and converse with a "Mormon;" but, for all that, it may be the means of securing us tolerance in the future if our doctrines are known in high places. There is considerable curiosity and inquiry here about us since our meetings and publications. I was down at the Dolma Bagtsche Palace of the Bosphorus last Monday, to witness the reception of the Duke of Edinburgh and Prince George of Wales. It was a grand affair.

The political atmosphere here is still murky. It is impossible to guess even the immediate results, though the aggressive policy of Russia is not to be misunderstood, and no one better than England knows its ambitious schemes. Newspapers from all parts of Europe indicate the alarm felt about Russian intrigue. The English contemptuously speak of the Turk as the "sick old man;" however, Turkey's Sclavonic neighbor on the north seems to be healthy enough, and determined to do England the injustice that England has done others. Russia must be stopped, is the general cry. Their favorite English expression is that Russia must be muzzled. It reminds one very much of the anecdote of the cat and the rats. The cat was a perfect nuisance in the neighborhood where the rats held their festivities, so they called a meeting and discussed the best means by which they could guard themselves against the object of their terror. After full deliberation it was unanimously agreed that a bell should be tied to the cat's tail for the purpose of giving them a timely warning. An admirable plan; but when the question arose as to which of the rats should tie the bell on, there was great lack of unity, and the plot against the cat did not appear so feasible.

Grant that Russia should be muzzled, the question who shall put the muzzle on is still to be solved. The English talk of bombarding Constantinople if it should fall into the hands of Russia, and their work of '82 in Alexandria demonstrates that they are capable of just such vandalism. As much as I admire the English nation and people at home, I have not found much that is admirable in England's foreign policy.

PACIFIC COAST NOTES.

CULLED FROM WESTERN EXCHANGES.

Governor Stoneman has granted a pardon to W. H. Smith, convicted of an attempt to rob in San Francisco last February and sentenced to three years' imprisonment. Smith is dying of consumption.

The dead body of an unknown man was found a few days ago in a ravine on Dibblee place, near Santa Barbara, Cal. An empty laudanum bottle and a box containing ten morphine pills, showing that ride had been taken, were found beside him.

At San Jose, October 14th, a man named James H. Powell was arrested for attempting to burn his house. He went home drunk, and after abusing his wife smashed a lamp on the floor. The fire was put out by a lodger, who had Powell arrested.

At Spokane Falls (W. T.), on October 14, James Fannon, a farmer, aged 60 years, was mistaken for a deer by James Gibson and killed. Both men were hunting together near Colville. This is the sixth fatal accident of this character in Washington Territory in the past month.

A few evenings since at Austin, Nev., while examining a pistol, Mrs. Peltier accidentally discharged it, the ball entering the left arm of Wm. Heflin near the wrist and going eight inches toward the elbow. The ball is still embedded in the arm, and the wound is liable to be serious.

Derose, Connelly and Maxwell, three tramps, were convicted at Lytton, Or., Wednesday, of the murder of a Nova Scotian named Millman, and sentenced to be hanged. The murder was peculiarly atrocious, Dillman having about $7.50, which the others wished to get.

Martin Joyce, well known in Sonoma county, Cal., and at one time quite wealthy, has been arrested for stealing fifteen valuable horses from William Bibler of Lakeville. They were accidentally discovered in Napa county by Officer Norsevorthy. The horses were all recovered except one, which had died.

At Virginia, Nev., Oct. 14th, A. S. Stacy was instantly killed and P. S. Williams had a leg broken near the thigh and his skull fractured. Both were carpenters in the Consolidated Virginia Mill, employed in taking down framework. Stacy and Williams were sawing off the main west beat of the framework, while laborers were puling on another partition with tackles. In the construction of the frame the sill resting on the foundation wall had not been properly anchored, and the pulling caused the sill to slip, when the entire framework came crashing to the ground. The left side of Stacy's breast directly over the heart was crushed in. He was an American, 55 years of age.

Willie Brough, 12 years old, who created an excitement among superstitious people near Turlock, Cal., by apparently setting fire to all objects by his glance on Sunday last, and who is held responsible for the destruction of $9,000 worth of farm property, has been expelled from the Madison country school, near Turlock, on account of his wonderful freaks. After Sunday's fire Brough's family refused to have anything to do with him, believing him to be possessed of a devil. The boy was taken in by a farmer and sent to school. On the first day there were five fires in the school—one in the center of the ceiling, one in the teacher's desk, one in the teacher's wardrobe and two on the wall. The boy discovered all and cried from fright. The trustees met and expelled him that night. One Turlock insurance agent has given notice that he will cancel all policies on property occupied by the boy. The neighborhood of Turlock is in a furore of excitement about the mystery.

COLORADO ITEMS.

Duff's comic opera company are performing in Denver.

The soldiers of Colorado were gathering in Denver this week. Meetings were to be held on Thursday and Friday, and feasting, a grand ball, etc., were to be features of the veterans' reunion.

George O'Bannon, a well known miner and prospector, was found dead on the 14th, in a cellar near the cantonment and ten miles south of Montrose, on the Ouray road, with a bullet in his right temple and a pistol by his side. This told the story of his death. O'Bannon had been a resident of Lake City from 1876 up to 1884. He is known all over the Colorado mining districts.

On the 14th inst., at a little after 6 o'clock, Cy Mitchell, an old resident of the carbonate camp, shot himself at his home in Oro, near Leadville. It was hoped he would survive and the matter was kept as quiet as possible, but the bullet, which entered the left breast, was too near the heart and the man died next day. He was a married man and the father of four children. His wife, however, was a common drunkard. He came home the night before, and finding her with a lot of congenial spirits, frenzied the man and caused the deed.

On Thursday morning of last week Mrs. Rachel Miller, wife of A. W. Miller, of Denver, had a slight quarrel with her husband. He left home saying he would never return. She took a spoonful and a half of Rough on Rats in the evening he did return to find his wife sick. No one knew or suspected the cause of her illness. She continued to grow worse, and next morning the city physician, Dr. McLauthlin was summoned. He visited the woman during the afternoon, and to him she confessed what she had done. The poison had worked too long in her system to save her life, and she died last Tuesday evening. She leaves no children.

A. R. Hoyt, the man accused of murdering his own child, had a preliminary examination at Leadville on the 15th and was discharged. Nobody believes the man intended to do anything wrong, but he is in love with his wife and she undoubtedly intended to deceive him. Her long absence from the city and her delicate condition upon returning was not noticed by him, but when the truth finally arrived the man was fairly wild. The child was undoubtedly smothered to hide, not only his shame but the greater one of the woman who bore his name. He took it out quietly and buried it without a burial permit. Had he complied with the forms of the law nothing would ever have been said.
