

was a great shock to me. If I had only known that she was following him or that she contemplated such an act, I never met Mrs. Bradley and never saw her. But had I known her desperate state of mind I would have prevented this tragedy. She was jealous. She did not know that I was insistent that the senator should provide for her and that he intended doing so."

"I was Mrs. Bradley's best friend. When the senator first proposed marriage to me, I plainly told him that it was his duty to marry Mrs. Bradley. But he gave me every assurance that a marriage with Mrs. Bradley was impossible. He refused positively to marry her and told me that if he could not marry me, he would not marry any one. Under these circumstances I consented to his proposal. He would arrange matters satisfactorily to Mrs. Bradley. He told me that he would do this and I understood that he had communicated with her and had asked how much money she would need."

The special delivery letter sent by Mrs. Adams to Senator Brown, and which was read to him just before his death, begged him to make the will to make Mrs. Bradley his wife before dying so that her children could bear his name.

DAMIANOS ARRESTED.

Man Who Practised Fraud Here is Caught at Portland.

Word comes to the United States marshal's office that Chris Damianos, alias Anderson, has been caught in Portland. A diligent search has been kept up for this man on charges of forgery and securing registered letters from the postoffice. Postoffice Inspector H. J. Durant made the capture late last night in the coast town. A search lasting for five months, which has taken the pursued and the pursuer into nearly every locality in the west is thus ended.

Chris Damianos was at one time a railroad laborer and worked at different camps. While doing this he became associated with a man named Anderson who was then carrying on a correspondence with a Mrs. Ellison regarding certain business transactions. Damianos learned of this fact and found that Anderson was to receive a registered letter from Mrs. Ellison at Snowville. The letter came, but instead of Anderson receiving it, Damianos, by using the former's name, obtained possession of the same. This contained a $20 money order. This was on Aug. 8, 1906. A few days later another money order for the same amount and also a check for $12 written by Edwin J. Skowet to R. J. Nielson, were received. Damianos cashed these at the local postoffice and then made his getaway. Since then all efforts to locate him have failed until Postoffice Inspector Durant landed him.

Damianos is one of several for whom papers were issued by the federal grand jury. He is a dangerous man and is supposed to have a long criminal record in Europe. Since coming to this country, which was little more than a year ago, he has characterized himself with many strange deeds.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theater—The Symphony orchestra concert is going on this afternoon, but at the hour the "News" goes to press, it is uncertain whether or not the famous Hekking is in attendance. It is hardly necessary to say that the same old trouble is responsible—delayed trains, and the number of managers of lecture bureaus. Mutual improvement courses, etc., who are tearing their hair and anathematizing the railroads, may now be added Messrs. Spencer, Shepherd and Pyper, who at 2 o'clock this afternoon were told that the train from Denver bearing Hekking was five hours late. If he reached the city before 4 o'clock, the plan was to take him at once to the theater and have him play his numbers with Mr. Shepherd accompanying, without rehearsal. If he fails to arrive this afternoon, the aim will be to give the Symphony Orchestra program without him, and to invite the audience to come back this evening to hear him render his numbers, without extra charge.

Orpheum—Heavy business still keeps up at the Orpheum, where there is a very strong bill, the best, in some respects, the season has known.

Grand—A good sized audience witnessed "The Little Homestead" at the Grand last evening, and thoroughly enjoyed the performance. The cast is evenly balanced and the play is very interesting, albeit, it is said. The story deals principally with the doings of a man who believes that his friend of early life had injured him. Nothing that hate and revenge could prompt was too evil for him to wreak upon his once friend, who was innocent of wronging the other man. The villain breaks up the other's home and steals away his wife, who, repentant and remorseful, returns at last to die in her husband's arms. The Macauley and Patterson company do full justice to the piece. The same bill finishes the week, and will be followed by "Uncle Josh Perkins."

Lyric—"The Stowaway" is in its closing performances, tonight and tomorrow afternoon, and evening winding up the engagement.

COLSON IS CHAMPION.

Defeated Fred Hamer at Ogden Last Night in the Second Race.

(Special to the "News.")
Ogden, Dec. 14.—Nearly 1,500 roller skating fans crowded into the rink here last evening to witness the second race between C. L. Colson, manager of the Salt Lake Auditorium rink, and Fred B. Hamer, this city. The race was for two miles and was one of the most sensational ever run on rollers. Colson winning by a lap and a half in the fast time of 5:24.

At the crack of the starter's pistol the racers were off like a shot. Hamer taking the lead. Around the track they flew. Hamer trying his best to increase his lead over Colson, and the latter hanging onto the Ogden man's heels. When the eighteenth lap was reached Colson electrified the large crowd and brought the spectators to their feet cheering wildly. With a remarkable burst of speed he shot by Hamer and began to increase the lead. On the twenty-second lap he again went by Hamer and finished the two miles a lap and a half in the lead.

The victory gives Colson the championship title of Utah and he is also the proud owner of a handsome gold and diamond set medal. Where Colson proved Hamer's master was in taking the difficult turns at the corners of the rink. A number of Ogden society people are making arrangements for a trip to Salt Lake, where they will give a roller skating party at the Auditorium rink.

OPINIONS BY THE SUPREME COURT

Two Were Handed Down This Morning—Judgments Affirmed.

IS AGAINST RAILWAY CO'S.

One Case Was Sifted by E. E. Casady Against His Brother and The Latter's Wife.

An opinion was handed down by the supreme court today affirming the judgment of the lower court in the case of William Brown against the Southern Pacific company, the Ogden Union Railway and Depot company, and the Oregon Short Line Railroad company, appellants. The action was brought to recover damages for injuries received by Brown while driving across the depot yards at Ogden on Dec. 7, 1905 and a verdict was rendered in his favor for $2,500.

The defendants attempted to shift the responsibility for the accident from one to the other but the lower court refused to grant a non-suit in favor of any one of them. It seems that the train crew was in the employ of the Short Line, the engine belonged to the Southern Pacific and the accident occurred on the grounds of the Union Depot company, hence the judgment was rendered against all of them. The supreme court holds that the lower court did not err in refusing to grant the non suit and the judgment of the lower court is affirmed. Justice Frick wrote the opinion of the court which is concurred in by Chief Justice McCarty and Justice Straup.

BROTHER AGAINST BROTHER.
In the case of E. E. Casady against E. E. Casady and Laura J. Casady, appellants, the judgment of the lower court has been affirmed in an opinion handed down by the supreme court today. Casady was given judgment in the lower court against his brother and wife for $3,000 as his commission and for money paid out in a certain real estate transaction.

According to the evidence in the case, Casady learned that the smelters wanted his brother's property near the point of the mountain, and he wrote to E. E. Casady about it. The latter replied that he had practically abandoned the property and had not paid the taxes on it for years. The plaintiff then paid all back taxes out of his own money and opened up negotiations with the smelter people for the sale of the same. His brother then came here from Seattle and sold the property to the smelters for $9,500, but refused to pay E. E. Casady any commission for his efforts in the matter, and also refused to reimburse him for the money he had paid out for taxes on the property. The lower court gave E. E. Casady judgment in the sum named above, and the supreme court now affirms that judgment and declares that there was no evidence of fraud or deceit on the part of plaintiff, and that he is entitled to a commission for his part in the transaction.

SALT LAKE INCLUDED.

Now John W. Censidine is to Have Vaudeville Theater Here.

Portland, Dec. 15.—Six more theaters will be added to the Sullivan and Censidine circuit of vaudeville playhouses within a year.

The announcement was made by John W. Censidine, on his return from California. The new houses will be located in Salt Lake, Denver, Pueblo, Omaha, Kansas City and St. Louis. By this arrangement the circuit will have the form of a loop, for the vaudeville acts will be booked to the west by way of Chicago, Spokane, British Columbia, and Seattle to Portland, and from here the acts will move to California and then after playing six weeks in the state move back east over the route of new houses.

SPECIAL MESSAGE WILL ADVOCATE SHIP SUBSIDY BILL

Washington, Dec. 14.—That President Roosevelt will send to Congress a special message advocating the passage of a ship subsidy measure at the present session was stated by several members of the house today. It was said that the president had declared that the recommendation in his annual message was misunderstood.

In that message he said that if it were found inexpedient to pass the senate bill a measure should be passed to provide for a few lines to South American ports. He did not mean to minimize the importance of other features of the bill, it is said, and now purposes to correct any false impression that may have been gained by the house.

No decision as to the committee's attitude on ship subsidy was reached at the caucus of the Republican members of the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries held today. After discussing the amended Gilling bill the Republicans took no action but decided to call a meeting of the committee for Jan. 7 when a vote of the whole committee will be taken. It is believed that President Roosevelt's wishes in the matter will have been communicated to the house before that time.

The amendments to the bill drafted by Representative Grosvener eliminate cargo subsidy entirely and limit the government's aid to mail carrying ships to South America and the Orient. Even with these changes the members of the committee from the middle west don't favor the measure.

SHIPPERS' CONVENTION.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—A convention of shippers and receivers has been called to meet in Chicago Jan. 4 to devise some means of remedying the car shortage which is an annual occurrence during the fall months. A week ago the lumber interests in Chicago got together and communicated by mail with 100 of the big lumber operators of the country asking their advice upon the matter. Answers have been received from 85 of these communications and in each instance the reply favored bringing the shippers together to endeavor to remedy the evil.

SPELLING REFORM.

House Strikes Out of Appropriation Bill All Reference to Matter.

Washington, Dec. 14.—What probably will be the last act of the house of representatives on the subject of simplified spelling occurred today when on motion of Representative Tawney, chairman of the committee on appropriations, the house without debate, or division struck out of the legislative, executive and judicial bill the provision relative to spelling. The action was taken because of the promise of the president to revoke his order to the public printer and the consequent adoption of yesterday's resolution on this subject.
