The shooting was done by a young man pamed William Maddick, a son of the night burtender, and the men who are suffering as a result of his marksmanship are Willis Pearsall and Andrew R. White, both colored.

Several weeks ago Lew Link, proprieter of the saloon, decided to discourage the practice of colored people patronizing his place of business, and knowing that he could not flatly refuse to serve them with drinks, hit upon the happy went well. The colored population ignored Link's saloon and bought their beer elsewhere. But soon the idea got among them that they had as much right as any white man to drink in

One of the negroes saw the act, and it is claimed took a shot at Maddick jun-ior. Then the trouble began in earnest, Maddlek brought his gun to a level and began blazing away. At the first shot from Maddlek, White fell with a bullet through his lungs and Pearsall got it in the left arm and the left side of the stomach. The other negroes ran rapidly eastward and escaped, Maddlck's claim that the first shot was fired from the colored camp is borns out by the fact that he has a wound in the head and it as the appearance of being made by

Pearsall, who is an old time member of the 14th, did not seem to take the matter very seriously. He said the pain in his arm was more severe than in the en. Said he: "I can't under stand why he shot me when there were others near by. I guess White is done for, but I don't think I will die."

Maddick's head strengthens the state-ment that six shots were fired. The men who ran from the saloon when the shooting commenced finally reached the fort and it was learned that they were Privates Howard, Brooks and Jackson, my sister-in-law called my attention to the fact that five soldiers were going into the saloon, and she remarked at the time there was liable to be trouble. I saw the men go up to the bar, order drinks, and then a few seconds later they made a rush for the outside. The old man (Maddick) ran out with a blir gun, and appeared to hand it to a man the stood in the doorway. A few pac ends later the man bagan to shoot, an fired five shots in all, hitting White and Pearsall. The latter was standing near a telephone pole in the center of the street. In company with some other colored men. They had nothing to do with the affair, however, one way o the other. As I remember it, the old man said to the young one not to shoot but he did. Two of the shots appeared e be fired in a very wild mann it is a wonder that more people were not hit, as there were several people waiting for the car at the time. I heard five shore heard five shots."

WHAT MADDICK SAYS.

Sticks To It That He Was shot in the Head.

William Maddick admits that he fired five shots, but not before he was wounded in the head. "Five niggers wounded in the head "Five niggers" came in," he said, "and called for heat and threw down only by cents, when they knew that drinks to thein were a guarter. My father told them to come back and pay, but they wouldn't do it, and he handed me a gun and told me to make them come back. "When I went to the door and spoke to them, one of them said. "Go to b- yo - of a -." Then a little bit of a fellow began to erowd up to me, and I said, "Stand back, little follow: stand back: Just then I heard the report of a gun and feit something strike me a gun and feit something strike me here on the head. Then I opened fire at them and emutied the five shots in my gun. That is all there is to it."

Frisco, May 14.-Through the efforts of the committee selected by the citizens, a very liberal subscription has been raised, for the sufferers of the Scofield disaster, from among the wage carners of this precinct. Not one cent came from other than men who work for wages with no other income. The amount will reach close to, if not quite, $500. Scarcely a man or family around the camp, who did not assist with a day's wages, even widows, who wash for a living, added to the list.

St. Louis Strike.

The strike on the St. Louis suburban street railway company's system having been settled at yesterday's conference cars on that road are running as usual today.

A large number of strikers returned to work. This left the police depart-ment with a larger force of men to help operate the lines of the St. Louis Transit company and guard the labor-ers who are removing obstacles from the tracks all over the city. All the lines in operation yesterday were running cars by noon today with more regularity than on any day since the strike began, but seventeen divisions of the Transit system were not in operation.

The street car strikers at Kansas City continue to lose strength and today there was hardly a semblance of a strike on the Metropolitan lines. In every part of the city full complements of trains are being operated without the least friction.
