

FLOATING FRAGMENTS.

It commenced to snow this afternoon.
 Esthetic note books are among the latest novelties.
 The City Council meet to-night to consider the proposed new charter.
 Edmunds' famous bill passed the Senate yesterday evening, with some slight modifications.
 The man who stops his paper to economize ought to cut his nose off to keep from buying handkerchiefs.
 On Wednesday night, a sneak thief walked off with a door mat from the front of the Central school-house, Ogden.
 If rain in the limbs comes through sleeping without covering on cool nights, what would common sense suggest? A counterpane.
 A friend asks whether, providing Edmunds' bill becomes law, it would not be well to change the name of Utah to New Siberia.
 The Tabernacle choir purpose having a social party at the Social Hall, the night when the affair is to come off has not yet been decided upon.
 The barometer is lower than it has been all winter. We suppose this means a big blow or a big snow. Since that was written, the latter has come.
 "What's this turkey very thin?" asked the lady. "No, ma'am," replied the truthful dealer, "it's not thin. What you mistake for bones are horse-cuts. It's a hen turkey, you know."
 The 18th District School, Miss Little's charge, is having a party at the school house this evening. The company will be joined by a number of invited friends this evening.
 There will be a concert this evening, in the 6th Ward Assembly Hall, for which an excellent program must be eaten with a spoon. Persons who are in the habit of eating soup with a fork or a carving knife will be slow to adopt these new-fangled ideas. However, we prefer to eat it with the mouth.
 It can't run a business alone; it can't run it alone and make a success of it; but the two together can. Hence without push is like a steam engine without steam. You see the mechanism of the thing, but its value is in its utility, and the absence of power to drive it leaves it a profitless ornament.
 An exchange says: "Thermometers are very unreliable. In the winter they never get within ten degrees of the truth, and in the summer they don't ascend within 20 degrees as high as everyone knows they would be if they told the truth." We always had an idea it was the mercury and not the thermometer that ascended and descended.
 J. T. Allen wrote to the Omaha Republican: "On a recent visit to the four-wheelers, the Union Pacific are putting down on the high ridges near the Soda Lake, a large quantity of water of good quality was struck, which raised in the pipe to within nine feet of the surface. There is no doubt that there is an underlying current of water on the four-wheelers, running eastward from the mountains, and that artesian wells would operate successfully at a moderate depth. At least with a four-inch well a windmill would work to advantage."

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.
 The Toledo Murder Case.—The time of the District Court this morning was occupied in hearing the evidence for the prosecution in the Middlecomb-Jensen murder trial. A pretty strong case had up to the time of recess, been made out against the accused. The prosecution had not rested up to 12 o'clock.
 Rio Grande Railroad.—Our Huntington, A. & Co., correspondent, W. H., writes from that place: "There is a great deal of speculation as to the intentions of the Denver & Rio Grande R. R. Co. To tell you all the rumors would fill your paper with enough for an extra. One thing is certain, all work has been stopped. Contractors are selling out their supplies at a great loss. Quite a number of ex-freighters have been offered their loads of grain for the freight bill, and all parties are leaving the country as fast as possible."
 Elegant Present.—Mrs. George Carless, the superb vocalist, was, on Wednesday evening, the recipient of an elegant silver water service from her Masonic friends, as a testimonial of their high esteem and appreciation of her very generous and valuable assistance in their popular concert given in aid of the Masonic Library. The set consists of a beautiful pitcher mounted on an embossed silver tray with gold lined bowl and goblets. The pitcher is engraved with the following inscription: "Presented to Mrs. George Carless by her Masonic friends, Feb. 1882."
 Death by Scalding.—A lamentable incident occurred at Ferron, Castle Valley, Emery County, on the 8th inst. Willie, a three-year old son of Brother Peter Hansen, while at play, accidentally fell into a boilerful of hot water, by which he was fearfully scalded. After much suffering, he died at 1 o'clock the following morning. The burial took place on the 10th. The little community exhibit deep sympathy for the parents, who are greatly distressed at the occurrence.
 An Omission.—The gentleman who furnished the report of the Sunday School Union Meeting requests us to state that an unintentional omission occurred in it. The services of Bro. Thos. McIntyre passed unnoticed. He has served for years as Leader and Teacher of Singing in the Sunday School of the 21st Ward and on the evening in question introduced and superintended a fair representative choir of Sunday School Scholars and Teachers of the Ward to which he belongs and the state of efficiency displayed by them reflects the highest credit upon him, and tends to show what may be accomplished by a zealous and energetic man in this important branch pertaining to our Sunday Schools.

Funeral Services of Sister Elizabeth A. Whitney.

Agreeable to announcement, the funeral services of Mother Whitney were conducted this forenoon in the Assembly Hall.
 The casket containing the body of our esteemed sister was placed in front of the stand about an hour before the ceremonies commenced, and the friends of the deceased laid out the large audience that filled the body of the hall and part of the galleries, as they entered the building improved the opportunity to view the face of the deceased. During the time the body was lying in state, Brother Joseph J. Daynes discoursed appropriate music on the organ.
 In opening the services the Tabernacle choir, under the leadership of Brother Beeley, sang
 O Father, thou hast dwelt.
 Elder John Pack offered prayer, and the choir sang:
 Never say God to thee.
 Counselor D. H. Wells then made brief remarks. He said, the respect that we this day were called upon to pay to the dead, we paid to one of our own—Mother Whitney. We had been acquainted with her—she was going to say, all our lives; and consequently her virtues need not be referred to, as they were already known—they were those of a noble and true woman, a woman whose integrity had been proven the many years of her fellowship with the Church through all its trials, its joys and sorrows, and he, the speaker, was gratified to know that no so worthy had passed away under circumstances so favorable, and would be assuredly expressed the feelings of the large congregation he addressed in saying, peace to the ashes of Mother Whitney, and God bless her people.
 Elder Lorenzo D. Young, the next speaker, had known the deceased 40 years, and he knew her life to be an example of virtue, brightness, kindness, sympathy and love to her fellow-creatures. It had been his lot to travel a great deal in company with Brother and Sister Whitney, during the varied and shifting scenes through which the Church had passed, and no matter what the circumstances were, whether houseless in a city, or in a wilderness, or in cold hunger fleeing from persecution, it mattered not how uninviting and dark, and at times, seemingly, without a ray of hope, Mother Whitney had always a smile upon her face and an encouraging word to offer. It afforded him joy to testify to her noble and motherly qualities, and to know that in passing hence she has gone to join a blessed and happy throng of her associates and friends who, like her, were to God and man true even to death.
 President Jos. F. Smith then addressed the assembly. The speaker had been acquainted with Mother Whitney ever since he could remember. Of her it might be truly said, she was a mother in Israel. It was the mercury and not the thermometer that ascended and descended.
 J. T. Allen wrote to the Omaha Republican: "On a recent visit to the four-wheelers, the Union Pacific are putting down on the high ridges near the Soda Lake, a large quantity of water of good quality was struck, which raised in the pipe to within nine feet of the surface. MURDER AT OGDEN.

JAMES BROWN IS SHOT AND KILLED BY GEORGE CATLIN.

A murder was committed at Ogden on Wednesday night. We glean the particulars of the affair from the Herald of that town. The substance of the story is that George Catlin, James Brown and Wm. McLaughlin had been living together in a room on Young Street. Within several months they are reported to have quarreled several times. Between seven and eight o'clock, Wednesday night, the three men were together in their room, when Catlin took up a valise and took out a loaded revolver, cocked it, and placed it behind him. He then told Brown and McLaughlin to get up and leave the room, and "take a walk." McLaughlin procured a bucket of water, which he placed behind the door, and then left; but Brown, who was eating his supper, remained in the room. Shortly after McLaughlin left, two shots were fired, which were heard by two ladies, Mrs. Kerr and Mrs. Caldwell, mother and daughter, who occupied the front part of the building, and who, immediately after, saw a man running from the direction of the room to the street.
 An alarm was given, and shortly after Sheriff Wm. Brown and U. S. Deputy Marshal Oscar Vandercok repaired to the room, where they found Brown quite dead. No one else was in the room at this time; but soon after Catlin entered, and from some enquiries made of him by the officers, they strongly suspected he was implicated in causing the death of Brown. They arrested Catlin and locked him up in jail.
 This morning a pistol was found on the premises, just south of the room where the murder had been committed. There were four 38-calibre cartridges in it, and two chambers were empty. The weapon was identified as the property of George Catlin.
 An examination of Brown's body showed one bullet wound on the left shoulder and another near the armpit, the last of which, in the opinion of the surgeon, produced death. The verdict of the coroner's jury was that deceased came to his death by two pistol shot wounds, by the hand of George Catlin.
