

stopped and the gentleman rescued without further damage than a badly bruised breast. He is able to be about, but by no means free from the effects of the squeeze.

Water.—Careful enquiry shows that the amount of the snow deposits cached in the mountains of this and adjacent Territories is but limited, the snow fall having been light, as mentioned by us previously. The additional quantities added by the late snow storms, since the advent of this year, did not largely increase the reserves upon which our irrigation water supplies are dependent; consequently the water supply is likely to be scarce, and unless we are blest with copious seasonable rains the outlook for grain crops is not very promising. The benefits accruing to this city from the Salt Lake and Jordan Canal, stand a fair prospect of being fully appreciated.

Change of Labor.—President John Henry Smith, in the Millennial Star of March 5th, announces the release of Bishop O. F. Whitney, from the position of assistant editor, a post he had ably occupied since March, 1882. The object of the change is to enable him to resume his labors in the ministry, with a view also to relieve him from the necessarily close confinement of office duties, that his health may recuperate. President Smith speaks in terms of high commendation of his labors in the past, and states that Brother Whitney will, for the present take charge of the London Conference, and subsequently be at liberty to travel throughout the British Islands, as a servant of God, going wherever the Spirit may direct.

Resolutions and Obituaries.—We have received a copy of resolutions of respect passed by the Ephraim Choir, to the memory of Sister Mary W. Dorius, but we have not space to publish them. While the feeling that prompts such exhibitions of sympathy and respect is one of the noblest of which the human heart is susceptible, it can scarcely be expected that a public newspaper can devote its space, except in unusual instances, to such matters, which, in the great majority of cases, are of local more than general interest. Lengthy obituary notices are open to the same remark, except in notable cases. We have alluded to this subject before, and yet the elaborate statements flow in until, were we to give place to them in our columns, they would monopolize most of the space at our command.

An Early Reminiscence.—Brother Joseph L. Heywood sends the following:

"While reflecting upon the history of the Church as published in the Juvenile Instructor of late, some incidents that came under my observation have recurred to my mind. Immediately after the retreat of our enemies on the 12th day of September, 1846, I met President Daniel H. Wells, who remarked, 'the victory is ours, but the Lord has done it.'"

The Hon. John Wood, then Mayor of Quincy, Illinois, kept the time of the engagement (one hour and forty minutes) and seemed to be much affected by the circumstance of Elder William Anderson and his son being slain. On his return to Quincy he was met by the populace, who solicited a speech. Addressing himself to Mr. Bartlett, editor of the Quincy Whig he said: 'Bartlett, I used to be sceptical regarding future rewards and punishments, but I have come to the conclusion that this life is not long enough for such scoundrels as you are to receive the punishment due them.' Then turning to Captain Joseph Artus (an old bachelor) he said: 'If you will urge this thing on, I thank God that you have no children to call you father.'"

Re-appointed.—Yesterday Mr. Joseph F. Simmonds, of the firm of Stayner & Simmonds, was re-appointed a notary public by his excellency Governor Eli H. Murray. Mr. S. has acted in that office for the last six years and given ample evidence of his fitness for the position.

Shot an Indian.—The following from a Montana paper shows one of those incidents which often lead to Indian outbreaks:

A Crow Indian chief was shot by a white man about two weeks ago between Big and Little Porcupine rivers. Some difficulty arose over the ownership of a horse that the Indians had in their herd and claimed on the ground that they had traded for the animal. They were not willing to turn over the horse to its original owner, who then and there drew his gun and shot the chief through his head, killing him almost instantly. He was arrested by the trappers and taken to Fort Custer where he will be held for trial before the United States authorities.

A Useful Pamphlet.—Messrs. Stayner and Simmonds have just published, through this office, a very excellent pamphlet on land matters. Mr. Stayner is the author of the work, which covers a large amount of ground on the subject it treats. It contains valuable information on the requirements of the land law; shows the difference between pre-emption and homestead claims, the advantages of timber culture, and the benefits of the Desert Land Act. It also shows, in plain and concise language, how to locate mines and tunnels, so as to secure rights under the laws; gives full instructions in regard to patenting mines, and how to secure stone deposits, of which there are many in the Territory. It presents a useful chapter on coal lands, with full particulars as to filing claims, making improvements and the time for payment. Full tables containing government fees and charges on land and mines are also found in the appropriate places. The pamphlet closes with a map showing the form an sectionizing of an ordinary township, with the numbering of the sections, and the method of subdividing them into quarters and forties.

School lands are also treated on, and the manner of expediting patents which have been delayed.

The pamphlet is neatly printed on a good quality of paper, and sells at 25 cents.

A MYSTERIOUS FIND.

THE REMAINS OF A MAN ARE DISCOVERED ON THE GROUND NEAR CLEAR LAKE.

We learn from Dr. J. D. M. Crockwell, who is located at Clear Lake, Millard County, that while his son William, a lad of about ten years of age, was hunting stock in that locality last Wednesday, he discovered a portion of the remains of a man lying upon the ground. When the boy returned home and reported to his father, the latter with the lad and Mr. Peter Wolsey, proceeded to the spot where the bones lay. With them were portions of a snuff colored fustian box coat, with side pockets. None of the other clothing could be identified so far as color was concerned. There were also found near the spot a silver watch, brass chain and six dollars in money. Dr. Crockwell at once sent a messenger to Fillmore, to notify the coroner.

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY, MAR. 26.

University.—This morning the fourth term of the present academic year of the Deseret University opened. Two hundred and ninety students attended the late term, which expired on Friday last. The institution is flourishing, in all except a suitable building.

A Lady Notary.—Governor Murray has commissioned Miss Mary Greenwood, of American Fork, a notary public. This is the first instance so far as we can recollect, of a lady receiving an appointment of that character. We do not see why it should have been so, for there are lots of ladies well qualified for such an office.

Vacancy Filled.—On Saturday afternoon the regular meeting of the Ladies' Association was held at the 14th Ward Assembly Room. Presidents A. M. Cannon, D. O. Calder and Joseph E. Taylor were present. Mrs. Maria Y. Dougall was chosen counselor to sister Mary A. Frezza, who presides over the Young Ladies' Association of this Stake, to fill the vacancy created by the death of the late sister Clara Y. Conrad.

From Montpelier.—This morning we received a call from Brother Henry Rollap, formerly of this city, but now of Montpelier, Bear Lake County, Idaho. The advent of the Oregon Short Line R. R. at that place has made business boom in the locality. Mr. Rollap is deputy clerk of the District Court and agent for the land office. Since the appearance of the railroad the liquor business has gained a considerable foothold, as half a dozen saloons are already located in that small town.

The Late Accident.—We have seen a letter written by a relative of the late George Hovey, the young man of Millville who was recently accidentally killed by falling off a train and being run over by the cars on the Utah & Northern R. R. while on his way, with a number of others, to the Oregon Short Line R. R. It appears that the young man was not addicted to drinking to any extent, but that when laboring under any excitement he was a somnambulist, and it is not improbable that he got up in his sleep and stepped off the flat car on which he was riding. But of course this must be a matter of conjecture.

Hacked with a Hatchet.—There is a ridiculous song about some fellow cutting his throat with a lump of chalk. Last Friday, at Denver, John Crowley, aged 22 years, selected nearly as improbable an implement with which to finish his earthly run. He seized a hatchet with both hands and sawed away at his windpipe until it was nearly severed. The reason ascribed for the rash act was that his father had got into trouble and brought disgrace upon the family. The probabilities are in favor of his recovery, although he made a horrible gash.

The March Number.—The March number of the Contributor is out. Here is the table of contents:

George A. Smith, VI. Pioneering; Means of Improvement, Charles W. Stayner; Hildebrand and Henry IV., Ed. E. Brain; American Presidents, James H. Hart; Eternal Duration of Matter, VI., Parley P. Pratt; Sermons and Writings of the Prophets, Object of Gathering, Joseph Smith; The Bible in Egypt, Ruby Lamont; The Missing Link, O. F. Whitney; The Head of Gold, Hannah T. King; Signs of Christ's Coming, V., The Gathering, Robert S. Spence; The Echo Canyon War, IV., Let Smith's Narrative conclude; Atheism and Infidelity, J. L. Robison; The Olive Tree, selected; Pride in Work, H. W. Naisbitt; A Scene in Virginia, J. L. Townsend; Editorial: Success of our Delegates; Temperance Lecture, Moses Thatcher; Association Intelligence: Notice, Quarterly Conferences.

A Dangerous Female.—On Friday last, at Park City, Deputy Sheriff Milton Thomas and Deputy Shields went to the house of a woman known as "Carrie," to seize some goods by virtue of an attachment. The woman met Shields with a cocked revolver, with which she threatened to end his career. He backed into a room where Thomas was packing the goods for removal, when the furious female turned the weapon on him and told him to go and not stand upon the order of his departure. Shields made a remark which attracted her attention, and again he was covered with the pistol. This was Thomas's opportune moment, as he seized and disarmed her, but not until he received a blow on the side of his head and a cut on his hand. So says the Record. The woman was placed in jail and fined $50.

An Interesting Suit.—A damage suit which was planted by James Malcolm against the Horn Silver Mining Company, has created a great deal of interest at Beaver. It appears that the plaintiff was terribly injured while at work in the mine, disabling him permanently from physical labor. The company declined to give him what he claimed to be adequate compensation, and he commenced suit a year ago for $10,000, the jury awarding him the full amount. The defense moved, on certain grounds, for a new trial, which was granted by Judge Twies. The plaintiff amended his complaint and increased the amount of damages to $50,000. Recently the defendants moved for a nonsuit, which was granted by the Judge, and the case was thrown out of court. Messrs. Christian, Lochrie and Kenner were counsel for the plaintiff, and Messrs. P. L. Williams and Zera Snow for the defendants.

NOTICE.

The General Conference of the Young People's Mutual Improvement Association, will convene in the Assembly Hall, this city, at 10 a. m. on Monday, April 9th, and will continue through the day.

All the members of the various Associations, and particularly the officers, are invited to attend, and the latter should come prepared to make their reports.

ACCIDENTALLY POISONED.

A YOUNG BOY MEETS WITH A SINGULAR DEATH.

A most deplorable case of accidental poisoning occurred at Santaquin, Utah County, last Wednesday. Mr. Wm. R. Scott, agent of the U. C. R. R. at Spanish Fork, and his family reside at the place first named. On the day mentioned they were all out attending a family party at the house of a friend. A painter who was left at work at their residence found a quantity of bread upon which some of the poisonous stuff known as "rough on rats" had been placed. To get it out of his way he put it on a table. Before going home Mrs. Scott sent her nine-year-old son ahead to light the fire. Unfortunately the little fellow ate the poisoned bread. Immediately on her arrival Mrs. Scott discovered what had occurred. Emetics were administered to the boy and every conceivable means adopted to destroy the action of the poison, and for a time he appeared to be recovering from its effects, but subsequently he grew worse, and finally expired at thirty minutes past three o'clock yesterday morning.

This morning the parents brought the body of their son to this city for burial in the Salt Lake cemetery. The family formerly resided at Sandy.

ABOUT BEE-KEEPING.

AN INTELLIGENT STATEMENT ON THE SUBJECT.

B. Worthington, of Payson, supplies the following:

"At the request of the Beekeepers' Association of Payson, I send you a report of our organization and the present condition of the bee industry here. On February 14th the Payson Beekeepers' Association met for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year. The result of the meeting was: Parley M. Grigg was elected President; German Ellsworth, Vice-President; S. Worthington, Secretary; John Done, Treasurer, and German Ellsworth local bee inspector.

As near as can be ascertained there were in Payson, last fall, 789 stands of bees. This spring 183 of these, almost 25 per cent. of the whole number, were found to be dead. This is a very heavy proportion of losses. The past winter, however, was an unusually severe one. The bees were wintered on the summer stands, with but few exceptions. Those that were not farced no better than the others. Two of the principal causes of the heavy loss of bees were weak colonies and an insufficient amount of honey being left in the hives last fall for the bees to winter upon. The first of these causes can be greatly lessened if not entirely overcome, by proper attention and management of the bees during the summer season and by stimulating them to rear brood late in the fall, as they then go into winter quarters with plenty of young bees to maintain the animal heat necessary through the cold season of winter.

It should not be the aim of the apiarist so much to increase the number of his stands of bees as it should be to keep them strong, and not to divide his bees until he is forced to do so. Strong colonies will almost always do well; weak ones, never. Every one who owns bees should be sure that they have enough honey in the fall of the year to last them through the winter. If they have not then supply the deficiency by feeding. The greatest losses have been experienced by beginners. The losses of our more experienced bee men have been slight—from two to three per cent.

Bee culture is an important factor in the welfare and prosperity of our growing Territory. It yields fair returns for the time and money invested in it. But like many other industries it must be attended to at the proper time and season. He only can expect to obtain the best results who makes it his special business.

To any one wishing to obtain information relating to the management of bees, the treatment of foul brood, introducing queens, dividing bees, etc. I should recommend to apply to our president and vice-president, also to Wm. A. Grigg, all of this place. These men are competent and willing to give information to any one who takes a lively interest in the bee business.

Hope for Brunkards.

My husband had drunken habits he could not overcome until Parker's Ginger Tonic took away his thirst for stimulants, restored his energy of mind and gave him strength to attend to business.—Clincinnati Lady.

A Startling Discovery.

Physicians are often startled by remarkable discoveries. The fact that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and all Throat and Lung diseases is daily curing patients that they have given up to die, is startling them to realize their sense of duty, and examine into the merits of this wonderful discovery; resulting in hundreds of our best Physicians using it in their practice. Trial Bottles free at any Drug Store. Regular size $1.00.

A CURE OF PNEUMONIA.

Mr. D. H. Barnaby, of Oswego, N. Y., says that his daughter was taken with a violent cold which terminated with pneumonia, and all the best physicians gave the case up and said she could not live but a few hours at most. She was in this condition when a friend recommended Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs and advised her to try it. She accepted it as a last resort, and was surprised to find that it produced a marked change for the better, and by persevering in its use a permanent cure was effected.
