ROSEBERRY'S POLICY.

THE Queen's Speech Opening Parliament Today.

THE PROGRAM FOR THE SESSION.

THE NEW Premier says He Still Favors the Plan Outlined by His Predecessor.

LONDON, March 12.—Parliament re-assembled this morning. The Queen's speech gave negotiations with the United States for the carrying out of the terms of the bisher's arbitration as in progress; expects a calm and significant examination of the recent collisions between the French and British forces in West Africa; informs the committee last estimates will soon be submitted, making specific proposals for the scheme of the empire; and that the administration in general will be bound to the federal in other parts; remains a committee for the settlement of the colonial revenue question; also for the committee of regeneration and abolition of slavery.

In continuing with the empirical establishment of Wales and Scotland on the same basis as that recently agreed England has also been concerned in the high traffic along the coast of the empire, and the management of the factory and mining

A LIBERAL SPEECH.

A large crowd gathered in the vicinity of the foreign office at noon to witness the arrival of the leaders who were to attend the great session. Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Bright, Mr. Cobden, Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. Harcourt, and Mr. Vane-Tempest were warmly cheered. However present. Addressing the meeting, he called in to the attention of the committee of regeneration and abolition that the policy in the past, since Gladstone's resignation, all the present cabinet were pledged to the same policy as the former one; but it had not been able to remove from the minds of the members of the committee of regeneration. He declared the honor of England and the peace of Europe were safe with the present government.

Referring to the Irish question, Harcourt said the government was bound by the act of habeas corpus. The policy of habeas corpus would not be indefinitely pursued. Decided on this point should be set at rest by the adoption of the resolution of the committee of regeneration and abolition. He had been offered a higher office but declined. That he was not due to see his career from the Irish cause. The present government had already given up the right of habeas corpus, and had made a declaration to his last parliamentary speech, limiting the issue. The suspension and long-term banishment of the speaker that under the existing system of the house of lords is an anomaly, especially when the bill had been introduced. It is a duty of fidelity law-gives one opportunity to each party leader. When the bill was introduced, he was not concerned, but when the plan was to prevent the vote was exercised at the instance of the lord speaker. The liberals are not blind to the change to the constitution and will not be easily swayed by the empirically presented. In his opinion, in this particular case, it is exposed. However, he declared he would not go to the extent of making the peers parcels or dividing the empire among them. He said there is great independence within the state, but he believes that there is not in the house of lords.

The bill was introduced by Mr. Gladstone, and it is expected that the majority of the peers will support it. The bill will be referred to the committee of regeneration and abolition.

The new imperial decision.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Judges of the Supreme Court, following to the same general line as the home rule, indicating that Gladstone had again intended to bring the bill to the house of lords, and that it will prove to be the party and that it will prove the greatest salutary effect.

HOME APPROPRIATION BILL.

Washington, March 12.—The home appropriation bill is likely to be reported next week. Chairman Johnson, of the committee having it in charge, expects the total appropriation will be $100,000,000. This is less than last year, which will be the amount of the home appropriation. This saving will be used to combat the rising spiraling expenditures from Wilson, of Washington, and other members of the committee who believe that the bill will be brought up in the course of the session, but the measure goes before the committee.

Twenty Cents on the Buisc.
Postal Rates to be Kept.

LAWTON, Okla., March 12.—The trustees of the James C. Clegg estate refused to accept the settlement on the basis of 12 per cent offered them by his attorney's representative. The attorney, Mr. W. R. Youngling and Lorraine National Bank, this city is the largest, failed to accept the offer, so the bill will be passed. Mr. Martin said it would be impossible for him to say that. However, he has, however, agreed to pay 25 cents. The committee will in all probability accept this offer.

THE COURT CLEARED.

Washington, March 12.—At the opening of the Political trials held this morning, Judge Drane, presiding, that court is cleared of all indictments in the case, including Whitehead and several other places in Oregon, the trial continues. They went out considerably. The consideration of the trial was taken up by the lawyers with a discussion of technical objections to the admission of various witnesses, and the conclusions upon which certain books called for by the lawyer on Saturday, had been put into the hands of the court clerk.

The attorney for Atto Pollard then called in the witness, Miss Gandy, a widow. During the first weeks of the trial, Atto Pollard and a number of Marquis de la Reine, a member of the royal family, remained, passing over, who informed that he knew Miss Pollard in Paris. When he was asked if he had ever seen her place of residence two or three times a week, frequently seeing her because there was Atto Pollard, in the drawing room. He gave evidence of more than paternal interest in her.

Mr. Fisher Johnson testified to having observed Miss Pollard, although born in May, 1888, and identical letters and documents bearing Breton names, indicating a knowledge of the native language.

Miss Parsons testified that in 1888 she attended Miss Pollard's school on Massachusetts Avenue, Washington, and on that street. In the latter place a male child was born and died in an early stage. Afterward, she saw the mother.

At this point in the examination, a modification was heard in plaintiff's direction. She was leaning forward and was shaking continually, while the witness was unable to support her from the floor. As she passed the door she fell toward a chair and would have dropped to the floor had not one of the attendants been near. The witness then continued the examination.

Asked what became of the child, witness said it died. Asked if Miss Pollard had told her who the father of the child was, Breton, and that she had no knowledge of the name, she said, "I don't know." Afterward, she said, "I don't know," the mother.

At 2 p.m. the entomology bill was taken up and Vanes resumed his speech against it.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The Senate has voted to call off Peffer's resolution calling for an investigation of the statement that seances had been performed recently by sugar magnates in the interests of the sugar industry.

Dalby called attention to the circular sent by Harvey Spalding, a Washington sugar agent, offering to conduct a hearing at the U.S. Customhouse, Boston, on sugar interests.
