er strength of body, of mind and of soul. When one strives to keep him-self within the pale of God's command-self within the pale of God's command-ments, he cannot but feel greater strength in everything that pertains to his being. There are many things that need reforming, and there is plenty of work for the elders to do, whether at home or abroad. It is not necessary to rail against wrongdoing, but evil should be pointed out and an invitation ex-tended to the wrongdoer for right liv-ing.

gerence of the Church of Jesus Christ largely attended. There were five speakers during the last session, namely Presidents John R. Winder, Anthon

H. Lund, Elder Seymour B. Young

Patriarch John Smith, and President

Joseph F. Smith, in the order named.

When the "News" report of the conference closed yesterday afternoon,

President John R. Winder, had just started to speak. He touched upon the main topic of the conference, a stricter main topic of the conference, a stricter observance of the Word of Wisdom, and the regulation of the liquor traffic. "Another important subject, not much referred to during the confer-ence, said President Winder, "was tith-ing. It is a principle in which he be-lleved with all his heart. Any man who paid an honest tithing would be blessed, but none should perform that duty, for the purpose of receiving blessings in the way of dollars and cents. As to how the tithing is ex-

PRESIDENT ANTHON H. LUND.

President Anthon H. Lund, the next speaker, spoke feelingly of President Winder, of his wonderful mentality at the advanced age of 87, and testified that in all things he was a man of faith and fai hruiness. President Lund referred to a revela-tion given by the Lord 14 months be-fore the organization of the Church that a marvelous work was about to be instituted among the children of men. Now after a lapse of 78 years we can realize to a great extent the

we can realize to a great extent the scope of the promise then made. As a prophet, Joseph Smith is sustained by the fulfiliment of his prophesies, and as ε teacher he is sustained by the purity of his teachings. By those who knew him he was beloved, and those now living who were personally ac-quainted with him, never tire of telling of his kindness of heart and greatness > eph Smith dissolved the First Presidency, and the rightful and legitimate leadership fell upon the twelve apost-les. This was at is had been in the days of the Savior. At His death no mention was made of any of his rela-tives succeeding to leadership of the Church, but the succession fell upon the apostles, with Peter at their head. To Peter fell the charge of feeding the flock of Christ. All controversies were submitted to Peter, James and John, submitted to Peter, James and John, and there was formed the filtst presi-dency. When Joseph died the res-possibility of leading the Church fell upon the twelve aposites. There was no talk of heridity, in the matter of a leadership for the Church. There was no disorganization of the Church, as has been claimed by some. Because the prophet of the Lord was slain by wicked men, was that a justi-fication for the Lord rejecting the Church and disorganizing it? Some men were too cowardly to stay by the Church and disorganizing it. Solid men were too cowardly to stay by the Church in its trying ordeals, but this did not warrant an assupntion that the faithful and true were rejected by the Lord. There was no disorganiza-tion, hence no need of a reorganization.

ELDER SEYMOUR B. YOUNG. The vote taken for the suppression The vote taken for the suppression of the drinking habit among the Lat-ter-day Saints was heartily endorsed by Elder Seymour B. Young. He said he wished that the condition sought for might be found in every Christian com-munity in the land, irrespective of creed. The observance of the Sabbath was another matter that should receive the attraction of well disposed persons the attention of well disposed persons. The tearing up on Sunday of the streets of this city for paving purposes had been seen frequently of late, and saloons had been found with open doesn or the Schedth day.

Gardner. Patriarch John Smith was the next speaker. He endorsed all that had been said during the conference, and testified that it had come from the right source. Joseph Smith was a prophet of the liv-ing God, and his successors have been in the right path; their work has been just and true. Some people commit in the right path; their work has been just and true. Some people commit-more ains of omission than of commis-sion, and the speaker felt that perhaps he was in that position, though his en-deavors had been to do his duty. The saints were admonished by the speaker to listen to the still small voice of the Spirit of God.

the Church had no painpinets of other works setting forth the gospel. But the Book of Mormon was a strong ad-vocate of its own divinity. It converted such men as Brigham, John, Joseph and Lorenzo Young. For a time it seemed that argumentative books were better means of spreading the grospel better means of spreading the gospel than was the Book of Mormon itself. But the conclusion has been reached that the best means of teaching the truths contained in the Book of Mormon is to increase the output of the book itself. There had recently been published in the northern states 100,000 bock itself. There had recently been published in the northern states 100,000 copies of the Book of Mormon, and only the other day an order had been received from one firm for 500 copies of the edition to be delivered at once. The speaker hoped that the Book of Mormon, like the Bible, should be translated into all languages and be read in all parts of the world. The organization of the Church was not made piece meal, nor added upon from time to time. When the Church wan organized, although there were not sufficient numbers to fill the re-quirements, but it was already known by the Prophet Joseph just what the mind and will of the Lord was in re-gard to organization. For a time the Church was directed by elders; subse-quently high priests were ordained, and in 1835 the first presidency was organ-ized and in 1835 the quorum of the apostles was completed, followed short-ly afterwards supplemented by the seventies. In all states, the plan had already been laid out by revelation, and office upon office was filled when the need of the Church made it neces-sary. The martyrdom of the Prophet Jos-on the dignity of labor. He held that much of this dignity has been lost in America, that the laboring man was too often made the tool of the wily politician. In regard to the latter, he said: "The politicians come before you and wave the star-spangled ban-ner, and sing about it to you, and you, like a hungry robin, open your bazoo to the greatest possible extent, so wide that your eyes close, and swallow whatever he is a mind to drop into it, never asking whether it is worms or carpet tacks."

never asking whether it is worths or carpet tacks." Brown had his cudgel-out-for the government because the administra-tion came to the aid of the banks dur-ing the last panic, and said: "While all the aid of a powerful government was extended to the trust controllers, nothing was done for labor, and no one had any idea of what could be done for it, but the Socialist party."

This is the first time that a Utah man has thus been honored, as it is necessary for a state to have as it is necessary for a state to have 100 members in the association before it can be thus represented, and Utah has only 34. There have been a dozen states without representation; so the association determined at this last con-vention to bunch these states, and choose three representatives from them at large.
