Interesting Letter from a Young Elder
There on a Mission.

A Year over the Island—Hospitality of the People—Spring is Just
Opening.—The Elders Are Doing
Good Work.

A private letter from Elder L. G. Hougham, now on a mission in New Zealand, contains much that is interesting in his publication. The following is the following:

CANTERBURY, NEW ZEALAND, Sept. 6, 1890.—"I have been here in the Wairarapa valley all my time since coming to New Zealand. The Wairarapa contains all of the Wairarapa valley, and the valley averages a width of nearly ten miles. The hills are high, and the country miles long, with the lower south end extending to the North and south islands. Towards the center of the valley is situated the beautiful Wairarapa lake, which abounds with fish of different kinds, and a great many eels, which are very fat. They are caught by the ten or twelve men who work in Rutherford Wharf, who is president of the Canterbury branch, and remains at night.

Arriving on my mission for eight months, I was called to preside over the Wairarapa district by the president of the mission, Elder W. T. Stewart. Shortly after this call Elder Stewart, who came direct from England, joined me as traveling Elder and companion.

On the morning of Aug. 20th, Elder Bowes and I left Greytown (a small European city) to visit the natives in the Wairarapa valley. After a ride of 20 miles by horse we reached the native town called Te Waihanga, and on nearing the "pa" (fortress) we were greeted by the natives. We held a sacrament meeting there, and Elder Bowes spoke, comparing the commandments of God with the commandments of men, and showed how the doctrine of Jesus had been changed by men through the ages.

There were a number of elders in attendance, and they could give attention to what was said; three ears supplied for questions. We held a meeting in the evening, and had a successful service.

After the usual greeting of "Good-morning," we turned our horses in the direction of the fortresses, and the remainder of the afternoon in talking with the native chieftains. The "pa" is composed of eight or ten houses (with Maori fashion) with roofs thatched with long grass or straw, and walls of earth. A little distance out of the "pa" stands the "whare karaka" (or meeting house), a neat little church built by the natives (this was built European style). The Church of England, however, did not allow us to enter it, so we did not go in. But when our Elders made an appearance in the "pa" and presented the gospel of Christ, the natives were converted and became members of the Church. John C. Green, a member of the Council of Bishops, ministered his office and position amongst the natives of Te Waihanga.

We spent the evening of the day, and arrived in Kaitangata the next morning, where we found a number of natives every morning and evening and anxious of seeing, reading a chapter from the Bible or Book of Mormon, and often by the natives, and many with much interest.

"I had Typhoid Fever."

When I was withaged like this, I was a great burden. I had a fever and aches every morning and evening, and anxiety of seeing, reading a chapter from the Bible or Book of Mormon, and often by the natives, and many with much interest.
