And the elegance of the Knutsford hotel and its complete accommodations he remarked upon. When asked as to general impres-sions, he expressed his surprise and admiration over the great commercial and industrial enterprises he had seen; and by the way he observed that he did not think there was a greater admirer American enterprise and energy than the emperor himself. "Our emperor is but reflecting the sentiments of the country at large by his prese friendly attitude towards th United States," said the visitor. H th

His majesty has a warm personal liking for America, which is in no way actuated by the diplomotic motives and considerations. No greater proof of this need be required than the coming to this country of Prince Henry, whose trip will serve to strengthen the friend-ship between the two nations." Herr Goldberger greatly admired the ability of American skill to create out of the earth's treasures the remarkable products that have characterized American effort in the rast, and he said: "The American manufacturer and merchant have opened to mankind a new world; in fact, placed the results of intelligence and labor at the disposal of all nations. Our two countries present many similarities in their economic development; both commencing compar-atively late in competing with the old-er industrial states. But the success of each has come with rapid strides." If was remarked that the immense turning out of German born American cit izens to receive the prince, is a source of marked pleasure to all German peoples, and particularly to the emperor

As was announced in last evening's News" General MacArthur arrived in this city yesterday afternoon, and is here on an official tour of inspection in keeping with his duty as commander of the department of the Colorado. The men were called out at 9:30 this morning and put through the military tactics, after which General MacArthur, accompanied by Captains Kernan and Brown of his staff, and Major Young, the post commander, and several of-ficers of his staff inspected the men by companies. As soon as the inspection of the men was completed a tour of the entire post was made. General MacArthur did not seem to overlook a single thing nor did he encounter any-thing that caused him to offer dis-agreeable comments. The examination vent on in a quiet way just as the most ordinary inspections are conduct ed, except there seemed to be a marked desire on the part of every man at the post to appear to the best advantage. There were very few visitors at the post this morning and those who were there for the most part were tourists.
