SALT LAKE SALOONS OPEN ON SUNDAY.

Mayor Thompson Will Make No Promise to Close Them on the Sabbath Day.

The saloons in Salt Lake City will be pen tomorrow and will dispense in-oxicants just as on week days, unless tayor Thompson will give orders to open tomorrow and will dispense intoxicants just as on week days, unless Mayor Thompson will give orders to the police department to close them; and this it is thought he will not do. It is understood that the police department stands ready to enforce the ordinance in this respect, at a moment's notice. Its non-action is simply a reflection of his honor's desires in the matter. During the week the Mayor expressed hiniself quite emphatically on the question, taking the position that Salt Lake City was a well governed municipailty and that "we could not have a little heaven here on earth all at once," coupled with the statement that it had been his "experience, as a result of observation, that there was more drunkenness in cities where saloons are closed on Sundays than in cities where they are kept open."

The "News" made several attempts to interview Mayor Thompson on the subject and today found him in his residence at lunch time. The reporter was ushered into the parior of his residence and stated to him that he had been assigned to interview him upon the Sunday closing question, and to further ask him if he had been correctly quoted on the subject. Mr. Thompson promptly displayed the fact that the query did not please him and he arose and walked out of the room, making the statement: "You can tell the Deseret News that I have nothing to say in the

The reporter being left entirely alone, also arose and bowed himself out of the house as courteously as he could. "News" interviewed a number of law and order citizens on the subject today with the result hereafter shown.

SHERIFF NAYLOR. Sheriff Naylor was interviewed on the subject two or three days ago and said to the "News" at that time that the county authorities had put a com-

and added:

"The mayor and chief of police cer-tainly ought to enforce the ordinances tainly ought to enforce the ordinances against Sunday liquor selling: the laws should be enforced or expunged. Some months ago the ministers' as-sociation advocated the idea of a big mass meeting that would bring the mayor and chief of police to time. The association had, prior to that, been making a fight particularly against the sale of intoxicants to minors and the mayor and chief of police assured us that the license of every saloon keeper who violated this ordinance would, on

"The Ministers' association adjourned for the summer several weeks ago and will not meet again for some time, so it will probably take no immetime, so it will probably closing ques-diate steps in the Sunday closing ques-tion. Some time before adjournment one of our committees made it its busi-ness to visit a number of saloons on Sunday. It found in some of these resorts a great many men, a big per-centage of them young men, drinking centage of them young men, drinking and playing cards and other games in side and back rooms and before the bar, as many I believe as a hundred in one place. When we called upon the mayor in relation to the matter his answer was that it was better, in his opinion to have a few men, as he said, so into the saloons and drink on the go into the saloons and drink on the Sabbath day than to take bottles home with them and drink there. He made no promise to us about closing saloons on Sunday. BISHOP LEONARD.

Bishop Leonard, of the Episcopal Bishop Leonard, of the Episcopar church, on being asked for an expres-sion in regard to the matter today said: "I stand pat with the 'News' on the proposition. Your paper published my proposition. Your paper published my letter endorsing your stand, and I am free to reiterate what I said then. That is that it is a thousand times better to throw the saloons wide open than to trifle with the law as is being done now. The saloon man has no more right to break the law than I have and the now. The saloon man has no here hart to break the law than I have and the mayor of this city was elected to see that the laws were enforced. If I were mayor I would close them so tight on Sunday that there wouldn't be a peep the course this morning without any apparent diminution in form. They will hole open. Not because I am a purist, for I am not, but it is the law, and row again this afternoon. the mayor is expected to execute the law to the letter. Roadbed Washed Out.

Lowelton, Maine, June 29 .- Two miles of road bed and bridges on the Cana-dian Pacific railroad at Bury province. Quebec, have been washed away by a cloudburst, houses flooded and miles of highway destroyed. It is reported that in some places the water was thirty feet deep. No lives were lost. All trains on this section of the Canadian Pacific road are at a standstill and on the Quebce Central the conditions are reported nearly as serious.

Ex-Volunteer Suicides.

Omaha, Neb., June 29 .- Jesse F Thayer, formerly a captain in the American volunteers, but lately retired to private life and working at trade, committed suicide here at his morning. He was horsewhipped at Lin-coln three days ago by his wife, from whom he had separated and this is said to have preyed on his mind.

Washington, June 29 .- The state department has received a dispatch from Mr. Rockhill at Pekin, saying that Prince Chuan, brother of the emperor. sails for Germany July 20th on a special mission. He will return by way of America and is expected to reach this country early in October. The special mission is probably to apologize to the German government for the murder of its minister at rekin and other indigni-ties to its citizens there. It is said to be a very unusual thing for a member of the imperial family to tive China His coming to America is regarded as a particular mark of distinction.

The duty of a public officer is not to make or change the law but to enforce This ordinance represents the will of the people until it is changed by the people. SKAGWAY FLAG INCIDENT.

No Official Attention Will-be Given it for the Present,

Washington, June 29 .- The state de partment has not received any repre sentation concerning the flag incident, at Skagway, where much excitement is said to have been caused by the haul-ing down of a British customs ensign raised at that point. Based on the press reports of the affairs the officials do not attach serious importance to the incident itself although it is recog-nized that the matter might assume importance if the raising of the flag was an assertion of the British sovereignty over that locality, In that event there is no doubt that the state department would take cognizance of the matter. But as it stands the flag appears to be that of the customs office. for the convenience of designating where customs may be paid, and not the British emblem indicating any claim of sovereignty.

The modus vivendi made on October 20, 1999, between Secy. Hay and the British charge here, established a provisional line running some distance north of Skagway, the summit of the Chilkaat pass, and of the White pass, being the two main trails in that locality. Reference to the official map indicates that Skagway is clearly within the American line according to this modus vivendi, also all tidewater of the Lynn canal.
