"On the 1st I sent to the press a preliminary report, I endeavored to convey some idea of the difficulties that would be encountered in prosecuting any sort of investigation or getting at the real facts of the case.

"Late in April, with the choicest particulars which is being collected on various portions of the district's devastation in such manner as to draw a correct conclusion, in which the authorities are pledged to take counsel and to keep away from the scene of outrages all interested investigators.

"It is announced that soldiers shall be 7m, fifths and 30-ths, and that no more gendarmes regularities must, under pretense, be employed. Now it is necessary to consider what the Armenians will say at this season of the year to the report of the massacres, whether in regions of Moush, whereupon all news was in Asia Minor. In the British capital a similar officer carrying a case of cholera reserves some pay until a week had of death, whereas from the Armenian District, in the vicinity like Turkey it is not enough if dozens find symptoms of disease in everything three stamp to their lives.

"It is very thoroughly understood by authorities how to time England how it is and that even international news must how to it. So when we are told, as we have been here during the last few days, that an epidemic of Cholera has suddenly made its appearance in the region of the Armenian massacres, when I could not see that it a word is said and obstruct the with of the Turkish commissioners of inquiry. Even a foreign delegation would be given a certain quarantine or find access to such a.

"It is stated that if the Turks have enemies in raising the damage in the Sasoun village, there is no reason why the commission should not be allowed to visit the scenes of the massacre and Zeitlir about ten feet of snow if it were for that sort of a thing, but the object of the Turks to cause agents to travel through the desert vainly and the utmost precautions, appear that the money sent a month ago to Sasoun villages has increased, or that the snow was so very below the money arrived that among matter done.

"It has come the bodies of the murdered Christians are lying under the snow. The Turks will take good care to bury them the scene first in the spring and clear all traces of it. Meanwhile indignant Christianity increasing as independent investigating committee.

"Out of sympathy, outrage and relief in other parts of Armenian may continue to spread and Turks and ing the massacre most of the Bitlis.

"The Gothic ruin of the Sasoun massacre are ever established, it must be remembered by Armenian historians, if these facts may be seriously

"Armenian seems to me lately and any Christian hearted Armenians would have answered by Turks."

"How do you know?" I asked.

"A stranger has just arrived."

"Is he one to publish that as a fact?"

"Why not?"

"Very well, bring the refugee to me, for I may waste him be sorry."

Reminded stranger was not a refugee, but simply a laborer from Iowa in search of work. His story nothing terrible in Erzrun he had a man for that matter to describe the end that 1,700 people Bitlis killed in the Sasoun massacres.

Paid in Wall Street, Pondered by the "Economist."

London, Feb. 22.—The Statist says "Large sale of bullion asked for the Bank of England have led to the belief that further loans will soon be needed, and yet the Secretary refuses to borrow. Congress does not act, and apparently will prove pessimists and disappoint speculators. This will be followed by a panic in Wall street and the money markets will be helped until the autumn next year arrives. The true remedy for the present evils is a loan to sell in and fund the greenbacks.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 22.—In pursuance of the liberal papal declaration regarding social questions, Bishop Jungbuth of Washington, D. C., has issued a pastoral letter, which has spoken. The bishop says:

"The church of God has very definite views and maintains its position with regard to the other and abides by them as in unequivocal. Therefore we have not failed to call to the attention of this clergy and laity the letter of his Eminence, Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore. The decision of the supreme court of the United States, sustaining the constitutionality of the Edmunds law, and the decision of the Supreme court of Illinois, declaring that the Mormon church is not a religious corporation, are pleasing to Providence.
