tures. It lies between them and their God, and Congress has no right to step in between. But farther, if the "Mormons" merely believe it to be their reli-gious duty to practise plural mar-riage, independent of any special mandatory revelation from heaven to them upon the subject, then plural marriage becomes a part of all render themselves liable to pun- tures. It lies between them and TUTION. We here conclude the subject treated upon the last two days. Let us now inquire whether "Mormon" marriages are religious or civil. There are in this Terri-tory two great classes of marriages, so far as we know, and these class-es are similar to the two previously mentioned—civil and religious. Of-ficers of the civil law, such as jus-tices of the peace, officiate in the civil marriages. The latter kind, ligious marriages. The latter kind, we have every reason to believe, are very heavily in the majority, most of the people in this region, as nearly all over Christendom, be-lieving in the religious nature of marriage, and consequently strong-in desiring when they are married. Not it may be asked in conster-mation by some parties, is a man to be guaranteed immunity from Congressional interference in every thing which he may claim is in-cluded in the free exercise of his religion? Yes he is, when such interference in the institution; that the "Mor-marriage as a pre-eminently sacred, religious, and divine institution; that they regard plural marriage, at least equally with monogamic mar-riage, as a sacred, religious, and di-vine institution; that the "Mor-marriage as a pre-eminently sacred, religious, and divine institution; that they regard plural marriage, at religion? Yes he is, when such in the free exercise of his religion; when they are married, ever it may be does not infringe upon the common modern institution; that the "Mor-ly desiring, when they are married, ever it may be, does not infringe it would infringe upon the common to be married to persons of similar upon the common liberties guaran- constitutional liberties of citizens; to be married to persons of similar religion, by accepted ministers of religion, in a building devoted to religion, in a building devoted to religions purposes, and according to an acknowledged religious cere-monial. This is especially notice-able with members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, or "Mormons," as they are com-monly designated by others. In-deed, where a person professing to be a "Mormon" marries a person who is not of the same religion, the faith, which he need not be so com-sidered if marriage was not regard-ed as a religious affair.

WASHINGTON, 23.-Several weeks ago representative Page, of Cala. presented to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue the petition of the free exercise of religion, because cided evidence of weakness of faith, they would prevent persons from Louis Kraner and Son, and other cided evidence of weakness of faith, which could hardly be the case if marriage were not considered a part of that religion. These are evidences patent to every person of intelligence. But let us bring the question a little closer. Let us refer to the only competent authorities on the point, competent authorities on the point, otherwise should ever presume to ed a copy to Mr. Page, it being a the real witnesses in the case. the real witnesses in the case. Ask any intelligent "Mormon," in good standing in his church, whether he considers his own marriage a reli-gious act, and he will answer yes in every respect, so much so that he believes that marriage according to the law of God is the only real, true, authoritative, perfect, and permanent marriage that is conpermanent, marriage that is con- said, "Suffer little children to come Commissioner says that the power s may be found. Jesus sessments be no further made. The permanent, marriage that is con-tracted on earth. He will claim that it is the prerogative of Heaven alone to authorize and y regulate the institution of mar-riage, and that it is an institu tion which is the very basis of salvation, eternal life, eter-nal kappiness, and eternal glory. He will claim that what are termed civil marriages are merely human arrangements, and made for only a few short years at most; that real great author and fluisher of the made claims for refunding have, few short years at most; that real marriage is a divine institution, and, when administered in by divine authority and in accordance with divine law, and lived up to accord-ingly, is administered for all time and for all eternity, and is the di-vine order of perfect living and of endless life. Here, then, taking the only com-petent earthly witnesses, the "Mor-mons" themselves, it is evident, beyond controversy, that their marriages are religious marriages, marriages are religious marriages, marriages are religious marriages, divine the divine distribution and the divine divine tearthly witnesses, the "Mor-mons" themselves, it is evident, beyond controversy, that their
