-You need not suffer from this most distressing disease again in all your life. Email's Baim acts as a poultice and futricator, absorbs the tunors and allays the intense itching at once. No caustic, no acid, no pain. A. McGibbons Esq., 19 Poplar street, Allegheny, Pa., writes: "I had itching and blocding piles so bad I could not sit, stand or walk without intense suffering. I doctored with many physicians, and tried stand or walk without Intense suffering. I doctored with many physicians, and tried all the (so called) cures that I ever heard of, in vain (paying out hundreds of dolars), until I used Email's Magic Baim, or Ointment. After the first application I enjoyed the best night's sleep I had for ten years, and two boxes have cured me completely."  Wherever introduced Dr. Email's Balm takes the lead, and has the largest sale of any Pile remedy in the world. DEAF MUTES IN UTAH.

The official census of 1880 gives a Mst of 118 deaf mutes in Utah. In a list which I have in my possessien, however, I have discovered several cases which were not named in that list, and with the natural increase since 1880, there must now be 200 or more of them in Utah at the present time. That there is urgent need of providing proper educational facilities for the deaf mutes of Utah, at the earliest practical moment, goes without liest practical moment, goes without saying; and with high hopes in the future of the Institute,

We can have a good site for a Territorial institute in

For site and buildings For education and suppor THE DEAR MUTES Agreeable to your request for a statement of the condition and future needs of the Deaf Mute Institute, under my personal charge, I take great pleasure in handing the following report to you. A brief resume of the establishment of the Institute will be necessary for the purpose of showing the objects aimed at and the means required to carry them out.

In 1884, the Legislative Assembly veted an appropriation of $4,000 for furnishing the means of an education to the large and steadily growing number of

This was brought about by the efforts of the parents of several deal mutes who hitherto had been obliged to send their children, at great expense and inconvenience, to distant states to obtain an education, which they had no opportunity of acquiring at home. For want of suitable buildings, the duty of providing for the education of the deaf mutes was entrusted to the University of Descret. In August of the same year, I was sent for to take charge of the department. Upon my arrival, I found that only a school for the deaf mutes had been established, and that no provision had been made for the support and maintenance of an institution where the pupils, coming, as they do, from distant parts of the Territory, could be lodged and boarded together, free of charge, while pursuing their education at the University of Descret. Of course, without a place of this kind, tender mothers and loving fathers would be unwilling to send their children so far from home WE HAVE -- ALSO, A LOT OF -CHOICE FARMS and the beneficent work of the Legis-lature was in danger of becoming well-nigh useless. However, by persist-ence, a few pupils were brought to-gether, in the first term, among whom was a girl who had been taught for a year or two at the Colorado Institute. The number of pupils increased, until

The number of pupils increased, until there were twelve pupils in attendance before the close of the year, and their elementary education had progressed very favorably. In the next year there were difteen pupils under course of instruction, two or three of the former pupils having been prevented by lack of means from returning.

The need of a territorial institution for the education of the deaf mutes, was fully recognized by the president, John R. Park, and the board of regents, of which Hou. George Q. Cannon was chancellor, and the attention of the Legislature of 1883 was called to it. An appropriation of $6,000 was voted by that assembly, together with the understanding that the University should provide, out of its own appropriation of $60,000, a suitable building for the accommodation of the deaf mute students. The bill, however, by reason of the governor's veto of the general appropriation bill. The appropriation of 1884 was exhausted in paying the teachers' salary, and furnishing the class rooms with necessary materials, etc., and the prospects for the future were gloomy indeed. There seemed no other course left but to clase the school. In this emergency, the board of regents generously veted to keep up the school, but they were unable to provide for an institution. In this dilemma, my wife and myself took upon ourselves the responsibility of opening an institution. In pursu-

of opening an institution. In pursuance of this purpose, I made an appeal to the different county courts to pay a pro rata amount for the education and support of indigent deaf mutes at the Institute. The response was generally kind and generous, Salt Lake County alone offering to pay for five pupils of this class. Other counties, however, could not support more than one pupil; others, there were, which refused on the piez of lack of funds; still others were willing, but the distance was too great for the deaf applicants to undertake the journey and we had no funds for this purpose, This third year surpassed the previous years not only in the number of pupils, but also in the progress made in stud-ies, morals and manners. There were twenty pupils in attendance, and their

VERY DESTRABLE PLACE

In Captain Hooper's late residence. The building contains 16 large rooms, including a dining room, kitchen, wash room, buttery and storeroom. The house is well built in every particular, and could not be better adapted to the purposes of an institution. The house is well supplied with good water from a tank or reservoir built in the street two blocks above, which is filled by the City Creek ditch. There is a larger tank, built in the garden which can be used in case of firs. The stable, which originally cost $4.000, is a massive affair, and it can be converted into a stop for the lastruction of useful trades when necessary. The building, at present, can well accommodate fifty pupils, just such a number as would be in attendance as soon as the institute is made free to all the deal mutes of school age in the Territory.

Thus far, the history of the institu-

It is within convenient access to the University, where the educational work is carried on. It can be had cheaper than it would be to build a new institute. We can have it for $5,000, the price the executor of the estate—Mr. Thomas Jennings—is willing to sell for. We invite an inspection of the buildings and premises from all interested.

There is another course open to us. We could build an institute after the plan of other institutions upon the University grounds at a cost of $25,000 which will accommodate a large number of parts.
