

"All persons in Mexican Territory who have suffered attacks upon their persons or property since the 2nd of February, 1848, of whatever kind, which may have originated from invasions or incursions of individuals proceeding from the United States, or individuals who, at the time, were residing on Mexican territory, but who afterwards obtained protection in the territory of the United States, may present their claims for the damages so incurred, it being the object of the commission to form an impartial judgment, governed solely by the principles of the strictest justice. It invites persons residing in the United States and owning property therein, and who now believe they have a right to complain of robberies or depredations by persons from Mexican territory, to present their complaint and to come with the necessary proofs. Residents in Mexican territory are solicited to present their complaints before the commission, in order that they may have all necessary means and facilities of learning all that has occurred, that the evils said to have been committed on both frontiers may be repaired and remedied in the future. The investigation will evidently take a wide range, and will include all the filibustering on this frontier since the Mexican war."

A morning paper to day publishes a story which has been current in newspaper circles for nearly a week, that Horace Greeley is insane, and says he is now an inmate of an insane asylum at White Plains. The same paper publishes an interview with Whitelaw Reid in which that gentleman is made to say in answer to questions, that Greeley had been under medical treatment for some time. He is always eccentric in manner, and is very likely to be said by some to be stark mad, but he was simply suffering under nervous prostration from the death of his wife. In answer to the question whether Mr. Greeley drew a knife on one of his friends, Reid is made to answer, "I tell you he, Greeley, has done nothing which, to those who know him, seems strange. He is always eccentric at best, and acts as if he were queer, but now, when nervously prostrated, strangers might think him crazy. I have seen him positively furious when a first proof was brought him instead of a revise, but I know and understand him." Reid says that Greeley, notwithstanding the loss of sleep and appetite, was in general good health, and he made a request of the reporter to say that he was only nervously prostrated, as there was no good in saying more. Greeley has enough to worry him and all he needs is quiet and rest.

The Times announces the organization of a new reform association, to supersede the committee of 70, which, it is alleged, has developed such a spirit of office seeking that its further existence is unnecessary.

CHICAGO, 25.—The great corner in Northwestern stocks creates among financiers and railroad men great excitement. Jay Gould says the bear party consists of Drew, W. B. Duncan, Henry Smith, W. B. Travers and others. They were largely short of stocks at the time of the Boston fire, and then, expecting it would turn out like Chicago, they increased the shorts at low prices.

NEW YORK, 25.—The application of Rosensweig, the abortionist, for release and tendering bail has been denied, and he remanded to prison.

There were sixty deaths in the city during the week.

NEW YORK, 24.—The Times has the following about the Northwest corner: Early in the day Wm. Travers covered his shorts, paying, it is alleged, two hundred and fifty thousand, his difference. Charley LaMont stood up to the rack also, and paid his differences, amounting to nearly the same sum. These contracts were settled on the basis of 160. The highest estimate of the amount of stock which Daniel Drew is short is 24,000 shares, and the lowest 10,000. Should he settle in full upon the closing price of Northwestern stock he will lose nearly two millions five hundred thousand. Common rumor says that Henry N. Smith is short 40,000 shares, which will involve him to a greater extent than Drew. The opinion was freely expressed on the street that he would not pay his losses in full, but let his brokers stand the brunt of the contracts. It is said that Drew was caught in the trap by the device of Gould, which was ingenious in its way. Much interest is manifested concerning events to-morrow in Wall Street, and anxiety in regard to the course of the market is intense.
