The Pioneer monument is the subject of many snap-shots nowadays.

One page in tomorrow's issue of the "News" will deal with the great Indian famine. It will doubtless be read with interest. Good illustrations accompany the article.

Members of the G. A. R. are making elaborate preparations for their reunion scene, "Taking Fort Sumpter," which will be given at Lagoon upon the occasion of their excursion.

Blackfoot (Ida.) Mail: Geo. Davis and wife from Bozeman, Mont., together with their little son, are visiting the family of Mesack Williams. Mr. and Mrs. Davis are on their way from Yellowstone Park to Salt Lake.

If the sufferers from heat in Chicago could but enjoy the cool nights of Salt Lake, they would be so refreshed as to be able to withstand the heat of the day. The nights are absolutely magnificent here.

The "News" has received some very fine samples of red English currants, grown at Chesterfield, Idaho, by Nathan Barlow. The samples are very large and indicate that they have been raised in a section particularly favorable to that kind of fruit.

A large water snake, measuring three and a half feet in length, was killed on the corner of East Temple and First South streets yesterday afternoon, by Officer Johnston. The reptile was crawling about the pavement when discovered and it took an even dozen knocks over the head with a club to end its career.

Pocatello Tribune: There was a large and attentive congregation at the Saturday Salt Lake assembly last Sunday night, the occasion being the address to the Young Ladies' Mutual Improvement association by Miss Aggie Campbell of Salt Lake. Miss Campbell's address covered the special work of the ladies in Mutual Improvement and was much appreciated by her hearers. The lady is a member of the general board of the Y. L. M. I. A., and in her capacity is visiting the organization through Idaho and Utah. She had been through Deer Lake county before visiting Pocatello and from there proceeded to McCammon and other points in Bannock county.

THE ELKS OUT AT THE LAKE.

The Great Pavilion is Jammed With Them and Their Friends.

WAS A JOLLY OCCASION.

A Superabundance of Conviviality—List of Those Who Drew Prizes for Time Decorations.

Elks' Day at the Lake was a convivial record-breaking occasion. The day began at 10:30 a. m., when 500 people boarded the beach train and enjoyed a free five hours, until the 2:15 train with fifteen cars arrived, and no one enjoyed any freedom after that. It seemed as though everyone wanted to go to the lake and no one wanted to return until the last train, and it is needless to say that the last train looked like a swarm of bees clinging to the bough of a tree.

The Elks engineered the whole show yesterday, and they never turned a wrong switch or got drenched once. They have discovered that the lake is as far as fun is concerned, and any tired, much justified individual who was languidly looking about for a place on which to sit down, would be confronted with an Elk and his revivifying smile, who would suggest some new sort of amusement, which, when put into effect, would invariably rejuvenate the lagging spirits of the third person. The peculiarity of the Elks, which manifests itself in engaging the public in whatever enterprise they undertake, was displayed in the abundance of purple that flapped from the coat collars and shirt waists of people who are no more than fair weather enthusiasts. Every one wore purple, they looked purple and acted purple, for that color has become the insignia of an enthusiastic disposition for fun.

The crowd was almost unbroken both upstate and down, and the music of the three bands, Christensen's Held's and Coleman's Salt Lake band, included in the greater volume of music that they could produce, but it was drowned out by the multitude of voices before it could get half way across the dance floor. The amusements were scattered about the pavilion so that every one had a chance to see something. The number of thirty individuals who crowded the bar room made way for those who wanted to hazard a five cent place on the slot machine. And the slot machine players made room for those who took enjoyment in witnessing the vaudeville performance on an improvised stage, in the skating rink.

Never before was there so much hilarity at the lake. The exuberance of fun ran in hereditary channels, and the best word that can be said of the clever boys who conducted the affair is that the only people who had practically nothing to do were the police officers.

DAVID W. PATTEN.
President Lorenzo Snow, though he had but one interview with Apostle David W. Patten, was so impressed with his wonderful personality that in the introduction to the book, "The Life of David W. Patten, the First Apostle-Martyr," lately issued from the press of the Deseret News by Elder L. A. Wilson, he says:

"I believe I cannot do better than to commend the study of his life to the honest in heart everywhere."

President Snow's introductory most interestingly details the incidents of this interview and is signed in autograph.
