There are any number of medical journals in the world, but perhaps the only paper devoted exclusively to the dissemination of information a ching a particular disense is that published in a German city. This publication carries as title the German equivalent for "Rheumatism," and it is claimed that only specially qualified experts are permitted to contribute to its columns.

DEVOTED TO MOUSEBREEDING.

The National Meuse club, of London, puts out what is stated to be the only organ in the world devoted to mouse-breeding. In this sheet is to be found a mass of curious information cenceraing our friend the mouse, and no offert is spared to afford the readers with up-to-date news touching the sales of valuable mice, with prices, etc., together with accounts of the latest mice shows everywhere. It is not to be supposed that "The National Mouse Journal" will ever affiliate with "The Cat Journal" of the same city.

Another product of American ingenuity in the way of freak papers is one published in a southern city in the interest of paperhangers. This odd organ is of excellent typographical appearance, but the paper whereon it is printed is no other than wall paper, or rather the cuttings remaining of wall paper used for the usual purpose. Trude pride, presumably, is to be assigned as the reason for this strange notion.

strange notion.

One enterprising owner in an Ohlo town conceived the laudable desire to provide persons with weak eyes with a journal that would mear no injury or fatigue to them. This was to be done by means of green paper and white ink. The scheme was, however, unsuccessful, and the paper died an early death.

Among other American papers of the freak kind the following, whose titles afford a sufficient hint as to their purpose, there may be mention-ed the following:

Have You Your Easter Oxfords?

It's easy enough to be out of fashion, but to be right in style—there is the difficulty. To get a shoe—an oxford that is entirely in style—that will fit the foot gracefully, easily. And right there enters the Salesman-one who has sense enough to be careful, patient enough to fit the foot, conscientious enough to give you proper footwear - and not make a sale whether or no.

Our salespeople are Painstaking-every week the importance of carefulness is impressed upon them.

It is the case every year and particularly true this season, that charming tootwear is being shown. Such a beautiful stock Every accepted style in first-class makes - not an old shoe in stock not an inferior make Few local shoe houses send buyers east, depending rather on the Traveling Sa esmen.

Our buyer goes to the factories twice a year. We buy cheaper - get better stock - a better chance to select correct styles - better all the way round and our customers benefit by it.
