

people of Maine will never rival the deportment of Georgians, till they throw up their indigestible rye, and take to that elevating compound known as "johnny cake," and possum fat.—Whether this theory will lead to any queer revolutions, is yet to be ascertained. We should not wonder, however, if it did. Nor would we be much surprised if Indian meal yet became so necessary to a polite carriage as to make sup-paw and milk take the place of the dancing master. Queer world, this. We wonder what the next new wrinkle will be?—[Ex.]

Occupation! what a glorious thing it is for the human heart. Those who work hard seldom yield themselves up to fancied or real sorrow. When grief sits down, folds its hands, and mournfully feeds upon its own tears, weaving the dim shadows, that a little exertion might sweep away into a funeral pall, the strong spirit is shorn of its might, and sorrows become our master. When troubles flow upon you, dark and heavy, toil not with the waves—wrestle not with the torrent!—rather seek by occupation, to divert the dark waters that threaten to overwhelm you, into a thousand channels which the duties of life always present. Before you dream of it, those waters will fertilize the present, and give birth to fresh flowers that may brighten the future—flowers that will become pure and holy, in the sunshine which penetrates to the path of duty, in spite of every obstacle. Grief, after all, is but a selfish feeling; and most selfish is the man who yields himself to the indulgences of any passion which brings no joy to his fellow-man.—[Ex.]

THE CHINESE.—All the Chinese grocers are sages, philosophers of the school of Confucius; they are especially friends of truth, and pique themselves on the irreproachable purity of their merchandise, and they never sell a farthing candle without accompanying it with some precept of lofty wisdom suited to the occasion.

"Madame, here is your candle. The honest man, says Confucius, loves the light; it is only hateful to those whose intentions are evil."

"Mademoiselle, here is your penny worth of soap. The stains of the soul, unlike those of linen, can never be extracted."

"Monsieur, this is the pickled herring which you asked for. While eating it, remember the saying of our great philosopher: wisdom is like brine, into which a man dips himself that he may live forever.—[Ex.]

STOPPING NEWSPAPERS.—A certain man hit his toe against a pebble and fell headlong to the ground. He was vexed, and under the influence of anger and active self-sufficiency, he kicked old mother earth right saucily. With imperturbable gravity he looked to see the globe itself dissolve, and come to naught. But the earth remained and only his poor foot was injured in the encounter. This is the way of man. An article in a newspaper touches him in a weak spot, and straightway he sends to stop his paper. With great self-complacency he looks to see a crash, when the object of his spleen shall cease to be. Poor fool! he has only hit his own toe against a world that does not perceptibly feel the shock, and injures to no extent any one but himself.—[Ex.]

A MERCHANT'S CHANCES OF SALVATION.—A Dutch philosopher says, "if a merchant gets to heaven he must be long sick." There is wisdom in that remark. To draw off some of Slap, Dash & Co.'s trade, Fuss & Fume have to put down the price of their sugars a cent a pound. To do this with profit, F. & F. have to teach assorted gravel how to look like first class St. Croix. Slap, Dash & Co., to recover their loss, "doctor" their coffee, and sell the best "old government Java," at a price which shows that the government of Java have an extensive interest in a pea-patch. Mercantile life is divided into "bureaus"—the tying and cheating. Hence the propriety of the apothem—"If a merchant gets to heaven he must be long sick," that he may have a chance to grow penitent, and recollect that sixteen ounces make a pound.

A sailor was called upon the stand as a witness.

"Well, sir," said the lawyer, "do you know plaintiff and defendant?"

"I don't know the drift of them words," answered the sailor.

"What, not know the meaning of plaintiff and defendant!" continued the lawyer, "a pretty fellow you, to come here as a witness. Can you tell me where on board the ship it was that this man struck the other one?"

"Abaft the binnacle," said the sailor.

"Abaft the binnacle!" said the lawyer, "what do you mean by that?"

"A pretty fellow," responded the sailor, "to come here as a lawyer, and don't know what abaft the binnacle means."

ANECDOTE OF BRANT AND A COWARD.—Brant, the famous Indian chief, was as notable for his wit as his bravery, and often made as good a retort as any attributed to the keenest of his white brethren. On one occasion a braggart captain was boasting what he would have done if he had met the warrior in a certain emergency. "I'll tell you," said Brant, "what you would have done—you would have followed the example of another boaster who on meeting me face to face, took to his heels, and never stopped till he arrived in Albany—which he 'chanced to enter during a great conflagration. Hearing the Dutchmen cry 'braunt, braunt!' (fire, fire,) he only ran the harder, exclaiming, 'There, that cussed old Indian has got here before me!'"—[Boston Post.]

CALCULATION OF THE WEIGHT PER BUSHEL, AND THE NUMBER OF GRAINS OF SUNDRY SEEDS.—One acre of land drilled at a foot distance, in ridges of 8 ft. 3 in. wide, contains in length 505, 88 ft. A bushel of wheat weighing 62 lbs., contains 516000 grains; dropping one grain to an inch requires less than a bushel to an acre.—A bushel of poplar or pig-peas weighing 64 lbs., contains 107000 peas. A bushel of horse beans weighing 64 lbs., contains 35000 beans. A bushel of oats weighing 32 lbs., contains 126000 grains. As all grain vary in size, the number contained in a bushel will be increased or diminished, but the above are the average numbers.—[Gardener's Journal of Domestic Economy.]

OBEYING SCRIPTURE.—A gentleman who was doing well in Kentucky, but wanted to do better, removed to a farther-western State, and in answer to a correspondent, wrote back the following flattering account of the country and its inhabitants: "You ask me how I like this country, and the people thereof. As to the country, the land is cheap as dirt, and good enough; but the climate is rainy, blowy and sultry. The people die so fast here that every man has his third wife, and every woman is a widow! As for the people, they are perfect Christians; they fulfill the Scripture to the letter, where it says: 'Let God be true and every man a liar!'"

LEATHER LEATHER.

WE take this method of informing the citizens of this place and surrounding country, that the 15th ward Tannery is now in operation, and designs keeping on hand a large and well assorted stock of leather of every description, which shall not only surpass anything heretofore manufactured in the Territory, but shall equal if not surpass anything brought to this market for sale.

The mechanical branch of this business will be carried on under the direction of A. L. Tonniss, who having been engaged for years in the manufacturing of leather in Austria, Russia, France, England, and the United States, has thoroughly satisfied himself by trials, that the very best article of leather can be furnished from the material with which this country abounds.

Call at Townsend's building, East Temple st., 2 doors above Kimball's store, and satisfy yourselves by a thorough examination of the article.

Hides of every description purchased.

We the undersigned, workmen in leather, take pleasure in recommending to the public, the article furnished by the 15th ward tannery of this city, and pronounce it equal if not superior to any leather, domestic or imported, ever offered for sale in this market.
