

SOCIAL CHAT

The week has been the liveliest in a social way of any of the present season, each day witnessing its number of elaborate luncheons, dinners and teas. From now until after the holidays the social activity promises to continue, a few interesting weddings being listed to take place among the functions.

Mrs. A. C. DeWing's luncheon was the elaborate event of Monday, about 40 guests being bidden to a delightful spread at the Kenyon, where the hostess entertained her friends. A large table was laid in the drawing room in the form of a hollow square, the latter filled with palms and plants, and the inside edges of the table being decorated with a border of ferns and red carnations, while myriads of red candles lit the board. Mrs. DeWing's guests were: Mrs. Harding, Mrs. Edward Ferry, Mrs. Howard, Mrs. O'Brien, Mrs. Franklin, Mrs. Bauman, Mrs. Wier, Mrs. Nelson, Miss Hanauer, Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. Woodward, Mrs. Montague Ferry, Mrs. Murray, Misses Coggriff, Mrs. Hempstead, Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Rose, Mrs. Hampton, Mrs. Coggriff, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Jennings, Mrs. Schuller, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Wells, Mrs. Kearns, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. J.
