

PROF. PORTER TO COUNTY TEACHERS

Urged Interest in Economic Problems and Avoidance of "Academic Atmosphere."

DAY OF PRACTICAL THINGS.

Teachers Must be Able in the Future To Tell Students How to Cope With Life's Struggles.

The teachers of Salt Lake county convened in a teachers' institute at Burratt hall this morning. Prof. M. T. Porter of the University of Utah was the principal speaker, and he chose as his topic the relation of the teacher to the active life of the community in which he worked. He urged teachers to take interest in live, economic problems, and pointed out the danger of the "academic atmosphere" that was formerly supposed to surround all good teachers. The day has passed, he asserted, when an impractical teacher, absorbed in the work of his school, to the exclusion of the problems of every day life, can be rated successful. The day is to come when teachers will employ only teachers who have ability to meet the problems of life, instead of those who can give their time most completely to the school, and that alone. The old style of teacher has been one-sided in development, and consequently a poor member of society, unable to meet successfully the problems that other men surmount easily.

Turning to the personal advantage of a broad knowledge of life he pointed out that it is not the poor salary of the school teacher that makes his occupation in which people cannot grow rich, but the poor judgment displayed in investments. He stated that recently in securing statistics on this subject he had asked a prominent broker of Salt Lake who were the lamb most easily sold in the stock exchange. The broker replied that first on the list were school teachers, then doctors, then ministers, and last the poor working people. As an instance of how the impractical school teacher may be imposed upon he cited the case of a firm in Chicago which agreed to operate on school teachers of the city, and cleared up nearly $1,000,000 on securities existing only on the paper of the company. He closed with an exhortation to the teachers of the county to watch well the practical affairs of life, and to become versed in the ways of the world outside of the school room.

The session was presided over by Supt. B. W. Ashton of the county schools. After its adjournment D. W. Parratt, county superintendent of drawing, met the teachers of the primary grades, and outlined plans for drawing in the schools during the coming month. The next session of the institute will convene on Saturday, Nov. 12, and will be addressed by Prof. Roylance of the University of Utah.

USEFUL CAREER ENDED.

Friends Pay Tribute to the Memory of Richard McAllister.

The last earthly tribute of respect to the late Richard W. McAllister, whose demise occurred several days ago, was paid yesterday afternoon at the funeral services held in the Tenth ward assembly rooms. There was a large attendance, and Bishop Joseph Christensen presided. Beautiful music was furnished by the ward choir, Joseph Pohl, who sang "The Beautiful City," the Liberty Stake quartet, and Miss Constance McAllister, who rendered "The Holy City." The speakers were Elders John D. T. McAllister, brother of the deceased, John W. Keddington, Seymour B. Young, A. Milton Musser and George Reynolds. All eulogized the highest possible terms to the noble character of the deceased and bore testimony of his integrity to the truth. The opening prayer was offered by Elder Charles W. Symons, while the benediction was pronounced by Elder Samuel W. Richards. There were many beautiful floral emblems, and the grave in the city cemetery was dedicated by Elder Joseph Keddington.

Richard Wesley McAllister was the son of William James Frazer McAllister and Eliza Thompson, and was born Oct. 19, 1854, in Louisville, Ky. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, a local preacher, class leader and superintendent of Sunday schools. In advocating the doctrine of Deity, as a personal God, with body, parts and passions, he was dropped from his official positions and made a lay member. The Methodist Protestants, learning of his condition, took him into their church and restored to him his official positions. For opposing the doctrine of infant damnation, he was up before the council of the church, when his brother, John D. T. McAllister, with others, came to Philadelphia and preached the doctrines of the Latter-day Saints' religion to him, and he with his family, mother and sister was baptized into the Latter-day Saints' faith on New Year's day, 1881. He left Philadelphia June 1, 1881, arriving in Salt Lake City in September of that year. Elder McAllister leaves a family consisting of 18 children, 69 grandchildren and 27 great grandchildren.

In politics he was an ardent Republican, a member of the Philadelphia vineyard and county chairman of Philadelphia county. He took the stump in the fall of 1880 and stumped the county of Philadelphia for Abraham Lincoln, distributing tickets to the different precincts, while his son William drove the buggy. He was offered the position of chief officer of the custom-house of Philadelphia and also major of infantry in the volunteer service in the late civil war, when the Gospel found him and he chose to cast his lot with the despised "Mormons" rather than accept positions of honor and emolument. He was appointed deputy territorial marshal early in 1883 and served in this capacity 11 years. Was foreman of the Alert Hose company in the Salt Lake volunteer fire brigade and was senior president in the Sixteenth quorum of Seventy for many years; also president of the Veteran Artillerymen for a number of years, having been a member in the Nauvoo Legion. He was a loving husband and kind father and died Oct. 17, 1904, in full faith of the Gospel, and in the hope of a glorious resurrection.

Rheumatism

Is a rack on which you need not suffer long.

It depends on an acid condition of the blood, which affects the muscles and joints, causes inflammation and pain, and results from defective digestion and a torpid action of the liver, kidneys and skin.

Sciatica, lumbago and stiff neck are forms of it.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured me of rheumatism. I was so I could not lift anything and my knees were so stiff I could hardly get up or down stairs. Since taking three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla I have never felt a symptom of rheumatism, and I gladly recommend Hood's for this disease." Mrs. H. H. Tinsford, 792 E. Ravennwood Park, Chicago, Ill.

"I have suffered greatly from rheumatism and did not get any relief. When nearly helpless I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and two bottles have greatly improved my health. I can now use my arms and can sleep at night, which I could not do before." Mrs. H. H. Tinsford, 792 E. Ravennwood Park, Chicago, Ill.

Prof. Swendsen, director of the reclamation survey, has just prepared a detailed map of the irrigated lands in the Jordan valley, and in comparing it with the volume of water used during the last summer season, it has been found that 2.63 ft. of water was spread out on 45,684 acres of land. The volume of water was ascertained from the records of Water Commissioner J. F. Smith, Jr.

The Utah Fire Clay company management is proposing to not only manufacture partition and flooring terra cotta, but front elevations and ornamental terra cotta as well, so that by spring it will not be necessary to send to Colorado, Missouri or New York for such goods, for they can be found right at home. Terra cotta is a great deal cheaper than cut stone, and can be used precisely for the same purposes; and it is believed that this will insure a much more extended use of ornaments in building front elevations in Salt Lake hereafter.

Thirty-five thousand dollars' worth of cable was received this week by the Bell Telephone company, including $137 feet for underground, and 23,561 feet for aerial purposes. A. building with an automatic service, and a five years' contract has been signed with the Wilson hotel management for a private exchange in the hotel. A wire has just been run into Union Fork. WITH THE STOCKMEN.

New Policies to be Discussed at the Forthcoming Meeting.

Local members of the National Live Stock association remark that the organization is sure to be reorganized at the coming convention to be held at Denver. There have been diverse interests in the association in the past, tending to pull the organization apart. Some of the members want the railroad men and stock-yards men admitted, instead of being shut out as has obtained up to this date, and then there are members who think other policies should be changed, so that when the convention gets together there is likely to be some lively discussions. It is held that the railroad men ought to be eligible, as shutting them out only solidifies the traffic departments in preventing the lowering of rates, especially where the low markets make concessions necessary in order for the grower to show a balance on the right side of the ledger at the close of the year. It is claimed that by admitting the railroad men to membership in the association, there will be a sympathetic feeling established between them and the shippers, which is sure to result in much to be desired concessions, following argument in committee. Then the stockyards men are so thoroughly in sympathy with the objects, aims and purposes of the Live Stock association, that their exclusion really does not promote these purposes, so it is claimed, but rather weakens them. State representation is also to be discussed, as it is proposed to organize this and base representation upon the different interests to be represented. There are six lists under which the various branches of the industry come: breeding, growing, feeding, transporting, marketing, manufacturing and the general prosperity of the whole industry is held to be important to each branch. It is proposed to provide a plan whereby they may all meet on a common ground without sacrificing in any way their separate identity, but on the contrary encouraging the separate organization of the cattlemen have their organization, the cattlemen have theirs. The new plan will not disturb these organizations. If the association can be reorganized so that the various interests may meet on mutual ground without sacrificing any rights they may have to securing for adjustment of points affecting their own interests, there may be good results, so stockmen say.

BACK FROM ST. LOUIS.

D. S. Spencer of the Short Line at His Desk After Two Weeks.

Mr. D. S. Spencer, assistant general passenger agent of the Oregon Short Line, returned home this morning and is at his desk again after an absence of two weeks. During that period Mr. Spencer visited St. Louis, kept busy for days in inspecting as much of the great fair as was possible, went to Chicago and had an active time of it generally. The exposition, he agrees, is a marvel—a modern day wonder; something that everybody should see; something they should ever remember. No man, he says, can describe it; no man can tell the amount of good it has done. It is, in Mr. Spencer's opinion, the most gigantic display in the history of the world.

Mr. Spencer left Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Richards in Chicago and parted company with Judge Colburn en route home. The latter went on to Denver and will reach Salt Lake in the course of a few days. Idaho, as well as Utah, says Mr. Spencer, was the fortunate winner of a number of valuable world's fair prizes.

THE COLORADO CAMPAIGN.

Coldest and Most Uncertain of Any in History of the State.

This is how James Barton Adams sums up the coldest and most uncertain campaign in Colorado history:

No excitement, no howl! No wild battling with the jaw. No parades seen on the street. Candidates not on the campaign trail. Not a bonfire lights the skies. Not a rocket seen to rise. Not a tap of party drum. Not a jingle of brass band. Not a cussed candidate. Anywhere throughout the state helping along his chances to win "Chicken" women "neigh the chin. Not a kid of chubby fat. And of wet mouth being kissed. Not a dead-broke mouthy fraud offering to bet his word. Not a whoop and not a cheer. Breaks the flow of atmosphere. Not a button move in the crowd. Worn by cranks of radiant nose. Not a horn a tooth! and Not a blow! Ketchikan hand. Tells of a hot time in the wild old town tonight. Meet a friend and ask him how Things are going and his brow Wrinkles up and he tells you. With a weary droop of eye You can make a sneak and go—Where they dare grab for snow—Tell you with disgusted air. "Doesn't know nor doesn't care!" Such a campaign never was seen—What in thunder does it mean?
