

SALT LAKERS IN GOTHAM.

Senator Smoot Speaks to the Utah Colony in New York - County Commissioner Anderson Also Addresses The Branch - Last Week of Grand Opera.

Special Correspondence.

New York, March 17.—Senator Reed Smoot paid a flying visit to New York last Saturday and Sunday, and was the guest of Pres. and Mrs. McQuarrie at their home. At Col. Young's home, he met with friends from Salt Lake, and the presidency of the Eastern States mission. Later in the evening, on invitation of Pres. and Mrs. McQuarrie, Senator Smoot was introduced in a social way to the Saints and investigators of the branch who had assembled to meet him at missionary headquarters on Eighty-first street. For half an hour he entertained them with a talk on Utah, not forgetting to say many encouraging words to the students here, who are interested in the different professions. Conversation was indulged in by all until 11 o'clock, when the senator left for Washington on the midnight train. That he won the hearts of all her is very evident, and an expression of good will from everyone followed him, with the hope that he will repeat the visit as soon as time will permit.

At the social gathering above mentioned, two strangers were noticed among the many gathered there. Mr. Emil Gammeter and his charming wife, of Akron, Ohio, who are here on business and pleasure combined, stopping at the Grand on Broadway, were interesting listeners to Mr. Smoot's talk. Mr. and Mrs. Gammeter are well known to many Salt Lakers, having visited Utah not long ago; they are delightful people to know, and earnest supporters of the cause they have espoused.

The graduating exercises of the American school of dramatic art, known as the Sargent school, were held at the Empire theater Friday afternoon. Some of our young people who are making a study of this profession were among the spectators. Mary Shaw and Wilton Lockaby were invited to give special talks to the students after the play, and they proved very happy features of the entertainment. When it came to awarding the diplomas by Mr. Sargent, the scene took on a familiar air; the Salt Lake theater and Logan opera house in happy memory, rose before a small portion of that audience, where such eventful scenes had often been enacted, and comparisons were indulged in, not to the discredit of the Utahns you may be sure, either for talent or grace.

Miss Leona Pratt, now with the "Little Princess" company, playing in Boston, has a good chance to play Ermegarde, the second to Millie James. The part was created by Mabel Tallafiero, sister to little Edith Tallafiero, who was with "The Bonnie Brier Bush" company, when it played Salt Lake last fall. Miss Pratt has been understudy for the part besides playing a most winsome and important character in the last act, and it is probable Miss Tallafiero will be given another opportunity to create a part in a new play this spring. Miss Pratt is now with her sister, Mrs. Viola Gillette, in Boston, as the "Beauty and Beast" attraction is booked until the first of June in that city and Mrs. Gillette still remains one of its principal attractions.

At 414 West One Hundred and Eighteenth street, Mrs. Herbert Pembroke and her niece, Miss Katherine Harby, have taken a very cozy flat. Mrs. Pembroke's sister, who has been a student at Columbia for several years, graduates this spring, and his mother and cousin will remain until he leaves for home, which will be the second week in June. The ladies have only been in New York a few weeks, but have already learned the city very well, and are able to enjoy the many sights it affords, without the aid of a guide.

President Ben E. Rich paid us a flying visit last week, and delivered a most eloquent address to the Saints at Sunday services. He also visited Boston and Washington before returning south.

The Saturday News, not long ago, had some characteristic sketches by two young Salt Lake artists, Sears and Squires. To the many friends here of Clyde Squires the page was deeply interesting. It was almost a greeting from our old friend, for interest in his welfare has never flagged, and only good wishes from friends he has left behind have followed him home. Of Mr. Sears' work only praise can be uttered. Both young men have a future, and even at this distance it is known and watched by those who are sincerely interested in them, and their work.

Professor H. S. Krouse and wife have a handsome flat in Harlem, 134 West One Hundred and Thirty-seventh street, where they welcome Salt Lakers very cordially. The professor is doing any amount of composing these days, setting music to ballads, for which he receives excellent pay. He always talks of Salt Lake as home, and his old friends are never forgotten.

Dr. Stookey of Salt Lake, who has been taking a post graduate course at the New York college for the past three months, leaves for home tomorrow, but will visit in Chicago for a few days on his way west.

Elders Neild, Meisner, and Garfield, arrived from Utah this week and were sent to different fields of labor. Elder Garfield will go to the East Pennsylvania conference, and Elders Neild and Meisner to Albany.

County Commissioner James H. Anderson, who has been in Washington with Senator Smoot for some time, came up to New York Friday to do a little sight-seeing, and was an attendant at chapel services Sunday, where on invitation of President Welling, he addressed the congregation in a very pleasant way, keeping the attention of his listeners for over an hour by his ability as a speaker.

Mr. Will Lawrence, who has been east for some time, left for home last Tuesday. His visit to New York has been a very pleasant one, owing to his having friends here; the Misses Arton and Jasmine Young have entertained him, and he has met several young Utah people at their home on 112th street.

Mr. and Mrs. David Keith, and young Mr. Keith have returned from Florida, where they have been spending a part of the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Will Sharp and Miss Ora Harkness, who have been in Florida enjoying the mild climate, are also back in New York, stopping at the Waldorf.

Some time this week, Mrs. William Reid, and her little daughter, are expected to arrive on a visit to their sisters, Misses Arton and Jasmine

Young, for a month or more. Mrs. Reid's coming is a very happy surprise to her family here, and great preparations are being made for her stay.

This is the last week of grand opera, and the bills for each night are marvels of art. That gracious queen of songs, Nordica, and the equally charming, Sembrich, are to appear three times. Through the many vicissitudes of gripe, and bronchitis, that Manager Grau's song birds have passed, these two bright stars have always been able to come to the front, and save the opera and the manager from utter collapse. They have no petty jealousies, or if they have, they possess the tact of concealing them so artfully, that they are regarded as paragons of good nature, and it is to be hoped that next season will see them back in their favorite roles, with more added to them.

Advices from Logan, Utah, are to the effect that Mrs. George W. Thatcher and her daughters, Mrs. Sloan and Miss Thatcher, will soon arrive here to pass a year or more, during which time Mrs. Sloan and Miss Thatcher will engage in the study of music. JANET.

A DOG THAT WEARS GLASSES.

A French optician, says La Republique Francaise, has recently been required to furnish a pair of goggles of a special make for the use of a dog who always accompanies his master on his motor rides. The dog has taken very kindly to the innovation, and carries his glasses with the utmost gravity, and as the most natural thing in the world. He even turns up his nose, it is said, at those of his fellow-motorists not provided with a like protection.

ONE PRICE TO ALL NEVER UNDERSOLD

Dress Making.

The announcement last Sunday that Madame Cauthorn has taken charge of our dress-making parlors and was in readiness to meet patrons, had a magic effect upon readers, which prompts us to again suggest the wisdom of placing your orders early. Although our facilities are ample for the most extensive patronage, we nevertheless, wish to guard against the possibilities of a Pre-Easter rush. The attention we always give to detail—that every little thing may be just right—demands reasonable time.
