BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 12.—The Delaware is again higher tonight and further damage to property is feared.

New York, Feb. 12.—The colored citizens of this city have started a movement in opposition of Lynch law and they intend to form branches in all large cities for the purpose of arousing public sentiment.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—The successful result of the Veto may result in the addition of another veto of the same sort to the list. The veto of the bill of March 2nd, 1892, authorized the construction of a vessel similar to the Vesta provided also satisfactory official tests.

New York, Feb. 12.—The Herald this morning carries a three column article which it claims proves that there has recently been formed among the fire insurance companies doing business in New York a combination known as the "Tariff Association." It includes without exception every underwriting company in the city, and in all intents and purposes is the front of the most threatening character. It is further stated that British capital is in control of the combination.

New York, Feb. 12.—The official record of the epidemic fever, extending from the 20th of last November to 27th, shows, ninety-eight deaths, eighty-one burials, seventy-three patients on North Brother's Island and sixty-two patients in quarantine and three patients in quarantine in their homes in the city.

OGDEN WHISPERINGS.

A Dispute over Ice Ponds.—A Junk Man Charged with Embezzlement.

The only case on trial before Judge Blackburn in the Fourth District court on Saturday was that of John Farr et al. vs. George O. Griffith, continued from Friday. The hearing was finished at 6 o'clock and the jury will return a sealed verdict on Monday by instruction of the court. The plaintiff's case is $25,000, damages alleged to have been sustained through the defendant not keeping certain ice ponds at the mouth of Taylor's canyon full enough of water during the late freezing season of 1891-1892, to enable them to put up a sufficient quantity of ice for summer consumption. Farr and his associates in business leased the ponds for $3.50 and entered into a contract with Griffith whereby the latter guaranteed to keep them as full of water as they had theretofore been kept. But the plaintiff's claim, he did not do, but allowed the water to become so low that part of the ice which formed was unfit for market. The case has been hotly contested by counsel on both sides.

Albert Robinson, a junk man whose place of business is near the Ogden river, was arrested Saturday by Sheriff Healey on complaint of G. A. Ewing, charging him with embezzlement. He was taken before Commissioner Terrell and released on $200 bonds to appear for hearing on Monday. It is alleged that Ewing trusted Robinson with $100 with which to purchase ice and that instead of applying the money properly the latter used it and now refuses to make an accounting.

All of the Italian injured in the wreck on the Union Pacific near Point of View, Wyoming, on December 17th, have been removed from the hospital and paid liberally for their injuries, with the exception of the man whose leg was broken. It may be seen from this that the Italian is well enough to continue his journey to San Francisco.

But has been mentioned by the Ogden Tri-Week, that a railway company against which Stevens is the complainant of that city of being liable to Stevens. In some cases the land was awarded to Stevens by the court and then proceedings were necessary to order the same right of way for the motor line.

The officers of the court are kept very busy preparing for the setting of the grand jury which convenes on Monday, February 21st. The jury will be empaneled on the same date.

Judge Blackburn left for Provo last night and on Monday morning Judge Miner will occupy the usual place in the Fourth district court.

SAFE AND VAULT WORKS.

The Chamber of Commerce Will Endeavor to Secure a $20,000 Vault.

The Chamber of Commerce directors held a special meeting on Saturday evening. Messrs. Healey and Wynn, representatives of the Western Safe & Vault company, made a proposition in the board to erect a large factory in or near this city for a cash or ready consideration of $20,000. The board, in response to this proposition, said they would give a loan of $20,000, and a committee consisting of W. E. Hubbard, J. A. Black and J. S. Cameron, was appointed to arrange for the carrying out of the transaction.

Ogden Weather, Sickens, Etc., Ogden City, Utah, Feb. 12, 1893.

Editor Desert News

We are just now experiencing the heaviest part of the winter. Up to and during the month of January the weather was mild, and indeed, some times very warm, so much so that the streets of Ogden were dry and dusty. But within four weeks past the atmospheric changes have been various and great. Now mild and then midday, some warm, cold and then cold and some of the coldest yet known here. It was the driest, coldest few days of weather they had experienced since they first came to this country. At this time all thought of the prospect for water for the coming season was very gloomy. A change has come over the spirit of the dream, and they have now discovered that there was more of the "rainfall" in the upper desert than they had dreamed of. During the last two weeks we have been visited with several snow storms. The first of the winter, on the 12th, brought a heavy fall of the white flakes, and today a great deal of it melted as fast as it fell, which made the mass very slushy, and rendered it difficult for pedestrians to traverse. The snow is now said to be piled up deep and solid in the mountains, which shows the promise of the coming season for the prospects for plenty of irrigating liquid next summer are good.

Not less frequent weather changes have brought misgivings and a great deal of sickness to the people. There is more disease prevalent here now than there has been at any former period except at the time of epidemics. Deaths are more frequent both among the young and the old people than they were in former years.

Among the speakers at the Temperance Union was Elder Andrew Jensen. He gave an excellent discourse on temperance and the evils for which they have been built and the social and deep interest they have for the Latter-day Saints. Since our last quarterly stake conference, when he was held on the 15th and 16th ult., Elder Jensen has visited every ward of this stake outside of this city, examining Church records and instructing the members in the importance of and the manner in which the records of the various ward meetings should be kept. He has collected all the latest data of interest in the place he has visited, and will soon be prepared to write them up. As far as his labors have been promoted by his recent visit, and he is pleased with the result. He speaks very appreciatively of the assistance that has been rendered him by the authorities and other leading citizens in the place he has visited. It was his intention to commence at his lecture to the city where but he has been called away suddenly to Salt Lake City on business of special importance, and so far as his visit here has been to be deferred until next week.

Yours truly,
J. H. HALL.

CAUGHT BY A RAILWAY CAR.

Mr. Walker Comes Out of the Wreck in a Broken State.

Between 1 and 5 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, Mr. Walker, who drives a delivery wagon for Roberts & Nathan, happened to be engaged in his usual work on First South street between Fourth and Fifth West streets. In turning around he had occasion to cross the street railway tracks, when in the act of doing so his horse became shy and started. As the journeyer's electric car came down the street at a rapid rate of speed, the motorist failed to stop his horse in time to prevent a collision, and the car crashed into the wagon, striking it squarely on

A Serious Fire—Income Taxmen Impoverished—Other Events.

Special Correspondence to the News.

Provo, Feb. 12.—Plumes of fire from the roof of Parley Hildreth's store on Center street, at 4 o'clock on Sunday morning. When the fire department arrived on the scene a few minutes later, the entire rear part of the store was in flames. The flames were so intense that they could not be extinguished, but not until nearly all the contents of the store had either been destroyed or greatly damaged by the fire and the entire structure was not near enough to be saved. The fire originated in a small fire which had been burning in the rear of the store. When the candle burned over it ignited some combustible goods. The loss will be nearly $5000. Mr. Hildreth, however, places only a few days' stock for $2500.

The Income Taxmen have been under consideration the contracting of a number of fire engines and the purchase of additional engines for the city. Two new engines will be placed in service in the yard, and an effort will be made to complete the work of the fire department within a month. The female wards are rather crowded at present, but there will be sufficient room when the south wing is completed.

A number of Indians have visited the city of late. The other day one of them came out in all the glory of a vermillion decorative campaign hat. He seemed to realize his importance, and he was a very creditable manner. The speech, "Little Red Riding Hood" was presented on Saturday evening by a local company of juvenile actors, under direction of Miss Kitchin, in a very creditable manner. There was a little in the electric light, however, and because of the darkness of the night, the children seemed to be in a state of confusion. The audience was met with a similar mishap on the presentation of a former opera performance. There was a little confusion which was not due to the children, but which created considerable interest among the young. It was held on the 15th and 16th ult., Elder Jensen has visited every ward of this stake outside of this city, examining Church records and instructing the members in the importance of and the manner in which the records of the various ward meetings should be kept. There was another violent snow storm in Utah Valley last night. In the case of Samuel S. Clark vs. Provo city, a suit for $3,000 alleged damages sustained through the thought of plaintiff's son being broken, the jury returned a verdict of $100 for plaintiff.

Utah Stake Conference.

We have just closed our quarterly conference, held Feb. 5 and 6, and have had one of the most enjoyable times ever experienced here in conference. It was a very creditable manner. There is considerable sickness in the land, one family lost a young man from diphtheria. The weather is "warm and mild," the snow slowly accumulating in the mountains. Times are very dull. Respectfully, asking that a roadway be constructed along the west side of City Creek canyon, the undersigned property owners on Ninth street, agree with one another and with the City Council of Salt Lake City in particular, that for the purpose of making a general drive or highway extending along Ninth street and providing a roadway, is constructed in City Creek canyon and connected with Ninth street, to strike and Ninth street from the foot of the hill of said canyon to the east side of the canyon grounds, a portion of it being a grade to be constructed by the city engineer.

VERMIL, Feb. 6, 1893.

Both routes are under consideration but which one will be selected is not yet certain though the one reported by the business men's association will probably be given the preference.

The subscription fund is swelling daily while numerous offers of work are being sent in.

Judge Colburn was present as a representative of the Business Men's association. For that organization he submitted a report favoring the following route: Starting at the Temple House corner on Main street, running by the most direct route to the Warm Springs and then on a slight grade to the foot of Capitol hill on the south side of the Capitol grounds, following the side of the hill, thence north on the east side of the Capitol grounds to the reservoir; thence along the pipe line on the west side of the canyon a distance of about two miles to the foot of City Creek canyon. This would give a total of fifty feet in the 5000. The route would then be up the east side of the canyon to the tower, the distance on each side of the canyon being about the same. From the tower the route would be east along Sixth street to the cemetery, thence south to Third street and thence east to the reservoir, and across it on an easy grade to Fort Douglas.

From Fort Douglas the route would be on an easy grade to the intersection of Sixth street and Fairview East, and west along Sixth Street to the center of the city.

Another Route.

Lewis F. Kirby, representing the business property owners, submitted a proposition favoring the following route: The boulevard to start at a point where Capitol avenue intersects the foot of the hill, thence along the west side of the hill on a grade of 10 percent to the foot of the canyon, a distance of 4,000 feet, thence along the east side of the canyon on a slight grade to where Ninth street or Eleventh street intersects the foot of the hill, thence east along Ninth street or Eleventh street to the cemetery grounds, thence southeasterly to the intersection of the boulevard and the foot of the hill, thence east half a mile. From here the boulevard would swing around in the shape of a semi-circle, through Poppleton Place and the reservoir, passing within a quarter of a mile of the flagpole of Fort Douglas, and on around to Ninth street and Fairview East. From this point south to either Poppleton Place and west on either of these streets to Fifth East, the present drive, and back up down past Liberty Park and the city and county building.

Mr. Kirby spoke at length in favor of his proposition and in conclusion offered the following, which he said the north branch property owners will readily agree to:
