

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Students of the B. Y. college, Logan have organized a debating society, and will hold meetings once each week to discuss leading questions of interest to people who are interested in current events.

In Logan, November 24 Mrs. Mary Williams died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Sarah Bassett, at the ripe age of 88 years. The funeral services were held yesterday, and there was a numerous attendance.

Natural gas is being used by two families at Smithfield to the entire satisfaction of themselves and the envy of their neighbors. One well there, the property of Mr. William Toombe, is very powerful, and the supply is apparently inexhaustible.

The surveyors of the proposed Utah & Wyoming railway are still in Cache valley, and judging from the care taken in surveying the proposed route the company means business, and there is some prospect of deliverance from the rapidity of the U. P.

The once popular Ogden hostelry the Broom hotel is reopened to the public, after having been closed for several months. Mrs. Hester Broom, widow of the late John Broom, will be represented by George F. Brown and William Thompson.

In the case of Selden I. Clawson vs Coalville city, a suit for an injunction to restrain the defendants from interfering with him in the erection of electric light poles and for $500 damages, Judge Barton has ordered that both parties be restrained from in any way interfering with the property and that the same remain in statu quo pending a final decision.

Martin Sohaas a second hand clothier and broker with a first-class police record, and Domeico Rudellat, an Italian saloon keeper, doing business near the Tribune office, are face to face with the penitentiary and under arrest on a charge of illegal voting.

The complainant in both cases is Michael Earl, who alleges that the accused have been voting regularly in this city for some time past while they were aliens.

A hold-up occurred last Saturday night near All Hallows College. The victim was Mr. M. C. Phillips of 357 East Second South. He was suddenly accosted by three men with revolvers. Mr. Phillips had no money on his person, but he was deprived of a gold watch valued at $350, and which was highly valued by the owner as he had received it as a gift from the Hebrew congregation B'nai Israel of this city. Mr. Phillips was also robbed of several other pocket articles which he had on his person.

In Chief Justice Zane's court November 4th, in the case of the People vs Edward C. Sheffield, who is indicted for murder in the second degree, viz: the killing of Joe Leonard at Fort Douglas, the defendant was arraigned and entered a special written plea, also a plea of not guilty to the charge. His counsel is Richard W. Young, and he was in attendance this morning.

Lieutenant B. B. Buck and Sergeant Linze, who are jointly indicted with Sheffield, were not called to plead. One of them is said to be sick at the present time.

And now it is ex-Superintendent of Waterworks Ryan who is about to come once again into public view. One day last week eight indictments were returned by the grand jury of the Third District Court, and Ryan was one of the number. It was not until later, however, that Assistant District Attorney Howat applied for warrants of arrest, which were issued from Judge Barton's court shortly afterwards and placed in the hands of deputy marshals. Ryan's name was among them, and his arrest is looked for at any moment. Up to the time the News went to press, however, he had not been gathered in. He is accused of embezzlement while in the employ of the City Council.

The Wasatch Wave states that last Tuesday Dez. Rollie, aged 17, the eldest son of Douf. Rollie, was seriously injured by being kicked on the head by a horse. He was returning from Park City with a boy about the same age as himself. They had one horse between them and the Rollie boy was walking, while his companion was leading the horse. They were coming down a steep hill and the boy behind is supposed to have slipped down under the horse's heels and frightened the animal, which lunged forward and knocked the boy in front down but not seriously injuring him. Upon getting up he saw Rollie lying upon the ground insensible, with his skull crushed in. Dr. Lindsay was summoned and found a depressed part of the frontal bone. He was obliged to trephine the skull in order to raise it. The boy is getting along as well as can be expected.

The seventy-fifth birthday of Father William Millard came on October 31, 1893, and to show him the appreciation they felt for his untiring work among the children (as Sunday school teacher, etc.) the Primary society met at the ward meeting house at 2 o'clock p.m. Bishop W. C. Parkinson then brought Father Millard to the meeting house and he was nearly overcome when he saw the house filled with happy, smiling children. The afternoon was spent in singing, reciting, dancing, etc. Father Millard received some nice presents.

At 8 o'clock p.m. many of the older folks (not wishing to be outdone by their children) met at the residence of Brother Millard and had a very enjoyable time, dancing, singing, reciting and speech making. The party brought an abundance of eatables which were partaken of with a relish. Father Millard gave us a sketch of his early history which ended the evening's entertainment. K. O. PRESTON, Cache Co., Nov. 2.

The following conversation took place on Monday, the 6th, when Levi Bechtol and John Rose, the former about fifty years of age and the latter a youth of nineteen, were brought before Judge Barton to receive judgment; having plead guilty to an indictment charging them with wholesale cattle stealing in Tooele county.

To answer to the court Bechtol said he had not much to say—because he "could not say anything." He had never been arrested before. He "got in" with some others and was led into this.

"What is your age?" asked the judge.

"I do not know, I'm sure," the defendant answered. "I left home when I was a little fellow, and I've been around ever since. I had to walk here when I came—to drive cattle. This town was a good deal smaller then than it is now."

To other questions he said he thought he could keep out of trouble after this. He stole the cattle from the range and believed there were sixteen head.

Judge Barton, taking all the representations made to him in consideration, ordered the defendant to be kept in the penitentiary for fifteen months.

Rose expressed his regret and said he would try not to do anything wrong again.

Judge Barton gave the defendant a few words of good advice and remarking that he hoped this would be a lesson to him when he came out of prison to lead a different life passed sentence of one year in the penitentiary.

THEOLOGY CLASS.

The second session of the class was held in the Assembly Hall Sunday, Nov. 5th, commencing at 12:15 p. m. Over 500 students assembled and were furnished with leaflets containing an outline of the work in hand. The class was opened with prayer, followed by a brief explanation of the nature and earnestness of the work, the preparation required of students, the difference between a meeting and a class, also the dispatch in organization necessary to the greatest success.

A review of the previous lesson was taken, in which concise and complete answers were drawn from all parts of the house upon the following topics:

1. Introductory—The definition, importance and comprehensiveness of the theology and religion, as taught and practiced by the Latter-day Saints; Joseph Smith; and the standard books of the Church.

2. The Articles of Faith.—Having been accepted by vote of the people and re-adopted Oct. 5, 1890, these thirteen articles were selected as a basis of study. They set forth many, but not all the leading principles of the faith of the Latter-day Saints implying that more revelation from the living oracles of God is believed in, and all that is virtuous, lovely, of good report or praiseworthy is sought after.

Article 1—We believe in God the Eternal Father, and in His Son, Jesus Christ, and in the Holy Ghost.—(1.) The existence of God, as proved by reason, tradition and revelation; (2.) the Godhead and (3.) some attributes of Deity were considered in connection with this first article of faith.

The instructor of the class, then proceeded with the new lesson, the study of the second article of faith: We believe that men will be punished for their own sins and not for Adam's transgression.—The free agency of
