EVENING NEWS.

THE PROBABLE EFFECTS OF

Washington, November 16. — The views of Hon. Dorman B. Eaton, president of the Civil Service Commission, in regard to the probable effects of Cleveland and Hendricks' election, upon the maintenance of the civil service law, have been obtained by a representative of the Associated Press and are given in the following report of the interview:

Question: "You are from New York, Mr. Commissioner, and know what Governor Cleveland has done there

Question: "You are from New York, Mr. Commissioner, and know what Governor Cleveland has done there for civil service reform. Please give the Associated Press the facts and your views, as to what he is likely to do relative to removals and the civil service act, and rules."

Mr. Eaton: "These are very delicate questions for me, in my position, to answer. I have taken no part whatever in the late campaign. I have the least right to assume to speak for Governornor Cleveland, or his party having acted with the republican party from its origin. I can hardly speak without some party bias: nevertheless, I will frankly tell you what I think. We shall have an administration absolutely Democratic in policy, but whether with a member representing those without whose vot; the Democratic party would have failed, I will not guess; but the civil service will not be repealed either at the coming session his courage, his strength of character, will secure victory. There is no public man in this country who has a higher sense of the moral obligations of official life or who is more certain to withstand the more partisan and selfish appeals than Governor Cleveland. This is a great element of power and popularity too, as the people now feel, and, lest my motives be misunderstood, let me add that he has never done me a favor and that I would neither ask nor accept one at his hands. Many officers outside the rules and some within will doubtless be removed for no very good reasons, but so far as possible, Governor Cleveland will prevent mere political proscription. He cannot attend to everything, much will depend on members of his cabinet and especially on the Postmaster-General. If there are, as is charged, some officers who have need their influence to enforce assessments and neglected their duties and violated their stations to engare in party warfare, the fate they have challenged may very likely await them. If persons are to be selected for public work, irrespective of politics, they had better attend to that work and not meddle with elections."

Question—"What has Governor Cleveland done in New York to warrant this estimate of him?"

Answer—"Buffalo was a city almost as partisan, lawless and badly governed as Cincinnati. Upon being made sheriff, Mr. Cleveland exhibited those qualities which are being more and more needed and appreciated by the people. They comprehended and approved his spirit. He was elected mayor by a vote from both parties in that Republican city. His life as mayor was a continuous struggle for honesty and fidelity in office against jobbers, sportsmen and partisans who had long preyed on the city. He mastered the situation and became known as the veto mayor. His fearless way of dealing with them is shown by the language of his vetoes." Commissioner Enton here quotes from Gov. Cleveland's messages, from his letter accepting the gubernatorial nomination and from other communications to show his

been advised that Mr. Blaine was in sympathy with the reform of the civil service, and in no speech during the campaign, although he made several hundred, did he refer to the question." "Governor Cleveland," Judge Thurman continued, "had delared himself, on every occasion that he addressed the public, in favor of the system of reform that was now being successfully carried out under the provisions of Pendleton's bill and the rules promulgated by President Arthur, who at all times had given the commission hearty and unwavering support."

party would have failed, I will not guess; but the civil service will not be repealed either at the coming session or during this generation. Governor Cleveland and the statesmen of his party would oppose any attempt to repeal it. Republicans as a body would resist, and the Senate would defeat such an attempt. The rules will inot be abolished; they will be enforced under the new President, but not, I fear, with such enlarging breadth of application and such moral support from the party in power as would have been the case, certainly, had President Arthur been re-elected, and probably had Mr. Blaine succeeded. The disinterestedness and patriotism of the country are not very unequally divided between the great parties, but in my opinion my party has much the larger part of the intelligent conviction which has thus far supported civil service reform. Great numbers of persons in the Democratic ranks are so prefudiced and uninformed on the subject, that they will clamor for remevals for the sake of patronage. They do not comprehend that a party which could elect its candidate only by the aid of republican friends of reform has no chance if 't alienates those friends, in future, when they are sure to be far more numerous and powerful than now. They still believe in the old spoils system, not comprehending that it is doomed, and caring more, for four years' saturnalia of spoil than for all the future beyond that. A great struggle over the reform issue in the democratic ranks is therefore certain. The statesmen of the party, Ba ard, Pendleton, Lamar, Garland, Carlisle, Randall, Cox, Morrison, Tucker, Hewett, Willis, and others, each of whom has already spoken and voted for the civil service act, will stand by the new President in its support. But many worthy democrats and all the demagogues, spoilsmen and rabble of the party will be against it. Republicans will stand together for the sct and rules, anxiously waiting for the democrate to ruin themselves by their abrogation. The President will lead the reform element of
