

IN THE WORLD OF WOMEN

An ice cream social and card party for the Scofield fund last night and a handsome sum was netted by the entertainment.

Mrs. A. M. Boxrud and children will spend the summer in Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Smith will spend a few weeks in California.

Mrs. Howat and the Misses Howat will be pleased to extend congratulations upon the event of his marriage which occurred on Thursday morning at Mantle. The bride is Miss Millie Kellar of the latter city, daughter of Mrs. Annie R. Kellar. Mr. and Mrs. Kerr left after the ceremony for a trip to Colorado, after which they will reside in Mantle.

The boards of the Young Ladies' and Young Men's M. I. A. met on Thursday evening. Parry gave an afternoon party in honor of Miss Florence Morgan. The time was pleasantly spent with music, conversation and sewing, and refreshments were served. The guests were: Barton, Anna Rogers, Gertrude Felt, Maud Hardy, Clarice Thatcher, Tillie Claire Kimball.

The wedding of Miss Kittie J. Kidder and Mr. Lee Braxton Wright took place on Wednesday night, the ceremony being performed at 8:30 o'clock at the bride's home, Rev. W. H. Bagby officiating. The rooms were prettily decorated with flowers and the relatives and immediate friends witnessed the ceremony. The bride wore a dainty gown of white Persian lawn over tulle and carried white roses. The maid of honor, Miss members of the Author's club and a number of other guests at her residence on north State street, Tuesday evening. The rooms were beautifully decorated with roses, bowls and vases of flowers filling mantles, windows and every available niche. An amusing card and bean game was a feature of the evening and delicious refreshments were served. The guests were: Prof. and Mrs. Kingsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, Prof. and Mrs. Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Ritter, Prof. and Mrs. Lyman, Dr. and Mrs. Richards, Prof. and Mrs. Rowland, Mrs. Nellie Little, Mrs. Augusta Grant, Mrs. Crismon, Mrs. Sansome, Miss Spencer.

The marriage of Miss Emma Augusta Skoklund and Dr. Gustave Waldemar Teut, the well known dentist, took place on Thursday, the ceremony being performed in the Temple at noon, and a pretty reception following afterward at the bride's home on Apple street. The rooms were beautifully decorated with flags, roses and trailing ivy, and the lawn was brilliant with colored Japanese lanterns. A large number of handsome gifts were presented to the young couple, and the evening was delightfully spent. Dr. and Mrs. Teut will be at home to their friends at 51 Apple street.

Mrs. Ferdinand Dickert entertained at a reception yesterday afternoon, for her daughter, Miss Elza Dickert, at her residence on South Main street. The rooms were handsomely decorated with palms, roses and sweet peas, and a large number were present during the afternoon. Assisting Mrs. Dickert were Mrs. Leonard, Miss Preston, Mrs. Druehl and Mrs. Thorn. Misses Flora Griffin, Mary Sherman and Sallie Leonard presided over the punch bowl, and assisting in the dining room were Mrs. W. E. Terhune, Misses Norma Dickert, Cammie Leonard, Florence Terhune and Miss Thorn.

On Thursday night the regular monthly reception at St. Paul's parish was given at the church rectory, and an enjoyable evening was spent, a large number being present to greet Rev. Ellis Bishop after his absence. A delightful musical program was given by Miss Gray, Miss Corinne Harris, Miss Mabel Clark, Mrs. McIntyre, Mr. Schied and Mr. Scott. The reception committee consisted of Mrs. Florence K. Woodruff, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Reese, Dr. and Mrs. D. M. Lindsay, Mrs. Meyer, Mrs. Holcomb and Miss Kimball presided in the dining room, and the young ladies of the altar guild served.

An interesting event of the week was the wedding of Miss Emmaretta Gabbott and Campbell Brown, which occurred on Thursday night at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Gabbott, 1400 south State street. The house was decorated with palms and red roses, and presented a charming appearance. The bride wore a gown of white Persian lawn with lace and ribbon trimmings and carried roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Emma Brown and Miss Molly McClelland, Miss Brown wearing a gown of rose colored organdie, and Miss McClelland a corn colored gown of the same material. Mr. Penrose and Mr. Lawson acted as groomsmen. Refreshments were served, and the event was an exceedingly pretty one in all details.

A notable event of the week was the reception given Monday afternoon by the kindergarten department of the State University in honor of the graduating class of 1900. The event took place at the Ladies Literary club from 2 to 4, and over seventy-five guests enjoyed the afternoon. The rooms were prettily decorated with flowers, and an interesting program was given consisting of short addresses by Dr. Kingsbury, Miss May and Prof. Stewart and musical selections by two of the graduates, Mrs. Alice E. Hanford and Miss Moore. After the program refreshments were served and a delightful half hour spent in social chat. Miss May was assisted in receiving by Mrs. W. S. McCormick, Mrs. J. M. Dart and Mrs. John McVicker. Misses Rebecca Morris, Atton Young, Margaret Henry, McLaughlin, Taylor and Canters assisted in serving refreshments.

On Thursday Miss Ida Pitt and Mr. Elijah M. Weiler were united in marriage, the ceremony taking place at noon in the Temple, and a reception following afterward at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. McCormick. The bride wore a gown of white organdie with pink ribbons, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pitt and Mr. and Mrs. Weiler assisted in receiving. The bride and groom are well known. Mrs. Pitt having been a popular member of the Home Opera company, and with Mr. Weiler having a host of friends who will join in extending congratulations.

Mrs. H. Eldridge entertained at a rose tea on Thursday afternoon. The rooms were beautifully decorated with roses, the profusion and prettiness of the arrangement being a feature of the entertainment. A most appropriate one. The last day of April of the present year took the party from April 1st to April 30th, the friends of Mrs. Carrie Edwards and Mr. Will Drake received invitations to be present at the young couple's wedding on last Monday night. They accordingly gathered at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Huhe as requested and found all in seeming readiness for the announced wedding. As the evening wore on without the appearance of a minister it began to be surmised that some unfortunate hitch had transpired in the arrangements. They were about sitting down to the banquet which had been prepared when the groom announced that there would be no ceremony that evening as the marriage of himself and Miss Edwards had been solemnized at Farmington on April 30th. He then presented his bride and the assembled guests enjoyed the novel situation and cordially extended congratulations and good wishes. The bride is a popular Wisconsin girl and the groom the young engineer at St. Mark's hospital, who distinguished himself by saving a man from drowning while in Honolulu with the volunteer engineer corps. Mr. Drake wears a medal awarded him for his brave act.

Among the pretty weddings of the week was that of Miss Hattie Badger and Marcellus Nebeker on Wednesday night. The rooms were decorated with pink roses and smilax, the windows and ceilings being festooned with green and roses prettily arranged throughout the house. The bride wore a handsome gown of tan broadcloth with hat to match, and carried bride roses. After the ceremony refreshments were served, by Miss Louise Badger, Miss Ethel Groesbeck and Miss Lena and Bessie Badger assisting. Miss Lyle Young presided at the punch bowl. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Nebeker left for a trip to British Columbia, after which they will return to make their home for a time in Robinson. ## CLUB CHAT.

MODEL FOR ORGANDIE GOWN.

Organdie gowns this year are made up over tulle or lawn of a contrasting color. This beautiful model suitable for wear on almost any occasion, is a gray organdie made up over green. The lace is white with black edges. The yoke, sleeves, and bottom of the skirt are trimmed with alternate rows of white satin baby ribbon and black velvet baby ribbon of the narrowest possible width. White satin ribbon forms an epaulette trimming on the shoulders terminating in bows. Black velvet ribbon belt with jet buckle. Jet buckle on front.

The Authors' club closed for the summer May 1. At the last meeting the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. Elizabeth Wilcox, president; Mrs. Lillian Richards, recording secretary; Mrs. Jane M. King, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Elizabeth Crismon, treasurer. The "Annual" was held at the home of Dr. Maggie Roberts on the evening of June 5. The Authors' club has spent a very successful year in its history. It has been a literary club from the first colonial period up to the Cambridge poets. Next year the club will take up American literature again and continue the subject until it is completed.

That program for the "Big Milwaukee biennial" fairly scintillates with speakers. Club women from Maine to California and from Dakota to Texas—club women pre-eminently prominent in their own States—have come forward at this time.

The 100 club women who have spoken on 100 subjects, however, arouse the same spirit as portrayed by Kate Douglas Wiggin when she made Mrs. Ruggles say, as she contemplated her numerous offspring primped up for the party: "Well, if I do say it, what shouldn't ever did see." As the evening wore on certainly are a fine lot of speakers.

"Our Own Authors" is the name given to the literary session, which occupied Wednesday evening of this week, her time between Davenport, Iowa, and

ENGLAND'S QUEEN NO LONGER MAY READ OR WRITE.

Queen Victoria's eyesight has so failed of late that she is now compelled to wear large glasses. The several well-known oculists who have examined her eyes say that excessive use is responsible for her failing sight and that no operation would be of avail. She is pre-occupied reading and writing.

NOTABLE UTAH WOMEN.

MISS GRATIA FLANDERS.

Miss Gratia Flanders is well known to Salt Lake people, her talent as a pianist and teacher of music placing her in the front rank of musical artists in Salt Lake and the West. Miss Flanders is a pupil of the celebrated Emil Liebling, and has studied theory with Adolph Wiedig and Grant Gleason. She came to Salt Lake in 1891, and since that time her name has become a synonym for the highest ideals in personal musical execution and training, piano playing being her specialty. Her classes number as large a list of pupils as her time makes it possible to accept, and the public has had ample opportunity to judge of her excellent standard and method in the numerous musical recitals given by those who have studied under her instruction. The Flanders amateurs is a club composed of Miss Flanders' pupils, organized for the purpose of mutual progress and culture in piano playing, and the work done by this band of ambitious musicians, as displayed in the public recitals in which they have appeared, reflect eminent credit upon instructor and pupils.

In addition to individual classes, Miss Flanders has been since 1894 in charge of the piano department at Rowland Hall.

We close her sketch with a deserved tribute recently paid Miss Flanders and which is undoubtedly an expression of the general opinion in regard to the gifted pianist's work and influence in Salt Lake.

"Since her advent here she has been an important factor in the musical life of Salt Lake City and by her frequent public recitals has done much towards creating a universal taste for, and appreciation of, classical music. Miss Flanders' success is pre-eminently in the field of teaching, for which she is peculiarly qualified and gifted. Her strong personality and magnetism reacts on her pupils and inspires even the least promising among them with some of her own love and enthusiasm for music. Much of her success can also be traced to her firm belief in the necessity of 'making one's reputation anew every year, and not taking it for granted that a success in one year necessarily includes that of the next.' Her facility at the piano amounts to virtuosity. Her touch and technique are splendidly clear, and her interpretation is faultless."

A party consisting of Miss Mabelle Snow and Le Roi Snow and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Snow, Mrs. Hannah Snow Lewis and Miss Maud Ford, left for Brigham City yesterday, where they will spend several days visiting places of interest in that vicinity.

Mrs. E. B. Rathbone and daughter Ruben left for New York this week to be absent about three weeks. They will attend the wedding of Mrs. Rathbone's brother, Alden S. Benedict, in New York, and on their way back will stop over at Chicago to see Clarence Bean, who is a student in the Moody Institute in that city.

Invitations have been issued for a reception to be given Tuesday evening, June 12th, by the general board of Young Men's and Young Ladies' Mutual Improvement Associations to the State officers attending the M. I. A. conference. The event will take place at the Bee Hive House.

The many friends of Mr. Hal Kerr night at the residence of Prest. Frank Y. Taylor of Granite Stake, and enjoyed a pleasant social evening, a short musical program being rendered and the time pleasantly spent in conversation and social pastime. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Vincent was the hostess at a second delightful luncheon today in honor of Mrs. W. F. Vincent. The table was decorated in pink, roses being the flowers used. The guests, besides Mrs. Vincent, were Mrs. Hal Brown, Mrs. Peyton, Miss Preston, Mrs. Gaigher, Mrs. Weir, Mrs. Brattain.

On Tuesday the Critic Normal teachers of the University gave a reception to the parents of the members of the class. A short program consisting of an address by Prof. Stewart on the Methods of Teaching in the Normal Schools, a piano selection by Miss Gertrude Felt and a song by Miss Burch was rendered, refreshments were served, and a pleasant time enjoyed.

On Wednesday the class of teachers in the Normal school were entertained by the instructors in Miss Sampson's room. Music, recitations and dancing were among the pleasant features. Mrs. Melton and Miss Anna Moore rendered piano selections, Miss Edna May and Blanch Thomas giving recitations. Mr. Jensen furnished music for the dancing.

The second of June was the sixty-fifth anniversary of the wedding day of Grandfather and Grandmother Mantle of Taylorville. The celebration was held at the home of their son, John W. Mantle. From far and near the descendants of the worthy pair, came to honor to the event. Children, grandchildren and great grandchildren assembled, and with songs, speeches and jests, made merry the occasion. Grandfather and Grandmother Mantle are perhaps the oldest wedded couple in Utah. Their ages are respectively ninety-two and ninety-five years. The aged pair feel that they have been particularly favored. Seldom does death permit a union of so long a time as sixty-five years.

The Woman's Republican club met on Monday with Mrs. Rachel Miller and spent a pleasant afternoon. Mrs. Pease, the secretary of the club reported the receipts for the Scofield fund from the card party last week amounted to $42. Plans for the club field day which will be held at Saltair on August 5th, were discussed, but nothing definite decided on.

Mrs. E. H. Roberts entertained the

The dearth in social affairs during the past few weeks was more than made up for during the past six days. Weddings, receptions, card-parties and dinners galore have enlivened the week, the first especially having been so plentiful as to fairly keep up the June reputation as the month of weddings even if no more were booked for the coming weeks. There are, however, many of these pretty events still to come, and the announcements of receptions, card-parties, etc., show that the present season is in no danger of suffering from any painful degree of social lethargy.

Miss Gratia Flanders was the hostess at a charming luncheon at the Alta club on Monday afternoon given in honor of Mr. Emil Liebling. The table was beautifully decorated with pink roses and smilax, the center having a pyramid of roses with ten branching out from it to be taken as souvenirs for each guest. The place cards were in the form of booklets with a hand painted grand piano decorating the covers and verses on music by different poets inside. The guests were: Mr. Emil Liebling, Mrs. Fabian, Mrs. Christy, Miss Colburn, Miss Geneve Ellerbeck, Miss Lane, Miss Katherine Lowe, Miss Moore, Miss Atton Young.

On Monday night, Emil Liebling, the noted musician, was the guest of honor at a brilliant reception at Rowland Hall given by Bishop Leonard and the faculty.

The rooms were beautifully decorated, the reception room in American Beauty roses, red peonies, orange blossoms and smilax, the parlor with pink carnations and roses and the dining room with yellow roses and California poppies. Stupified behind a bank of palms and potted plants Christensen's full orchestra dispensed music during the evening. Over 300 guests were present, the receiving party consisting of Bishop and Mrs. Leonard, Bishop Farnon of Idaho, Miss Flanders, Miss Colburn, Miss Geo. A. Lowe, Mrs. Plummer, Mrs. W. S. McCormick, Prof. Radcliffe, Mr. Peabody. The dining room was in charge of Mrs. Wm. Jennings, Mrs. Hanford and Miss Leonard, Humphrey and Moore. The event was a most delightful one.

On Thursday afternoon Miss Preston and Mrs. Galtcher entertained at a second card party, the scheme in decorations, score cards and tallies following the idea of the first. The prizes were won by Mrs. G. N. Miles, Miss Sadler, Miss Ingram.

The guests were: Mesdames Byron Groo, C. W. Owen, A. L. Brattain, M. B. Whitney, E. O. Carey, B. B. Hanak, J. D. Spencer, M. M. Barratt, J. Baumgarten, W. Igleheart, C. Plummer, Clarence Bradley, F. B. Choate, F. Dickert, S. W. Eccles, W. E. Bennett, L. F. Evans, F. A. Vincent, Fred Vincent, Ira Lyons, C. McMahon, E. W. Whitney, E. D. Miller, W. A. Nelden, F. B. Stephens, Oswald, E. L. Carpenter, Ferguson, A. B. Richardson, L. S. Borgs, F. A. Ross, F. D. Hobbs, Strevel, A. Hanauer, Walter Druehl, Howard, J. R. Ingram, S. L. Pearson, W. H. Jones, G. M. Miles, McCartney, H. Hoag, A. M. Rowman, Grant Smith, Ritchie, Misses Merritt, Willes Craig, Rookledge, Ada Clark, Spencer, Sadler, Irene Sadler, Dr. Luella Miles, Lane, J. T. Howat, Holmes, C. Rookledge.

Miss Preston and Mrs. J. E. Galtcher entertained at a delightful card-party on Wednesday. As the hostesses are both of Englishland, the party was celebrated with decorations of English flags mingled with the red, white and blue, the score cards were excellent portraits of the British generals distinguished in the war in the Transvaal, a "Briton and Boer" salad was served and the idea carried out in many charming original devices. The red, white and blue mingled generously with the British emblems. Red and white roses and blue batches of buttons filled numberless vases in all the rooms, tiny bows of red, white and blue were pinned on the biscuits, and the lettuce leaf which enclosed the salad had a single batchelor's button closing its edges, and red and white radishes sliced as a dressing carried out the color idea. The tallies bore the monogram of the hostesses in red, white and blue, and the ice cream was pink with "63" in white figures engraved in each block. The scheme was most unique and prettily carried out, and elicited many expressions of admiration.

The first prize in the contest was won by Miss Blanche Kimball, the second by Mrs. Brink and the third by Miss Katherine Lowe.
