

Idaho News From Her Main Cities and Towns.

HEAVY RAINS ARE PLAYING HAVOC

Considerable Damage Done in The Northern Part of Idaho.

TRAFFIC AT A STANDSTILL.

Since Saturday Boise Receives No Mail or Freight from Eastern Washington or Oregon.

Special Correspondence.

BOISE, Ida., March 19.—Floods caused by heavy rains and melting snow have been playing havoc in the northern part of the state, as well as in eastern Washington and Oregon, the past week. Traffic has been practically at a standstill, Boise having received no mail or freight from that direction since last Saturday. Great gaps have been washed out in the railroad tracks in several places, and repairing them is practically impossible under present conditions, yet the waters are subsiding considerably the last day or two and it is thought that within the course of a day or so connections will be made and train service re-established. The regions in north Idaho mostly affected by the high waters are around about Lewiston and in the Palouse and Potlatch valleys.

This region of the state has also been visited by rains during the past week, but they have been very peaceful and the thirsty ground has drunk greedily all the moisture which has fallen upon it.

SWEETHEART RELIEF.

Forging of checks seems to be among the regular work during the past week these days. The last man to be brought into the tolls under this offense is J. J. Dale, a former drug clerk of this city, but now a milk pedler. It appears that he became stranded in the despicable quarters of the city, night before last, and in order to square his account he drew a check on one of the local banks for $15, knowing full well it is alleged, he had no funds in the bank. The pathetic part of the story occurs when the announcement of Dale's arrest yesterday morning reached the ears of a beautiful young social girl, located in one of the fashionable houses on Warm Springs avenue. At an early hour a messenger boy called at the jail with a note for Dale from this sweetheart, which was followed by a second note within an hour. She had sent him $20 to assist him out of his trouble, together with words of good cheer. The poor fellow, however, young lady in vain consulted her on her association with Dale, and there developed a story of mingled joys and tears; joys, in the thought that but a few days had stood between her and the delicious sea of matrimony; tears, in the thought that these days would now be materially lengthened and that her betrothed would look for her not through front bars. The young woman spoke of having worked very hard and saved her money in anticipation of their early marriage. The fact that her intended husband was being found a forger, and the further fact that such forgery had been committed in an attempt to cover the pecuniary consideration of his participation in a wild life, did not seem to disturb the girl's ardent love and respect toward him.

DEAD MAN IDENTIFIED.

The man who was killed last week at the Homestead mine, several miles above this city, and whose body has been lying at the undertaking parlors ever since, has at least been identified by a former workman at the mine, Joseph Allen. Men with whom he worked, it seems, knew him only as "Joe." Further information concerning him could not be found. He will be interred this afternoon.

RANCHER STEALS WAGON.

A rancher residing near Parma, by the name of Robert Tenson, is now in jail, convicted of larceny. The crime against him is the theft of a new wagon from the Lemp Brewery last Thursday evening. He deliberately drove a team of horses into the Lemp yard after dark, hitched onto the wagon, loaded in the goods he had purchased that day and started for home. He was a former employee of Mr. Lemp, and was out of his mind when he did this. It was very evident that he came to Boise with the intention of getting the wagon, for he drove his team here with no vehicle whatever.

The taking of the wagon was observed by Mr. Lemp the next morning and complaint was made to the sheriff, who started immediately in pursuit of Tenson. The officers followed him to the home of Tenson, where they lay in wait for the arrival of their man, who came walking in just after dark. They took him in custody and brought him to Boise, where he stood trial the fore part of the week, receiving a sentence of six months' imprisonment.

BOISE TO HAVE CHAUNTAQUA.

It is among the most likely probabilities that Boise will have a chauntaqua assembly, if not for a permanent institution, for one year at least. The Boise Commercial club is now behind the movement, as well as the local

GRAND DUKE OF HESSE
King of the Netherlands

GRAND DUKE HOST OF SOCIALISTS.

Grand Duke Ernest Louis of Hesse is the most talked of man in the fatherland at the present time.

As all Europe knows, he is a nephew of King Edward and a brother-in-law of Prince Henry, Emperor William's brother.

He is talked about because he has once more shown lively sympathy with classes of the people at the opposite end of the social pole from princes and potentates.

Only the other night he invited to his palace all the members of the Hessian diet, irrespective of party, including even the Socialists. No other ruler in Germany would dare do such a thing. And with the Socialists members he invited the newspaper men, who report the diet proceedings. In his eyes all are men and brothers.

The Socialists went in their best clothes. Among them was their leader, Herr Ulrich, who has the reputation of being the biggest fire-eater in the Socialist camp, a man who does not hesitate to recommend barricades.

The grand duke's wife, a younger sister of Count John Lynar's wife, is a perfectly sincere, natural, simple hausfrau, who is never happier than when marketing or talking over the menu with her cook.

Everything possible was done for him, but he died about 6:30 Monday morning. His name is Henry Brantzen and he was 20 years of age. His mother, a widow, residing at Malad, is very sick and in a critical condition.

RELIEF SOCIETY CELEBRATES.

The Relief society of the Latter-day Saints' Church of Boise, under the direction of its presidency, Mesdames Mary Smith, Beside Hale and Emma Moss, celebrated the sixty-sixth anniversary of the organization of this Church institution, on last Tuesday evening. The chapel, where the social was held, was crowded with members of the society and their kindred and friends, and a very interesting and appropriate program was rendered, which was followed by a sumptuous luncheon. The relief work of this society among the distressed and needy in this city is very commendable.

ELBA FARMERS ARE PREPARING FOR SPRING

Special Correspondence.

ELBA, Idaho, March 18.—Spring weather is here and farmers are preparing to put in their crops.

The ladies of the Relief society gave their annual day entertainment last week. After the program a fine dinner was served in the hall. A Jean year ball was given in the evening, a prize was given to James Larson for being the oldest person present and to Mr. and Mrs. John Osterholm for being the oldest couple present.

The baby girl of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Ward has been seriously ill with pneumonia, but is improving.

Mrs. Joseph Udy is seriously ill with pneumonia.

A grand ball will be given this evening for the benefit of departing missionaries.

Arthur Willard, the school teacher in district No. 5, is expecting his mother in a few days from Portland, Oregon.

PASSING OF ONE OF SAMARIA'S PIONEERS

Special Correspondence.

SAMARIA, Ida., March 16.—The measles broke out here and only one death resulted. The 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Powell being the victim. There has been but little snow and the weather has been very pleasant. The farmers will be busy plowing before the close of this week.

A young man who was here on a visit from Malad city died very suddenly this morning Sunday afternoon. He went fishing, but on account of not feeling well he returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Parry Warren, where everything possible was done for him, but he died about 6:30 Monday morning.

John E. Price, a pioneer of this place, died here Friday, March 13. The funeral services were held in the Samaria assembly hall Monday, March 16, at 1 o'clock. Counselor Evan Jenkins presiding. The speakers were Bishop L. D. Jones, Pleasantview; Elders John Jones of Arbon, David Jenkins of this place, C. R. Thomas of Pleasantview, and Counselor Evan Jenkins. All the speakers spoke in the highest terms of the deceased.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

John E. Price was the son of John Evans Price and Ruth Price. He was born in Llanfagan, Brecknockshire, South Wales, Jan. 18, 1852. When eight years of age he was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He with his father's family settled at Brigham. The next fall the family removed to Malad city. Mr. Price's father and his brother, now Bishop D. E. Price, settled in Samaria, Idaho, in 1885. The rest of the family followed in March the same year. There were but two white settlers here when John E. Price came to make his home, and he has resided here ever since. He was married to Miss Emma Morse. He leaves a wife, five sons, five daughters, one brother, four sisters and a great number of relatives and friends. Deceased was a pioneer in very deed, a loving husband, a devoted father, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor.

YOUNG FELLOW'S UNUSUAL ACTION

Threatened Highly Respected Married Woman With Death Unless She Eloped.

HER CLOTHES IN HIS TRUNK

She Told Her Husband, Warrant Was Issued and Reese Promptly Disappeared—Search is On.

Special Correspondence.

CAREY, Ida., March 18.—A warrant was sworn out yesterday morning in Justice G. A. Condie's court for the arrest of a young man named Reese, on the charge of threatening to kill the wife of one of our respected citizens, if she did not consent to pack up her clothes and run off with him to some appointed place.

Her clothing and his were packed in grips and delivered to the mail carrier to take over to the station and the young fellow left here Monday evening. The young wife was so frightened at the threats of Reese that she feared to tell her husband, but as soon as the young man was off she informed her husband of the scheme and the issuing of the warrant was the result. Officers have been searching for young Reese but so far no clew has been found of his whereabouts.

The Relief society of the ward held a very pleasant annual reunion in the meetinghouse yesterday.

There is a call for a meeting of the farmers of this place next Saturday to consider the feasibility and benefits of uniting to construct a grist mill on the Silver creek, two miles below Poca.

Less than a week ago there was a blocking horse yesterday and his army. Quite a strong chinook-like wind set in, and in about three days not only the valley was bare of snow, but the foot hills were swept clean.

Unlike other springs at this season, the canals and ditches are free from snow and ice, and but very little water is running in them. The last two days the weather changed and has been cold enough to freeze water.

A great deal of sickness still prevails in the valley, owing to the changeable weather. Last Saturday night Dr. Kleininger was summoned to attend to a child of Mr. D. J. Evans. One child, 10 years old, is down with pneumonia, and another is just recovering from a severe sickness.

Freddie Almsworth was thrown from a blocking horse yesterday and his arm dislocated at the elbow. Some young men pulled the twisted arm back to its place, but it pained so this morning he was considered best to take him to Halley today to have the wound examined.

C. Wilson and George Storey of Halley have been in the settlement having among the farmers to get them to agree to furnish cream for the Halley creamery.

T. R. Gooding is having a large flume constructed over the deep river wash to carry his ranch. This is for the purpose of carrying water from the canal to the lands on the east side of the river channel.