

WILL APPEAL TO GOVERNOR.

Attorneys for Tom Horn, the Condemned Murderer, to Pursue This Course.

WILL CONSIST OF MANY WORDS

Have Concluded that No Relief is Forthcoming from Further Procedure in the Courts.

(Special to the "News.")

Cheyenne, Wyo., Oct. 29.—The attorneys for Tom Horn, the condemned murderer of Willie Nickel, who is under sentence to be hanged on Nov. 20, have given up the courts and will make no further attempt in that direction to free their client. Under the law Horn could submit to the district court any evidence he may have secured tending to prove another guilty of the crime charged against him and ask for a new trial. On the strength of having new evidence he could also file a motion in the state supreme court within 30 days, after being sentenced therein, for a rehearing of his petition for a new trial, but Horn and his attorneys will pursue another course and one that gives promise of more satisfactory results.

Gov. Chatterton will be the target for one of the strongest and most brilliant appeals ever made for the life of a man sentenced to die. This appeal will be conducted by Judge J. W. Lacey and U. S. Dist. Atty. F. P. Burke, chief attorneys for Horn, and two of the most brilliant legal lights in the state. The appeal will be in writing and will consist of about 50,000 words, but the attorneys will probably make a supplemental oral argument. The greatest pressure ever brought will be brought to bear on Wyoming's young governor and for several days he will probably be in a most unenviable position. He is a lawyer of long experience, is honest, fair and just and the people and Horn and his attorneys are confident he will do his plain duty. If the evidence that is to be submitted is convincing, and Horn's attorneys say it is, then the governor will be compelled to commute Horn's sentence to imprisonment pending developments. But if this new evidence has not sufficient weight then Gov. Chatterton will refuse to intercede in Horn's behalf. It is now a battle for executive clemency and the outcome will be awaited with breathless eagerness by the people of Wyoming and throughout the west, who have followed the case.

TWO COWS STOLEN.

The cow thief is abroad in the land. Last night he swooped down on the premises of S. A. Kenner and Alfred Bell, on Fifth East between Sixth and Seventh South streets, and made off with two fine specimens, one a Jersey belonging to Mr. Kenner, and the other a Holstein belonging to Mr. Bell. The matter has been reported to the police.

IN CONFERENCE.

Congregational Association of Utah Begins its Annual Session Today.

The Congregational Association of Utah began its annual meeting this morning at the First Congregational church of this city, with these delegates: Salt Lake, Rev. E. L. Goheen, Mrs. A. J. Gorman, E. D. Merrill, First church; Rev. P. A. Simpkins, Mrs. James Wake, Hyrum Combes, Phillips church; Ogden, Rev. E. L. Goheen, J. H. Corse, Ralph P. Hunter, Provo, Rev. S. H. Goodwin, Miss H. M. Ford, W. L. Brickley, Robinson, Rev. L. Thomson, Lehi, Mr. Adams, Mrs. Cherry, Mrs. W. F. Harley, Sandy, T. H. Gilbert, Julius Heuser, Miss Mamie Michelson, Mrs. Zenia Mallin. Additional delegates were expected this afternoon.

Rev. E. L. Goheen was chosen moderator, and T. H. Gilbert scribbled. Registrar Simpkins reported during the past year, a gain of 20 per cent in church membership and a 10 per cent gain in benevolence. The churches of the association had raised and expended $14,000 in home administration, there are 14,000 children in the Sunday schools. Two new churches have been organized—one at Sandy of 22 members, and one at Vernal of 30 members, and there has been a gratifying gain in every department. The outlook for the coming year is considered very promising. The following committee on nominations was chosen, Rev. P. A. Simpkins, Rev. S. H. Goodwin, Rev. Dr. J. D. Kingsbury. Dr. Kingsbury delivered the annual address. He spoke in a most encouraging vein of the progress of the intermountain mission work, and held that the men who were engaged in this work were worthy of the highest praise for their self-sacrificing devotion. But he said there was a constant need of sterling workers in the mining camps and at the railroad terminal towns where the power of the whiskey bottle, the gambler and the bad woman is so constant and so marked. One woman told Dr. Kingsbury that she had been forced to send her son to Iowa to get him away from temptations.

Rev. W. Rose, a missionary, was present to read a paper on "Opportunities of Our Home Mission Field," but it was so late that the paper went over until another session. The program for the afternoon is being carried out as advertised with a good attendance, and the conference continues through tomorrow evening.

EIGHT DIPHTHERIA CASES.

Family in East Waterloo Afflicted With The Dread Disease.

Eight members of the family of John Davies of Waterloo are afflicted with diphtheria, and one of the children, a babe 1 year old, died yesterday of the disease before the arrival of Asst. County Physician Odell. The only ones in the house who have thus far escaped infection are the father and nurse. The mother and seven children were taken down with the disease. The family lives on Fifth East street near Eleventh South, just outside the city limits.

The Waterloo school, which several of the Davies children attended, was closed yesterday afternoon for fumigation so as to prevent the spread of the disease among the pupils. The afflicted family was given prompt attention and it is not likely that the disease will spread further.

"BEN" HARMAN AT REST.

Friends Assemble and Pay a High Tribute to His Name and Memory.

The Mill Creek ward meetinghouse was the scene yesterday afternoon of a large gathering, the relatives and friends of the late B. M. Harman, having assembled in goodly numbers to pay a tribute to respect to his memory and to eulogize his name and character. The services opened at 12 o'clock, and were presided over by Bishop James C. Hamilton. Three appropriate numbers were rendered by a select quartet and remarks in high praise of the deceased as a man and as a Latter-day Saint, were made by Bishop Hamilton and Elders George Taylor, John H. White, D. L. Davis, Bishop George R. Emery, Bishop McRae of Granger and W. H. Hill, counselor to Bishop Hamilton. There was a profusion of beautiful flowers and the remains were interred in the Salt Lake City cemetery, whither a large concourse of friends wended their way in carriages after the services. Mr. Harman was an old resident of this section and a brother of Robert Harman. He died at the age of 69 years.

He was a good friend to the Elders and will be sorely missed by a host of acquaintances.

So far the judges selected by both parties in only six districts throughout the city have qualified. Those districts in which all the judges have qualified are: Nos. 2, 7, 10, 30, 35 and 52. The Democratic judges have qualified only in a very few districts. The districts in which the Republican judges have failed to qualify are: Nos. 11, 19, 33, 41, 45 and 48. All judges who intend to serve should at once notify City Recorder Nystrom and appear before him and qualify without delay.

The performance of Miss Gray and Miss Allen established their reputation as artists more firmly than ever. Miss Gray's grasp of piano technique was displayed with an emphasis that was especially gratifying to her friends, and the appreciative reception accorded her must have been gratifying to the lady herself. Her treatment of the Beethoven sonata (the ever favorite "Moonlight" sonata) was one of studied interpretation in the light of the peculiar and forceful phases of thought possessing the great composer at the time he wrote it. The work is full of meaning, and constant study of it richly rewards the student, particularly in the study of music as an outward expression of mental conditions. In the Schubert Theme and Variations, Miss Gray's facile powers of execution of rapid and intricate movements was even more clearly developed; but it was not until the Grieg number, the Violin and Piano sonata, that the artist's ability was fully brought out, and her masterful handling of the piano part of the duo easily made her the object of well deserved applause. It was the remark of Miss Gray's friends in the audience that she had improved wonderfully within the last year.

Miss Allen is a fine performer on the violin. Her work is clear and clean cut. Her attack is prompt and accurate and she brings a beautiful, ringing tone out of her instrument pleasing to the educated ear. There was not the suggestion of a slip in her work last evening, and the fact that she played almost entirely from memory shows her to be a faithful student. Miss Allen is a conscientious artist, wholly wrapped up in her art, and when she plays it is easy to see that her soul is in her playing. It is this entire absorption of self in one's work that marks the true artist and gives the best hopes for long and successful achievement. Miss Allen's performance of the Perpetuum Mobile number was a pleasing exhibition of her powers of execution. The technical skill and facility of execution in sixteenth notes, and is a great tax on the endurance and demands powers of continued application. The performer held her own all through, and made an excellent impression. Miss Allen's part in the great Grieg number was an agreeable astonishment to her friends, as she showed remarkable technical skill and facility of execution. The piano has the lion's share of the work, but the violin part was handled with an ease and intelligence that was highly creditable. However, it might have been well had the pianist modified the doubled forte, as the violin was smothered in some of them. It requires a heavy violin and an unusually powerful application of the bow to make the violin end of the duo hold up against the piano. Miss Allen makes a fine personal appearance on the stage. Miss Monahan acquitted herself very charmingly last evening, and was given a pleasant reception from her many friends. Miss Judith Evans made a very acceptable accompanist, as she always does. Handsome bouquets were in profusion.

ABOUT HELD'S BAND.

The Tribune Says:

HELD HOLDS THE CROWD. Sunday Evening Entertainment at the Grand Delight Music Lovers. There were many standing on the lower floor of the Grand theater last night, so great was the audience of music lovers who turned out to listen to the regular Sunday evening concert of Held's Military band. And the large assemblage was by no means disappointed in any part of the attractive programme. The band seemed to catch inspiration from the sympathetic crowd and its music had even more than the usual go and dash. Mrs. Nellie Penrose Whitney was also particularly happy in her rendition of "The Image and the Rose," and was compelled to respond to an enthusiastic encore, while Walter Simms, the clarinet soloist was likewise at his best.

The Herald Says:

Another full house greeted Held's band at the Grand theater last night, and an excellent programme was rendered. The band led off with the special favorite, "Stars and Stripes Forever," and from the opening number till the close each one was roundly applauded. Mrs. Nellie Penrose Whitney was the vocalist and she delighted the audience with a dainty little ballad by Conz, "The Image and the Rose." She was recalled and responded with another pleasing selection to which her voice was equally well adapted. Both the numbers showed cultivation and a good quality of voice. The finest number played by the band was undoubtedly the "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 11," by Liszt. It was well calculated to test the skill of a leader and Mr. Held stood the test admirably. The summer favorite which made such a hit at the Salt Palace, "The Darktown Gal," was well rendered also, and the clarinet solo by Mr. Simms, the beautiful "Polonaise from Mignon" was an especially commendable number.

The Telegram Says:

ANOTHER DECIDED SUCCESS was added to Conductor Held's long list last night, when the band under his direction rendered the following programme to a crowded house at the Grand.

"Stars and Stripes Forever" Sousa Ballet Music from "Faust" Bizet Caprices (a) Frox Pudding Haines (b) Cotton Blossoms O'Hara Clarinet solo, Polonaise from "Mignon" A. Thomas Soprano solo, "The Image and the Rose" Conz Mrs. Nellie Penrose Whitney, Grand selection, "Foggy from Paris" Lorraine Caprice, "Darktown Gal" Johnson Hungarian Rhapsody No. 11 Liszt "The Sleighride" (descriptive) Puerner

The soprano solo of Mrs. Nellie Penrose Whitney was well received and encored. The rendition of the Hungarian Rhapsody No. 11, by the band, brought a storm of applause from the audience.
