

DESERET EVENING NEWS.

TRUTH AND LIBERTY.

SALT LAKE CITY, TUESDAY EVENING, JULY 7, 1893.

No. 193

BREVITIES.

To keep out of debt; gain the reputation of never paying, then no one will give you credit.

Ever said to be the only woman who never threatened to go and live with her mother. What a happy man Adam must have been.

There are two ways of getting rich, one by adding to our possessions, the other by diminishing our desires; the latter is much the easier and readier.

Libraries are as the shrines where all the relics of the ancient saints, full of true virtue, and that without delusion or impurity, are preserved and reposed.

Susan Anthony says woman is advancing rapidly. The Boston Post says all accounts agree that she outstrips her mother.

As the luminaries of heaven reflect from one to another their light and heat, even so it is that one human heart must reflect upon the other the genial glow of happiness and joy.

The Bishop of Montreal, in a recent pastoral letter, remonstrates against extravagance in dress, which is spreading more and more, and threatens the ruin of many families.

The word D-E-B-T is composed of the initials of "Daddy Every Body Twice." C-R-E-D-I-T is formed of the initial letters of "Call Regularly every day—I'll trust."

A witty Democrat says the eleventh article was taken up first on Scriptural grounds, as the impeachers hoped that a little heaven would leave the whole lump.

A married gentleman, present at a magnetizing circle, being informed that the power depended wholly on the will, begged that his wife might try it, as he had never seen anything resist her will.

Mlle. Anna Vogt is playing fantasia on "Robert le Diable" at Paris, on the instrument called mattaphone; it is made of glass, and the sound is produced by its being turned round and rubbed with wet fingers.

If you want to keep poor, buy two glasses of ale every day at ten cents each, amounting in the year to $73; smoke three cigars, one after each meal, counting up in the course of the year to as much more, and keep a big dog.

Sentimental young ladies now use chloroform when the marriage ceremony is being performed. A white handkerchief saturated with chloroform, and applied to the mouth, slides the "dear covey" into the blissful state! Oh! delicious!

"Come here, sissey," said a young gentleman to a little girl, to whose sister he was paying his addresses, "you are the sweetest thing on earth." "No I ain't," she replied. "Sister says you are the sweetest." The gentleman popped the question next day.

An American gentleman, on a visit to Paris, writes: "The first night at my hotel I wanted hot water, and the maid could not understand my French, until, in humorous despair, I exclaimed: Oh, pshaw! when she at once laughed, and said: 'Eau chaude, monsieur.' 'Oui, Oui,' I replied, and in a minute had my hot water."

Now that the summer has come, a suggestion about the habit of inordinate drinking of water may prove beneficial to some. If a person desires to break up the inconvenient and dangerous practice of drinking too much, he has only to distinguish between mere parching of the mouth and genuine thirst. A swallow or two held in the mouth will cool it, and a moderate amount of water will satisfy the thirst.

An anti-baconist in addressing a company of sailors, warned them against chewing and smoking, and declared that every kind of pipe was bad, however moderately indulged in. "A vast there!" exclaimed an old salt, "I know a pipe that never hurt nobody."

"What is it?" blandly asked the lecturer. "A hornpipe!" yelled the old tar, and the lecturer was extinguished in a flood of laughter.

When the Crusaders under King Richard, of England, defeated the Saracens, the Sultan, seeing his troops fly, asked what was the number of the Christians who were making all this slaughter. He was told that it was only King Richard and his men, and that they were all alike. "Then," said the Sultan, "Heaven forbid that such a noble fellow should march on foot!"

and sent him a splendid charger. The messenger took it, and said: "Sire, the Sultan sends you this, in order that you may not be on foot." The King was cunning as his enemy, and ordered one of his squires to mount the horse, in order to try him. The squire did so; but the animal was fiery, and he could not hold him; he set off at full speed for the Sultan's pavilion. The Sultan expected he had got King Richard, and was not a little mortified to discover his mistake.

Napoleon and Josephine were dining alone, when the Emperor informed her of his resolution to put her away. Josephine, of course, fainted—a female maneuver which alarmed his Majesty, who immediately summoned assistance in the shape of Chamberlain de Baumeset. As the Empress continued inanimate, Napoleon, wishing to avoid a scene in the palace, asked M. de Baumeset if he were strong enough to carry the Empress into her apartments by a back staircase. The Chamberlain replied in the affirmative, and took the Empress in his arms; the Emperor went first, descending backward and holding Josephine's feet. When half way down M. de Baumeset's sword got between his legs, and he clutched his precious burden tighter while recovering himself. Great was his surprise when the Empress whispered: "Take care, sir; you are squeezing me too tight."
