The Daughters of the Pioneers held its second meeting at the residence of Mrs. Annie Hyde on Monday. The constitution was presented and an informal discussion followed.

The Parliamentary club held its last regular session on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. William Tod Helmuth, regent of the West Point Chapter, D. A. R., New York city, sails for Europe next week for a brief absence. While in England Mrs. Helmuth will investigate carefully the means by which flags are preserved. Many of the historic flags in St. George's chapel would long ago have yielded to the ravages of time except for preventive care. A network of fine wire is used by experts, and Mrs. Helmut proposes to get all necessary information, with a view to applying the method to the valuable flags now treasured at West Point, the protection of which is the first work of this chapter. A fact not generally known is that at West Point are the one or two English battle-flags which are in this country. Most of the flags captured by Americans were returned, those at West Point, and possibly one or two at Annapolis, being the only ones still held here.

The Massachusetts State Society of the United States Daughters of 1812 are making preparations for an elaborate fair to be held in Boston next autumn during the week beginning October 21. It is desired to raise a considerable fund, which will be used to restore "Old Ironsides."

Another group of women that will study science this summer is a class formed in the Woman's Club of New Bedford, Mass., to be led by one of the graduates of the public school. The plan is for field work, and will include a study of plants, ferns, flowers, birds, and certain geological features, and the recognition of trees by their buds, blossoms, and leaves. This club is both progressive and practical, and its influence in the community is appreciable. Recently a communication was addressed to it drawn up by a committee of merchants appointed at a meeting of the business men of the city, setting forth the desirability of club members doing their shopping in their own city.

The new club-house which the Professional Woman's League of New York is planning is a class formed in the Woman's Club of New Bedford, Mass., to be led by one of the graduates of the public school. Clubwomen, as well as many other citizens of Michigan, are interested in a bill which Miss E. J. Rose, a well-known club-woman, has had introduced in the legislature of that state. This asks for an appropriation of $200,000 to establish a sanitarium for nervous diseases, the object being to provide a resting-place for those who from overwork or other causes are threatened with insanity. It is to be hoped that the strenuous activity among clubwomen has not suggested the need of such a place.

At a recent meeting, the South Side Club of Chicago put itself on record again in formal resolutions against reorganization of the General Federation of Women's clubs. It still believes that the individual club should stand upon its rights of membership in the General Federation, and inasmuch as steps are

EDUCATIONAL.

LATTER-DAY SAINTS' COLLEGE. Salt Lake City—F. W. Otterstrom has taken a position as stenographer to Mr. Geo. T. Odell.

Preparations are making for commencement exercises. The faculty has appointed Mr. Walter H. Durrant to deliver the valedictory.

Professor Mills, who went to Provo with the college on Saturday last, remained there over Sunday, and accepted an invitation to speak in the tabernacle in the afternoon.

At the reception of Apostles Lyman and Grant on Monday evening, six college girls assisted in the arrangements, planning bouquets for the guests as they entered the building. A very artistic piece of pen work greeted the guests upon their entrance.

Word was received here this week to the effect that Student John Carlson, who was taken seriously ill some time since, is rapidly recovering and will be with us soon again. This news is particularly gratifying, because his case was at one time thought to be hopeless.

The excursion to Provo was a successful affair from every point of view. Over four hundred people, of whom nearly two hundred were college students, left the city. Pleasant outbursts of feeling in singing college songs and yelling college yells sufficiently indicated the character of the excursion to people at the wayside stations. The academy students treated their guests in a way that the latter being taken for obtaining a national charter for the General Federation, this club does not perceive how a change in its object or constituency can be secured, or even sensibly advocated, before the next annual meeting. The action was taken in considering the recent resolutions of the Massachusetts State Federation, which were presented to the general board at its last meeting, recommending the reorganization of the national body. A copy of the South Side Club's resolutions has been forwarded to the Massachusetts State Federation.

Yellow Shades for Windows.

There is nothing like soft yellow in a window. It always suggests sunlight even on the gloomiest day. A celebrated wit making a tour of a lady's apartment and coming upon a bath room in which there was a window with yellow panes, said: "I see you bathe in sunshine as dark bed rooms, therefore, or in those opening shafts, or in windows only a few feet away from an opposite wall, yellow is strongly urged. When this cannot be done with drapery, or when windows with leaded panes of yellow glass are of possible resort may be had to varnish, sanded with a little raw sienna or the Venetian pink which gives a yellow. I know one window coming against a house some twelve feet away, which when so treated, gave perfect privacy to the occupant of the room, besides adding an agreeable light. Even at night the window was opaque."

Pretty Neck Fixings.

The linen collar still obtains. A very pretty starched collar of pleated material with a narrow white tie with an embroidered edge. These narrow ties are to be found with many of the stocks, perhaps an inch and a half in width and with long ends, after a trim little bow has been tied hanging straight for three or four inches.

In the way of matching goods with neckwear when there is to be a stiff collar and tie, the ties and turned-over points at the top can be of the same material as the gown, or of some thin cotton goods with a small figure not too pronounced. They will thus give a bit of color with almost any kind of a wash waist.

A Chair with a History.

The coronation chair in which the monarchs of Great Britain sit to be crowned has a wonderful history. Its appearance is common enough—it being to the outward eye just a simply made old oak chair, and nothing else; but its value lies in the fact that for more than 700 years the sovereigns of England have occupied it at their coronations. It is black with age and almost as hard as iron.

Strange as the history of this quaint old chair may be, that of the stone which forms the seat is even more remarkable. This is a piece of rough sandstone, and is believed by many to be the identical stone upon which the patriarch Jacob rested his head during his famous dream. One might be loth to believe this; but the fact that the stone was the coronation seat of the early kings and queens of Scotland before it was adopted for the use of the English Tudors and Stuarts is an indisputable fact.

will gratefully remember. The outcome of the athletic sports was that the college won the baseball and basketball, and one high jump; the academy got the rest. The ball in the evening was a very pleasant one. We thank our Provo friends for the day's enjoyment was mutual.

Among the new teachers engaged for the ensuing school year, many of the college will be pleased to learn that Osborne Whitsoe, B. S., has been secured as professor of physics and chemistry. This change will permit Prof. R. V. Chamberlin to devote his entire time to his favorite line, biology, and will greatly improve the quality of instruction in both the natural and the physical sciences. Prof. Whitsoe is at present working in the business of chemical analysis in the Utah experiment station at Logan.

A new form of letter head has been issued for the business college and is now in use by that department. It is a piece of elegant and effective work, the artistic creation of the professor of the amount of information of the trustees, president, and principal, the branches of instruction, the rates of tuition, the name and location of the college, and the departmental work. "Think and Work," all being artistically and compactly grouped in a striking and unique design, which is beautiful in simplicity. The letter head is printed on the finest quality of paper, in the college colors, and is a happy combination of art and business advertising.

On Wednesday morning, at the invitation of President Paul, we were favored with the presence of Hon. Heber J. Grant as speaker, and of Mrs. Lizzie Thomas-Edwards and Messrs. Geo. E. Skelton and Alvin Beesley, who furnished the music. Apostle Grant, who is one of the trustees of the institution, took for his theme the triumphs of perseverance and the achievements of work. For one hour the speaker delighted his audience with apt illustrations taken from his own personal experience and observation, proving that the main element of success in any calling is the determination to succeed. His experiences as a baseball player, and bookkeeper were the happiest cases in point, being full of real humorous and good instruction. Quoting from Samuel Smiles the speaker said that resolves are like eggs, unless they are hatched into life and action, they rapidly run to decay. In advising the young men to make resolves and to aim high, this quotation was given from Bulwer Lytton: "Dream, O youth! dream nobly and beautifully; and thy dreams shall be thy prophets." Mrs. Edwards captivated every one present with a very choice solo, "Tell Me, My Heart," This was followed by "Happy Days," with violin obligato by Prof. Skelton, and then "The Kiss Waltz," and the audience being still unsatisfied, "The Last Rose of Summer" was sung only Mrs. Edwards can sing this old-time favorite. Prof. Skelton gave a violin solo, and Prof. Stephens led in the singing of the college song.

Work on the second of the series of the college buildings will begin at once. Barrett Hall will be located in the angle just south of the business college building, and will be ready for occupancy before the opening of the fall term. It is to be nearly square in shape, in size about 70 feet each way, and will consist of two stories, a gallery, a stage, etc. This building will be used as the general assembly hall, the reading and study rooms, and for other purposes. The main room is to seat about 500 people and the building will, without doubt, be a model of convenience, strength, and beauty.

On Friday morning we were favored with the presence of Prof. C. D. Schettler, who rendered two very fine selections on the guitar, and Miss Arvilla Clark, who delighted us with her exquisite rendition of "The Cello Song" and of another equally beautiful piece. The college assembly hall is a good place to sing in, and the musicians uniformly make decided hits when they sing here. We have had a rare treat in musical lines this week.

BRIGHAM YOUNG ACADEMY. Provo City, April 24—Parents' class will be held in College hall this evening. Dr. Brimhall will give the address.

W. E. Rydahl will lecture before the Polytechnic society Friday next. His subject will be "College Life in the East." The lecture will be of much interest to the students.

The laboratory of natural science is now the possessor of a new cabinet of rare shells.

Another contest is forthcoming. English has challenged the school for a contest in oral stories. A departure from the regular contests in this line will be the fact that the stories will be read, not told, and more attention will be given to composition and not so much to delivery.

Flowers seem to possess great interest for botany students. Classification is now at its height and room A is the scene of a busy effort, though the results may not be flattering. The botany students are not alone in this work, for the geology class is busy classifying minerals. Classification is not the easiest thing in the world and the students are finding it out.

The students have recovered from the efforts of their athletic victory and are working with might and energy to complete the work before them. They have learned that they must "work while they work and play while they play." Last Saturday was playing day, now work day has come again.

Our lady missionary class is now beginning to show that its work is as practicable as the young men's class. Last Sunday evening the domestic meeting was addressed by six young ladies. Everybody seemed to thoroughly enjoy the meeting and some of the young men have been heard to say that the girls can surpass the boys in the pulpit.

Again the students are to hear from Miss Katherine E. Oliver, the great elocutionist who has attained international reputation as an interpreter of character, and is hailed everywhere with enthusiasm. She will give a recital next Saturday night, and will impersonate the characters in "That Lass o' Lowrie's." Miss Oliver's rendition of the "Little Minister," in the academy two years ago has not been forgotten, and she will receive a warm welcome here.

A new course of study has been added to the regular curriculum of school work. It is a physical culture. While the students have had some exercise, the faculty thinks it wise to extend physical enjoyments, and therefore the course has been offered. Every Saturday afternoon room B will be cleared and the exercises whatever they may be, will be given as a sort of matinee. Any student may elect the course, the tuition being 10 cents for each afternoon. The orchestra will be present, and the work will be under the direction of Profs. Hickman and Swenson.

Summer school circulars are out. Thorough courses will be given in normal training work, drawing, English, mathematics, physics and natural sciences. Practical teaching will be done with pupils furnished by Provo. Twelve well equipped class rooms in college building will be occupied two hours each day. Credits will begin for proficient work in this line. Special lecture courses will be given by Dr. John Dewey, President Brimhall, Prof. J. E. Hickman, Prof. N. L. Nelson, Prof. E. S. Hinckley, Mrs. Lillian H. Cannon, Judge J. E. Booth and Prof. L. E. Egertsen. The school will begin on June 3, and end on July 5.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

Legan—President Kerr has been in Salt Lake City during most of the week getting matters ready for the annual meeting of the trustees.

Word has come from Charles A. Jensen, '96, that his work for the government at North Yakima, Washington, is agreeable, and that he is very comfortably situated. The state of Washington offers a much more agreeable climate for summer work than the city of Washington.

The board of trustees met Saturday, 27th, to arrange the work of the coming year. The faculty will be appointed, plans for new buildings discussed and perhaps adopted, and the general policy of the year's work determined.

Miss Mouch expects to request of the trustees a four-months' leave of absence from about May 20, to visit a brother in Germany. She will return in time for the opening of the fall term.

Professors Faris and Engle, with their families, are contemplating a visit to their relatives in Indiana during the summer vacation.

The seniors having expressed their preference to hear an oration by some gentleman of reputation, rather than to appear themselves on the commencement platform, a committee has been appointed to secure a suitable speaker.

The experimental planting has been completed on the farm, and is practically finished in the gardens. The horticultural department is now busy transplanting trees about the farm and on the campus.

The college glee club made its first appearance in chapel Tuesday morning, singing at the opening exercises the familiar male serenade, "My Lady Sleeps," and they sang it pretty well, too.
