SUNDAY SCHOOL CONFERENCE.

George Gray to Face Serious Charge—Two Saloon Shooting Affrays—Young Missionaries Called.

It is with profound regret and sorrow that the demise of Christopher Ingebreten, the well known contractor and builder, is made known. Last Monday morning he was knocked down by his bicycle by a runaway horse on the corner of Washington avenue and Twenty-fourth street, receiving a serious fracture of the base of the skull. He was taken home, and given every attention that loving hands and medical skill could afford, but the injury was too serious for him to recover. His physicians and family had hopes of his recovery until Saturday morning when he took a change for the worse, and died at 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon at 215 o'clock.

The deceased was one of Ogden's prominent and best loved citizens. He was a man of noble character, honest, God fearing and exemplary in all of his walk in life. He was progressive in business, and honest in all of his dealings. He was a young man when he joined the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and emigrated to Utah in 1882, and was active in his religious convictions to the last. When he first arrived in Ogden he worked for D. L. Jones, the lumber merchant, and later for J. H. Schermer, a contractor. He was a young man with a strong business ability and energy soon brought him to the front ranks in building and for over 15 years he has been following the contracting and building business for himself with great success. The Peery mansion, City Hall and other large buildings were built under his contract. He leaves a devoted wife, eight children, and a host of friends to cherish his memory. The time of funeral will be announced later.

The case was thoroughly investigated Saturday by County Attorney Hulaniski and Officer Robert Burke and they decided that he must answer to the charge. A number of his friends called at the police station to see him and begged him to be released, but he refused to be released and proposed to prosecute him. He was also placed under bonds to keep the peace should he be able to secure bonds when he is arraigned on the charge.
