Local and Other Matters.

THERMOMETER 80 degrees F. in the shade at 1 p.m. to-day. Cloudy, threatening.

Sericulture.—There will be a meeting of the Deseret Silk Association held at the Firemen's Hall to-morrow, Tuesday, August 1st, at 3 p.m. A full attendance is requested, as there is business of importance to attend to.

MRS. ZINA D. YOUNG, President.
R. SIMPSON, Secretary.

Lecture.—Mrs. Duniway, of Portland, Oregon, will address the citizens of Salt Lake City to-morrow evening, at the U. S. Court room, upon the resources of the northwest and the practicability of the easy construction of the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad. This is a subject of interest to all our citizens.

Lost.—On Thursday, July 20th, on the Utah Southern Railroad, out of the emigrant car, supposed to be taken by mistake, a white linen sack, containing nearly all the clothing of Julia Appelqvist, the name marked in blue writing thereon. Any information concerning said sack will be thankfully received by Bishop J. B. Maiben, Manti, Sanpete county.

Glenwood.—Bro. Isaac W. Pierce writes from Glenwood, Sevier Co., July 25th, as follows—

"The 24th has passed off in peace and quiet. We are in prospect of reaping a bountiful crop of grain. About half of the people are organized in the United Order and have been successfully operating for the past two years. The prospects for the future are good and those who are in the order generally feel satisfied and contented. Dr. R. M. Rogers, of Provo, amputated a leg for Isaac E. Herring on the 20th inst., for necrosis of the bone; the patient is doing extremely well; also on the 21st inst. the Doctor performed an operation on Peter Thompson, for hare lip; patient also doing well."

Tabernacle Meeting.—Yesterday afternoon the congregation in the Tabernacle was addressed by Elder William C. Staines, who spoke of his labors at New York as Church emigration agent. He took pleasure in discharging the duties of that or any other position he might be called upon to fill in connection with the work of the Lord, and was pleased to be able to state that the operations in emigration matters had been very successful, thus far, the present season. He contrasted the condition of the Saints in the early settlement of the Territory, when they held Conference perhaps under the shadow of a hay stack, with the circumstances that surrounded them now, when they were by the blessing of a beneficent God, provided with facilities and comforts on every hand. The Saints had prospered and the work had grown, despite the many efforts that had been made for their overthrow. He would ask what success had the enemies of the Church of Christ had in their attempts to destroy it? None whatever, and the same God that had protected His people hitherto would continue to do so in the future; therefore he felt to say to the Saints, "fear not."

The speaker related a conversation he had with a gentleman in the East, relative to the faith of the Saints. In answer to some remarks made by the person alluded to about the "Mormons" being controlled by one man, he stated that he worshipped no man, that he had received a revelation and knowledge of the work of the Lord for himself, and was made the recipient of this blessing before he had ever seen the President of the Church. He received it by believing in Jesus Christ, his atonement, as the Redeemer of the world, by repenting of his sins, being baptized by immersion in water, for the remission of them, by a person holding the authority of the Holy Priesthood, and receiving, by the ordinance of the laying on of hands, the Holy Ghost, and this promise of a definite knowledge was held out to all who were obedient to the true doctrine of the Saviour.

The spirit thus received, inspired the members of the Church of Christ to gather together, as the Saints were assembled in the valleys of the Rocky Mountains. The Saints believed in present and continuous revelation for their guidance, which, with the testimony they received through obedience, was the secret of the unanimity of their movements. The speaker alluded to the distress occasioned in New York and other portions of the States by the excessively hot weather, the atmosphere being comparatively cool here, although considerably heated; also to the financial stagnation and consequent poverty and suffering there, thousands upon thousands of people being without employment and therefore without food. Some thought the times were a little hard here at present, but, comparatively speaking, such knew nothing about distressing times.

Elder Staines, in his visits to the east, found many liberal minded people, who strongly deprecated the acts of the enemies of the saints, who sought every available opportunity to harass, annoy and persecute them, and held that this community should be let alone in the full enjoyment of their religious, social and political rights.

He stated that it was expected that the next company of emigrating Saints would leave Liverpool on or about the 13th of September next, and he would leave this city for New York toward the close of August, and in the meantime he would give parties desirous of obtaining it any information he could, relative to emigration matters. He also announced that the fare from New York to Ogden would be $51. He deprecated the action of some parties forwarding money to New York to aid their friends sending from one to five dollars short of the requisite amount, which placed himself, as well as the agent, in a very disagreeable predicament. Persons forwarding money to pay the railroad fare of their friends should go beyond instead of inside the bare sum for that purpose, that there might be a little to spare to sustain them while journeying. Some who had promised to send aid to their friends had even failed altogether to do so, causing the most intense disappointment to those expecting the relief.

Elder Staines concluded by exhorting the Saints to live up to the line of their duties, that the blessings of the Lord might be copiously showered upon them.

He was followed by

who delivered a highly instructive discourse upon the nature and power of the gospel and the organization and order of the Church of Jesus Christ, which was reported.

Young vs. Young.—On the 28th inst., at two p. m., the time previously set by His Honor, Judge Schaeffer, for the defendant in the above entitled case, to appear and show cause, if any he had, why execution should not issue for the satisfaction of the plaintiff's (Ann Eliza Young) alimony, the attorneys on both sides were promptly on hand. Messrs. Hempstead, Williams, Young and Sheeks appeared for the defendant, the plaintiff being represented by Messrs. Hagan, Robertson and McBride.

The arguments of counsel consumed the time of the Court until Saturday afternoon, at which time his honor, Chief Justice Schaeffer, took the matter under advisement.

This morning the Court rendered a verbal decision, without giving any reasons therefor. This decision recognizes the right of the Court to issue an order for the payment of alimony pendente lite, but reduces the amount made payable by the order of Mr. McKean, from $500 a month to $100 a month, thus diminishing the amount claimed to be now due, according to Mr. McKean's order, from about $17,500 to $3,600. The decision of this morning also gives the defendant thirty days in which to pay the amount, and provides, in default of such payment, that execution shall issue against his property, for the satisfaction of the awarding order. The Court also decides that the costs of suit shall be paid by the defendant.

Accident.—We regret to learn that a little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Webber, was, on Saturday, in the vicinity of Lake Point, caught by a sudden gust of wind, which carried her over the edge of a precipice, causing her to fall a distance of twenty-five feet, alighting on a pile of jagged rocks. The little one was severely cut about the lower part of the face. Luckily a surgeon was at hand when the incident occurred, by whom the child's injuries were dressed. She was brought to town and examined by Dr. Anderson, but it can scarcely be determined, until the swelling and other symptoms are allayed, whether the jaw bone is broken, but anyhow her injuries are considered to be of such a character as to render her recovery merely a matter of a little time.

Considering the distance the child fell and the nature of the place where she alighted, her escape alive is somewhat remarkable.

Revived.—The instructions recently given by the City Council to the police to arrest hotel runners and hack drivers who persisted in shouting and behaving in an otherwise uproarious manner at the rail road depot, on the arrival of trains, had the effect, for a while, of considerably allaying the nuisance. Last evening, however, the reprehensible practice was, we are informed, revived, the babel being almost as great as ever.

Threatening.—Yesterday it threatened to rain and thunder, but it didn't, and similar atmospheric conditions have prevailed to-day, and more markedly. Something in the shape of a storm is necessary to clear the air of its sultry heaviness.

Another Trip.—Mr. C. R. Savage left this morning on another professional trip eastward. He will go as far as Cheyenne, and will probably return loaded up with views is about two weeks.

THE TWENTY-FOURTH IN THE COUNTRY.

MANTI.

MANTI CITY, Sanpete Co., July 25th, 1876.

The twenty-ninth anniversary of the entrance of the pioneers into Salt Lake Valley, was celebrated at Manti in a very happy and appropriate manner.

Early in the morning the people were awakened from their slumber by the sweet strains of music by the brass and martial bands as they were serenading through the principal streets of the city. As we looked towards the public square, we noticed the stars and stripes unfurled to the gentle breeze from the top of the liberty people. At nine a.m. the people commenced to gather at the bowery, which under the direction of our lively and untiring Bishop, John B. Maiben, assisted by J. C. R. Weibye and others, had been very neatly and tastefully decorated for the occasion. On account of the somewhat unfavorable prospect of the weather the procession was dispensed with.

At 10 a.m. the meeting was called to order by Geo. E. Beuch, Esq., marshal of the day. Eleven young ladies, with suitable mottoes, represented the State of Deseret and surrounding territories. The pioneers to Salt Lake Valley, the pioneers to Manti, the Mormon Battalion, the Relief Society, the Young Ladies Retrenchment Association, the Young Men's Mutual Improvement Association, the Sunday school teachers and children of Manti, were all well and appropriately represented and seated in order by the marshal. After music by the bands, singing by the Manti and Sunday school choirs, and prayer by the chaplain, a very impressive and eloquent address was delivered by Wm. T. Reid, orator of the day, followed by appropriate and instructive remarks, toasts, and sentiments by Messrs. Castoe, Geo. P. Billings, Albert Smith, and others, interspersed with music and singing. One thing deserving mention was an original poem, which certainly did much credit to the author, John K. Reid. While Bishop Maiben was making some closing remarks, a rain storm came on, and not having time to close in order the meeting was dismissed by three cheers for the brave pioneers of Utah and for the peace and prosperity of the Union.

At 2 p.m. the people reassembled at the Bowery, where the juveniles engaged in a dance, until 5 p.m., after which followed foot, sack and wheelbarrow races and other sports and amusements, all of which the children seemed to enjoy very much, judging from the spirit and energy with which they engaged in it; but what raised the joyfulness of the children and young people almost to enthusiasm was the sight of the forty Chinese lanterns, which illuminated the bowery during the evening, and our beautiful little display of fireworks, which had been procured for the occasion from Prof. O. F. Due, of Salt Lake City, and was very successfully operated by Luther T. Tuttle, Esq., and assistants. This was something new in the history of Manti, and seemed to be very much appreciated and enjoyed by both young and old.

The fireworks being over, all who felt so disposed engaged in a dance, which was kept up till a late hour.

Great credit is due George E. Bench, the marshal, for the lively and very efficient manner in which he conducted all the exercises of the day.

Everything went off with the best and kindliest of feelings, and the 24th or July, 1876, will be held in long and joyful remembrance by the people of Manti.

Respectfully,
JOHN H. HOUGAARD,
Reporter of the Day.

CLARKSTON.

CLARKSTON, Cache Co., July 24th, 1876.

The twenty-ninth anniversary of the entrance of the Pioneers into Salt Lake Valley was celebrated here by the citizens of this place in a very spirited manner, although the weather was unfavorable to our arrangements in the early part of the day, which compelled us to change or alter our programme.

At an early hour salutes were fired by the infantry in honor of the day. A fine new national flag was hoisted and a salute of thirty-seven guns was fired by the infantry in honor of the flag.

At 10 a. m., the citizens met at the Bowery, where we enjoyed ourselves hugely in listening to jubilee songs by the juvenile choir, which interspersed the morning exercises, which consisted of prayer, oration, speeches, a poetical address by a young lady, toasts, sentiments, etc.

In the afternoon, the weather being favorable, we formed a grand procession of fathers and mothers in Israel, Zion's fair daughters and Sabbath and day school children, and the military, consisting of infantry and cavalry, each company bearing its appropriate banners and flags. The martial band played some very lively tunes. The whole proceedings gave much pleasure, and were conducted by Marshal Henry Yates.

Later in the day, both young and old indulged themselves in the dance. Yours respectfully,

HENRY STOKES.

PARADISE.

PARADISE, Cache County, July 25th, 1876.

The Twenty-fourth was celebrated here yesterday with the usual festivities. At early dawn the firing of guns and music from the brass and martial bands told the citizens that the glorious old stars and stripes were being unfurled, that flag that the pioneers planted in these valleys when they belonged to the Mexican government.

The bands then marched through the town, making all happy with the strains of beautiful music.

At 10 a.m. a public meeting was held in the Bowery. The meeting was called to order by H. A. Shaw, singing by the choir, prayer by the chaplain, Father James, singing by the choir. David James, Esq., of Salt Lake City, gave an excellent oration. He reviewed the history of the Latter-day Saints, and especially their settlement in these valleys and gave the young and rising generation a very clear idea of what their parents had done and suffered. He spoke of Utah as it was, and as it is to-day, and it was very plain that all present could see that the hand of Almighty God has been over the people. Brother James' visit among us was very much appreciated, as he was our bishop since Paradise was first settled until 1875.

Then followed music from the brass band, speeches from Bishop Orson Smith and C. C. Shaw, Esq., of Hyrum, songs, music, etc., and the benediction by the chaplain.

At 1 30 p.m. a sumptuous dinner was served up in splendid style, to which 250 persons, young and old, sat down.

Horse racing, foot racing, and other outdoor amusements were the order after dinner.

A ball in the public hall closed a very pleasant day's enjoyment. Peace and good order prevailed throughout.

Yours truly,
H. C. JACKSON,
C. HOUSLY,
S. OBRAY,
H. A. SHAW, } Committee.

MORONI.

MORONI, July 26, 1876.

At day break the citizens were aroused from their peaceful slumber by firing of guns under the command of Capt. P. C. Christensen. At sunrise the stars and stripes were unfurled to the breeze, when the choir, led by Prof. Hans Hansen, and the martial band, led by Prof. H. J. Jolly, serenaded the citizens, passing through the principal streets, and the manner in which they displayed their talent gave great satisfaction.

At half-past eight a. m. the citizens and school children assembled at the Bowery, the marshal of the day, J. C. Nelson, Esq., called order, when a procession was formed of Pioneers, Hand Cart Company, Ox Teams, Martial Band, Bishop and Counsellors, Fathers in Israel, Mothers in Israel, Young Men and Young Women, and Sunday School Children. They marched through the principal streets and returned to the Bowery. The marshal called order, the choir sang, the chaplain offered prayer, and the choir sang, when a very able discourse was delivered by Father William Draper on the arrival of the pioneers in these valleys, giving incidents of their journey, and interspersed with the causes of their expulsions from the different States and counties. Toasts and sentiments were read. The meeting was then dismissed by the Chaplain, L. J. Anderson.

In the afternoon there were foot races, base ball and other games of amusements. There was a dance in the Hall for old and young. The day passed off very well, all feeling very well satisfied.

Lars Swensen, Christian Yensen, Joseph L. Jolly, John Blackham, Peter Lourizen, Committee of Arrangement.

JOHN H. STOTT, Reporter.

PARAGOONAH.

The day was observed by firing and hoisting of the national flag at sunrise. The citizens assembled at the meeting house at 10 a.m. and were seated by J. S. Barton, Marshal of the day, called to order by S. A. Lamoreaux, singing, prayer by Daniel Stones, singing by the choir, oration by Hon. S. S. Smith, song and chorus by Wm. Edwards, speeches by John Topham and J. P. Barton, Esqs., songs, toasts, and sentiments interspersed, concluding with the usual inevitable dance "for children in the afternoon, and for adults in the evening," all under the supervision of the able committee that arranged for the celebration of the centennial Fourth.

One attractive feature was the climbing of the liberty pole by Job Openshaw, and reefing the halyards through the truck at the top. A collection was taken up on the spot and presented to him as he reached the ground, and he was loudly cheered. J. P. BARTON.
