George Greig, who is the "King of Fanning Island," is once more a visitor to San Francisco. He arrived Friday on board the schooner Falcon, and brought with him his wife, youngest son and the son of a neighboring South Sea Island potentate, Mike Miller by name. Greig is a son of old Captain Greig, the white man whose occupation took him to the South seas, where he married a South Sea bride and secured a whole island all to himself. Before Greig Sr. died he had acquired Washington Island, an adjoining dot of coral reef, and the kingdom of the present monarch consists of these two atolls in the South Pacific.

The troops at the Presidio, Cal., ordered to New Orleans and Chattanooga will probably leave San Francisco Tuesday evening, but it is possible that their departure may be delayed until Wednesday. Gen. Shafter has arrived from Bakersfield and was busy all day Sunday at department headquarters. Efforts are being made to have the troops parade through the city on their departure, so they may be given an ovation, in which it is proposed all the public school children will participate. Gen. Shafter would not say positively today (Monday) that any part of the national guard would be ordered to duty at the Presidio.

John Eschalbach, a young brewer, residing at 1 Gould street, South San Francisco, ended his life Thursday evening with carbolic acid. He had been married several years, but recently domestic discord caused him to petition the courts for a divorce. His wife contested the action and, after a bitter fight, succeeded in defeating her husband's object. Eschalbach was rendered despondent by the decision of the judge, and going to his home shortly after 9 o'clock in the evening, he drank the poison, which proved fatal in spite of medical aid that was obtained. The body was taken to the morgue. Eschalbach was 29 years of age.

F. Schimmelpennig, a capitalist living at Fruitvale avenue and Schuey lane, Oakland, Cal., has been suddenly stricken blind, and there is every reason to believe that the affliction will be permanent. The unfortunate man has been failing in health for many years and was very weak. He retired on Thursday night in his usual condition, but was awakened about 4 o'clock the following morning with a severe pain in his eyes. He sought in various ways to gain relief, but soon found that he had gone totally blind. A bright light was held to his eyes soon after he was stricken, but the unfortunate man could not distinguish it.

Gov. McCord of Arizona is deeply interested in the formation of Col. Brodies' regiment of Arizona rough riders. He has telegraphed to the President as follows: "I beg you to remember that Arizona was the first to offer to the government a regiment of cavalry recruited from the cowboys of the southwest. The regiment can be ready for muster in ten days and will be an honor to the territory and to the nation. Please give me authority to raise such a regiment outside of our quota of volunteers to be called for."

At Butte, Mont., Monday the Boston and Montana company filed suit in the United States court against the Chili Mining company and John Maginnis, E. L. Whitmore, Carlos Warfield and Stephen R. Raymond. The latter are named as the officers of the Chili Mining company, which is now understood has a lease on the Rarus mine. The plaintiffs set out the same facts in their complaint as alleged in their former suit against Heinzer and the Montana Ore Purchasing company, and claim $75,000 damages for the alleged value of ore taken from beneath the surface of the Pennsylvania through the Rarus mine. The same questions are involved as in the suit, especially the old one of a divided apex.

OBITUARY NOTES.

CAROLINE STALLING.

Sister Caroline Stalling died at Eden, Weber county, Utah, April 2, 1898, at 1:30 a. m., and the funeral services were held April 3rd at 2 p. m. in the Eden meeting house.

Sister Stalling was born at Dover, Stafford county, N. H., January 15, 1814. She was married to Elijah Hussey in 1832, by whom she had three children, Daniel A., Chas. F., and Charlotte J. Her husband died in April, 1839. She was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in 1847. She started to emigrate to Utah, accompanied by her son Daniel and daughter Charlotte, in 1849, and wintered at Council Bluffs, where she met and was married to Joseph Stalling. She arrived in Salt Lake valley Oct. 1, 1850, and settled at the mouth of Mill Creek canyon, where she lived for several years, and where Florence J. and Gertrude, the only two children of this marriage, were born. Later the family moved to Ogden valley and settled in Eden, where they resided until her demise, struggling to overcome the obstacles incident to the settlement of a new place.

Sister Stalling lived to survive her second husband over four years. Her son Charles F. never came west and it is not known where he is or if he is alive. Her four other children—D. A. Hussey, of Mill Creek, Charlotte, of Eden, Mrs. W. H. Barton, of Granger, Salt Lake county, and Mrs. Robert Graham, of Eden—survive her. She also leaves 24 grandchildren, and 36 great-grandchildren. She died as she had lived, a faithful Latter-day Saint. Utah and Montana papers please copy.

ALFRED CARESWELL.

Died at Ogden, Weber county, Utah, on Saturday, April 9, 1898, at 10:30 p. m., of general debility. Alfred Careswell, aged 69 years, 9 months and 14 days.

Deceased was born at Newport, Salop, England, June 25, 1828, and embraced the Gospel in his native town May 15, 1850; married Miss Anna Bentley Cowden, April 17, 1854, who died May 23, 1897. While in England they always kept open house for the Elders. Brother Careswell labored in Shropshire, Staffordshire, and Yorkshire, presiding over branches of the Church wherever his lot was cast, traveling on the Sabbath days for miles preaching the Gospel and visiting the Saints, and it could be truly said of him he was always going about doing good. He emigrated from Selby, Yorkshire, in the year 1869, and when the train came to Evanston a terrible wreck happened, in which several persons were killed; but by the blessing of God both he and all his family escaped unhurt. He settled in Ogden and remained there until his demise. Being a worker in wood and an expert turner, he was employed in making home-made furniture, and of late years kept a book and stationery store. He was ordained a High Priest and was clerk of the quorum for Weber Stake of Zion many years.

Brother Careswell was sickly from his birth, but having at all times and under all circumstances husbanded his strength, he by that prudence lived within two months of the time allowed to man on earth. During January last he took a severe cold, and in February he fell on the icy steps of his home, injuring his arm and shoulder, from the effects of which he never recovered.

The funeral was held at 2 p. m., Tuesday, April 12, 1898, at the Fifth ward church. A large audience assembled out of respect of this beloved member of their ward. Bishop Stevens presided. The following old friends of his boyhood and ministry in the Shropshire conference addressed the meeting: Patriarch C. D. Evans, Utah county; Elders T. V. Williams, H. W. Naisbitt and Captain Wright of Salt Lake City; and C. C. Shaw, Hyrum, Cache county. These brethren all bore a true and faithful testimony to the integrity, honesty and faithfulness of Brother Careswell for nearly fifty long years. He loved God and the work of God in preference to all else. In all the walks of life he was respected and honored by all who knew him. His delight was in the law of God, and nothing was more pleasing to him than to speak and work for the building up of Zion and the progress of the Gospel.

Bishop Stevens and Counselor Larkins said every word that had been spoken of our deceased brother was true, and they both could speak nothing but good of him.
