

KELSEY IS GIVEN CHANCE TO WORRY

Sluths Have Been Watching the City Automobile and Report To Council.

DOES HE WORK AFTER DARK

If Not, Why Does the City Pay for His Lamps?—That Is One Question Among Many.

Although City Engineer Louis C. Kelsey rides around in a new automobile, it is doubtful whether the city will pay for it. After some discussion last night the city council placed the price of the machine, $1,600, on the authorized list, but Councilman Martin raised a legal objection and gave notice of reconsideration. Kelsey failed to ask for bids on automobiles and it is held that for this reason the purchase of the machine was made illegally.

From all appearances there are several sluths watching Kelsey like a cat does a mouse. When the bill was presented for payment last night, Councilman Holley declared that Kelsey had paid too much for the machine. "I was offered the same machine for $1,500," he exclaimed. "I don't see why the city should be held up for $100 when an individual can buy the same machine for less money."

Councilman Black hastened to the support of Kelsey. He stated that the engineer had purchased two head lamps and a speedometer which came to $100 as extras. "This is the first time that I ever knew that the city engineer worked at night," said Councilman Martin. "I understand that the engineer says that the nights are very fine and he's burning the city's gasoline."

Kelsey has been charged with putting a double rumble seat on his machine in order to accommodate his entire family. It is stated by the sluths on his trail that he goes out Sundays with the machine. He also takes his machine to the baseball games on the city's time as well, it is charged.

ANOTHER OBJECTION.

When City Engineer Kelsey sent in a communication asking for the appropriation of $1,500 to install a veil in Parley's creek at Twelfth South street, Councilman Hall declared that the price was too high.

"I think that the veil could be put in for $1,000 without any trouble. That is $500 too much because any farmer could put it in for half the amount and it would do just as good service," Councilman Martin who objects to Kelsey's automobile, agreed with Mr. Hall and asked that the matter go to the finance committee, which was done.

Because Davis & Houser have caused the city considerable trouble on their former contracts, the finance committee recommended to the council last night that the board of public works be authorized to throw out their bid, which was the lowest on sewer extension No. 370 on Capital Hill at $1.60 per linear foot, and give the work to the next lowest bidder, James Keamway, at $1.75 per linear foot. This caused considerable debate and City Atty. H. J. Dinning declared that he did not believe that the council had the right to reject the bid. The matter was laid over a week to be discussed by the finance and municipal laws committee to decide this point.

Councilman Hall declared last night that the parking of east Seventh South street had been smuggled into the plans and specifications, and after the contract had been approved he gave notice of reconsideration next Monday night. In the meantime, he proposes to produce evidence that the plan to park Seventh East street was the work of designing officials.

SALARIES ON THE SHELF.

When the ordinance raising the salaries of several city officials came up, it was immediately placed on the shelf. The city has no money with which to raise salaries. This caused considerable feeling among the janitors, teamsters, the clerk of the board of public works, the plumbing inspector, the sealer of weights and measures, because Jake Raleigh was given a raise in salary and another title.

Ten additional policemen were provided for in an ordinance passed by the council. The men will be appointed next week. This will create an increase of about $10,300 a year in the city pay roll. The men will be used at the horse race track during the meet and during the Grand Army encampment.

The council authorized Chief Barlow to purchase a motorcycle for Bicycle Policeman Dan Grundvig. This will be used for burglar calls at night as well as chasing automobile speeders and violators of the bicycle ordinance. Elijah Park was appointed as a special policeman for the Oregon Short Line in place of John Presser, whose appointment was revoked.

The report of the committee on the Oregon Short Line foot viaduct was approved. The difficulty was settled by removing the viaduct within about 10 feet of the north line of South Temple street. An entrance to the viaduct will be provided through the north wing of the new depot.

The meat inspection ordinance will be discussed by the municipal laws committee and brought up before the council next Monday night for passage.

The board of public works was authorized to advertise for bids for the conduit to be built under the tracks on West Temple street between North and South Temple streets, made necessary by the paving of West Temple street. The estimated cost of the conduit is $17,000. The Utah Light & Railway company will pay for the remainder.

UNIVERSITY NEWS.

At the meeting of the faculty yesterday afternoon the question of giving credit for physical education and music was referred to a special committee. Heretofore credit has only been given for the work required by freshmen students. There are others who want to do special work and the above decision is for their benefit.

Harold Holman, president of the freshmen, will entertain the class at a lawn party at his home on Thursday evening.

The Normal seniors have been working for the past month on the play entitled "School," which they intend giving during class day exercises, June 1. Arrangements are being made to also give the performance at Bingham Junction and Bountiful.

Yesterday was the first day of registration for the special teacher's course, lasting from July 23 to July 28. Eighty-five students registered for the course during the day, which is by far the largest number recorded for any first day heretofore. Prof. Reynolds anticipates that there will be a total enrollment of 150 this year. The course is for those who are teaching on temporary certificates. After five years of summer school work it is possible for such to receive their diplomas for teaching.

The debating team is working hard for the event with the Colorado college boys tomorrow night, and they are very hopeful of winning the victory.

IRONWORKERS WIN STRIKE.

The strike of the members of the local union of the iron workers was brought to a close yesterday afternoon at a meeting of representatives of the employers and a committee of the men. The demands of the men for an advance of 50 cents a day was acceded to, and the men returned to work this morning. Everything was going on as usual at the Vermont building on South Temple street, where five or six men are employed, and at other jobs in the city, and also at the Highland boy smelter, where the majority of the men is employed. The men have been out since last Wednesday, the number being affected being practically the whole union, amounting to about 130 men. They demanded $4.50 per day of eight hours work, as their reason, the risk of their work, and the shortness of the working year.

CANYON CREST RANCH TO GO ON THE MARKET

New Provisions for Juvenile Correction Remove the Necessity For Its Use.

Canyon Crest ranch, near Bountiful, will probably be sold by the association which owns it and the money placed in an institution for the care of boys and girls in the city. The directors will discuss the question at their next meeting. It is understood that the farm which contains 600 acres of land will not be sold for less than $25,000. The establishment of the Land Home near Murray and the provisions of the new juvenile court law for detention homes have taken away a number of boys from the ranch. The farm proved a success in the education and character moulding of young delinquents but the directors have not been able to secure enough boys of late to keep the ranch going.

Spring Jingle Contest Prize Winners

A large number of meritorious jingles and limericks were submitted in this contest and the judges found it difficult to limit their choice down to three. Following are the prize winners:

FIRST PRIZE	SECOND PRIZE	THIRD PRIZE

Here's a little advice from a woman who knows. A woman who works and irons her own clothes, Don't wear yourself out in the old fashioned way. Get a "Hot Point" iron on this very day. The heat's in the iron, and not in the room. It's the heat and the running that's a work-woman's doom.	It don't burn your fingers nor heat up the house. It does its work well, and as still as a mouse. No scorching—no blacking—no dust and no dirt. Whether ironing your trills, or your collar or skirt, Oh! the "Hot Point"—the "Hot Point"—the iron for me. Sing loudly its praises on land and on sea.	There was a young man named Myron, Whose wife could sing like a siren, The' she didn't like work, She soon ceased to shirk. When he got her a "Hot Point" flatiron.

So much interest has been shown in the contest that we intend to make it an annual feature. If you didn't win a prize this year jot down your jingles and try again.
