SHEEP-HERDING NEAR WATER STREAMS.

THE annexed communication is one out of many on this subject that have been lately addressed to local papers:

Editor Deseret News:

Is there any law in this Territory to prevent sheep from being herded close to any settlement, or on a stream of water from which water is used for household purposes? If so, where can it be found? An answer will greatly oblige.

Respectfully yours,
C. F. B.

We have answered these questions by private letter, but as there are many inquiries of a similar nature, we think it wise to reply through the NEWS. The only laws of the Territory that we know which are applicable to the case are the following. Section 1474 of the Compiled Laws of Utah, provides that "Anything which is injurious to health, or indecent, or offensive to the senses, or an obstruction to the free use of property, so as to interfere with the comfortable enjoyment of life or property is a nuisance and the subject of an action. Such action may be brought by any person whose property is injuriously affected or whose personal enjoyment is lessened by the nuisance; and by the judgment the nuisance may be enjoined or abated, as well as damages recovered."

This of course relates to a civil action. But the criminal law also steps in for the protection of the public. By Section 2031 a Public nuisance is defined to be, among other things, the unlawful doing of an act which "annoys, injures or endangers the comfort, repose, health or safety of three or more persons." It is declared to be a misdemeanor. The punishment of this grade of crime, which covers numerous offenses, is imprisonment in a county jail not exceeding six months or a fine not exceeding three hundred dollars, or both." Section 2033 makes the wilful omission of a legal duty relative to the removal of a public nuisance also a misdemeanor.

It has been published in the Utah Journal that a law in regard to the herding of sheep near a stream so as to foul the waters used by citizens was passed at the latest session of the Legislature. This is so far correct. But the Governor for reasons given vetoed the bill and sent in a substitute which did not pass; therefore there is no new law on this subject. But we are of the opinion that the laws we have cited are sufficient to meet the evil complained of by our correspondent and by many other persons in various parts of the Territory. Sheep-herders must take into consideration the public welfare and abstain from taking their flocks to grounds near any stream used for domestic purposes, or they will be liable to action for damages and also to prosecution for violation of the penal code.

PUERILITY OF MAN'S WORK.

CHICAGO, May 9th, 1884.

Editor Deseret News:

The person who, from some adjacent knoll, calmly contemplates the swollen river as it rushes past, can more fully realize the majestic grandeur or dynamic destructiveness of the mighty flood than he who seated on flat or drift now glides tranquilly on the turbid bosom of the even stream, now buffetted in the whirling eddies of a raging current, or now supinely floating on placid marge of some expansion of lake newly formed by the overflowing flood. The latter can realize nothing but what is immediately within his view, and these realizations must of necessity be influenced by the vicissitudes of the unstable element on which he happens to be located. On the even current all is peace, quietude and happiness, on the raging eddies all is apprehension, terror and dismay, on the stagnant lake all is apathy, morbidity or pessimism. How different it is with him who is seated on the hillock close by. He can conceive the sublimity of irresistible nature and the magnificence of Eternal Ommipotence. Every shingle, log and spar that drifts past, for him has a story of man's temporal nothingness and God's incomprehensible infinity. Every break in the original barriers is a fresh proof of man's blindness and want of wisdom, and of nature's and nature's God's inevitable punishment for all transgressions of their ever-living laws.

It is thus with the world we live in. It is a mighty stream and subservient to laws as undeviating as those of the forest and the flood. He who contemplates it from a secluded distance realizes its absurdities, inconsistencies and fallacies more vividly than the person actually struggling in the stream, now drifting, now buffetted and again crushed and broken. To one calmly reclining by the placid waters of Lake Michigan, with her laughing waves lazily lapping and breaking at his feet, how silly and how vain must appear the machinations, the ambitions and pretentious wisdom of Wall street schemers and intriguers of Washington dreamers and political empirics of Utah moralists and theologians. To the person viewing all these with the eye of reason, judgment and understanding how puerile and incomplete appears the work of man, how forcibly and how vividly he grasps the utterance of that Scriptural philosopher, who exclaimed that, "all is vanity, all is vanity." What an instructive, though in truth a melancholy illustration of life's uncertainty and man's weakness, narrowness and fallibility, does the case of the once great Gen. Grant afford. Gen. Grant, whose name has been echoed from clime to clime, from continent to continent, and from people to people, until the earth's vast circumference with it became cognizant.

GEN. GRANT.

The hero of a hundred battles; the beau-ideal of stalwarts and chronic office holders, the central figure of toadies and tuft-hunters now a wreck financially, socially and politically. Seated in his office gilbly detailing the proper course for questions of state to take, he is unconscious that his chair rests on dynamite and in a few minutes more he will be hurled into the awful nothingness of space. He who cannot successfully conduct a pawnshop recommends disfranchisement for the hopless citizens of Utah. He who was instrumental in degrading American citizenship to the level of savage ignorance and brutish imbecility, would now take it away from intelligence, economy and order, and place not the abstractions, but the concrete possessors of them, under the

LASH OF TYRANTS

More ferocious and of less conscience than those who drove Stepen de Langton with his armed chivalry to wrest from king John a recognition of popular rights. Poor Grant, what a sad commentary on mere earthly greatness. Jay Gould now values his (Grant's) collateral at ten cents on a dollar. Mr. Vanderbilt may oblige with a loan for old acquaintance. Mr. Newman may come forth with a pathetic essay. Mr. Conckling may shake his Olympian curl and scowl his Byronic brow, but the plain fact remains, now naked and shorn of its embellishments tawdry and venial, yes the plain and simple fact remains that Gen. Grant is not near as wise a personage as George Francis Train.

Gen. Grant would place Utah under a commission of

from Washington. Does the man realize the enormity of his proposition? Does he follow such a procedure to its logical conclusion? Would he found the nucleus of an army of sharks who would so fatten and thrive on rascality that the safety of even the quietest hamlet among the forests of Maine would be endangered. There is but one step from a protectorate over Utah to one over Massachusetts or Arkansas. Give the demagogue a taste of absolute power and your King Johns of history are angels of grace compared to what your modern swaggering politician would be. Yes, poor Grant, in his dotage and senility is not an inviting study. The estimate formed of him a few years ago by some aspiring Byron would not be inappropriate now. This bard who was felicitating himself on the grandeur of things American, said.

"Heroes galore! God bless the stripes and stars!
Beneath their sacred shade there is no want
Of warriors brave, bristling with bloody scars
Of hard-fought fields, I don't allude to Grant;
Though he's, of course, Columbia's god of wars,
And idolized even in the far Levant:
The Yankees say he wields a sword quite stylish,
And that he choked the reba with Dutch and Irish.
It is most true he made some stir of late,
And earned, I know not how, a D. C. L.,
In other lands he is reputed great,
And though a tanner he can write and spell,
A queen reviewed his bronzed and grizzly pate
And rather liked his alcoholic smell,
And said she hoped the time would come quite soon
When she'd receive a king, not a baboon.

It is strange that men of well-balanced intellectual attributes, should sometimes conduct themselves in a manner characteristic of the

EMPIRIC.

Take the case of Senator Hoar. No doubt, that gentleman would feel terribly indignant, nay, even positively aggrieved, if some writer were to suggest as appropriate armorial bearings, a puritan with a lighted torch setting fire to a witch. In the light of history such a symbolic escutcheon would not at all be out of place for the family of Mr. Hoar or any other old family of New England. Witch-baiting was once a very popular and patriotic pastime, perhaps even more so than blowing up Irish landlords with dynamite. Notwithstanding all this, the enthusiastic James Parton never traces any of his heroes to a witch-burning patriot. It is certain, there is not a man in New England to-day, that will admit his grandfather and yet there are numbers of men there descended from these worthy religionists of by-gone days. Does it ever occur to Mr. Hoar that he is very diligently working out a family symbol that for his grandson cannot be questioned. What a heritage is likely to descend to that unfortunate grandson. Yes, a heritage less desirable even than scrofula, insanity, or blood taint. A heritage of tyranny, bigotry, unreason and intolerance, with the symbol of a U. S. Senator applying a lighted torch to a Mormon Elder as back-ground embellishment Cincinnati in ruins will answer, while in the fore-ground New Orleans will appear with a huge African complacently feasting on a monstrous water-melon.

BURNED A WITCH,

Take that other gentleman, Mr. Cassidy, and his case suggests even more

DEPLORABLE INCONGRUITY.

If we can judge by the name, he comes from a race that ought to think well about persecution. But names are not always criterions to nationality. One would think that Congressman O'Hara would hail from the Liffey, but we know that he belongs to the Senegambia. Whether Mr. Cassidy hails from the Liffey or the Congo, it matters not, but he is disgracing whichever race he represents. If he hails from the Liffey he must have heard of that penal code which made his people an object of world-wide sympathy. That code which by a simple declaration caused the son to brand the father an outlaw and a felon, that code by which one neighbor by a simple word could possess himself of another neighbor's worldly goods, that penal code which Burke characterized as the ingenious production of demons. If he belongs to the other race his conduct hardly amounts to the dignity of contempt. That Irish penal code is a dark chapter in the history of civilization, but the time, the age, and circumstances may offer a palliating cause. What palliation can be offered for the proposed legislation of to-day in Utah. The penal laws will offer the same inducement to

DISRUPT FAMILIES,

The same disabilities both social and political, the same disposition of property. We all remember the case of the Romanist who applied for protection during the Gordon riots. The magistrate meant well, and understood the inconvenience of being a Romanist, and wondered why a gentleman could not be something more convenient in religion. The wonderment is natural enough to minds whose only ambition is mere temporal expediency.

Fame is a hollow echo, and gold pure clay,
Honor the darling but of one short day.

So says the bard, and so says reality. Mr. Edmunds, who but a few weeks ago posed in the aggressive attitude of more than moral, a more than perfect humanity, is to-day on the defensive. A few months ago, the earnest and liberal representative of popular freedom and of iron-clad morality is to-day the avowed

ADVOCATE OF MONOPOLIES

and soulless corporations. His talents and his knowledge are not his own, nor are they the property of the American people. Jay Gould and Mr. Vanderbilt, together with their vast possessions, also own that most valuable property Senator Edmunds. Even that miserable corporation the Burlington and Missouri Railroad can boast of Mr. Edmunds' adherence. It was said that several shares in that Company's stock influenced Mr. Edmunds to vote for a land grant. But Mr. Edmunds says he became possessor of this stock months after the land grant legislation. This of course absolves the venerable Senator, and it is wholly untrue that the shares were held by a third party in trust, until such time as it would be deemed safe to become publicly their possessor. Foresight is the most commendable quality or faculty a man can possess. It is even charged that Mr. Edmunds is not content with his privileges of travel on land, but he must use war vessels on sea to gratify his awful thirst for domain. There are many other uncharitable things said about the grave and majestic Senator, but these charges are merely the malicious droppings of political enemies, so says the friends of the senator. These friends indignantly ask, how Mr. Edmunds could be guilty of any indiscretion—Mr. Edmunds, who is the uncompromising and imaginary immorality—Mr. Edmunds, who discharged a telegraph operator for inattention to duty, and subsequently ignored the petition of 56 senators to have the operator re-instated. Way, it is blasphemy to charge such adamantine integrity and embodied duty with any delinquency. But unfortunately, like many glittering metals which promise purity, and on investigation turn out mere dross, Mr. Edmunds remains, when stripped of all his dignified accompaniments, but the hired advocate of corporations and monopolies, the venal legislator influenced by gain at one time, the next by a pandering to vulgar prejudice. What a stern, unpoetic thing is reality!

FOE OF POLYGAMY

Let us

TURN TO UTAH,

—far away, distant Utah; land of canons, ravines, mountains, valleys and floods. Even there the poor wormman, is displaying his folly. Political gatherings are so earnest about annihilating the Mormon that it would seem this question is the end-all of national troubles. During the last few months $20,000,000 in gold has left New York for Europe. The exports in November, 1883, were $80,000,000; in March, 1884, $56,000,000. Would not these questions be large enough for a Utah politician? If he means well to his country, he will serve it better by showing how we can keep gold at home, and also how we can extend and enlarge our exports, than he will by rendering himself dyspeptic over the domestic relations of some neighboring Mormon, who labors honestly and earnestly to raise his family. Even those hybrids out there, who under the

GUISE OF DEMOCRATS,

want to injure, not the Mormon, but the Democratic party. The Democratic party never did attempt to bring statesmanship to the level of mere common policeman duty, and those who would now attempt to trail the cloak of Jefferson and Jackson in the dust are the veriest hypocrites. The recent development in Washington ought to teach Democrats a lesson. There are dozens of Republican papers crying free trade, and also congressmen of the same party crying also, but only four voted for Morrison's bill. Free trade is a good thing they think for Democrats, but not for Republicans. It is the same way with the dishonest Republicans, who, under the guise of Democrats, call themselves anti-Mormon. Some day New York will be bombarded, or cholera will decimate our cities, or demagogues will hold our lives and fortunes in their grasp, or we will be at the mercy of some howling mob; then we will find that we had greater evils to attend to than Mormonism, if we only did attend in time.

Fisk & Hatch.

NEW YORK, 16.—Fisk & Hatch are open for all desiring to consult with the firm, but no business transactions beyond receiving claims and fixing a basis of settlement. Fisk said many depositors and other creditors expressed entire confidence in the firm and notified them that their claims would not be pressed.

The Financial Situation this Morning.

Business began in the Stock Exchange without any appearance of flurry. Stocks opened weak and feverish except Western Union, Union Pacific, St. Paul 1¼ lower, Northwestern ⅝, Lackawanna ⅞, Lake Shore 2⅛, Reading and Omaha 2½. This was succeeded by a better feeling and a general advance of ⅛ to 2. Foreign bankers are buying extensively. Exchange weak; rates reduced from 4,85 ⅛ @ 8,7⅛. Stocks lent flat to 6 per cent. for carrying. Rumors of failures continue, but as no announcement is yet made are treated with ridicule as no necessity exists for such action, speculation being in no sense panicky. An officer of the Exchange states that he was informed by Russell Sage that he will meet every "put" sent in, but must proceed slowly. The clearing house committee have loan certificates ready for instant delivery and express a determination to use them liberally with a view to relieving without delay any stringency in the money market, and wild talk about closing the Stock Exchange.

Depressed.

NEW YORK, 16.—Governments 4½'s and 4's, which closed at 110 @ 112 @ 120 @ 122 on the street last night, are now 108⅛ @ 108¼ and 116 @ 118. The weakness is caused by the fear that Fisk and Hatch's holdings will be marketed. Sage is not taking stocks on privileges this morning, but making settlements by giving checks for differences. This saves him paying out a large amount of money, but his action will compel brokers to sell stock which they bought, expecting he would, as has been his custom, receive them on his puts.

Failure in Newark.

NEWARK, N. J., 16.—The Newark Savings Institute closed its doors today. The bank officers say Fiske and Hatch owe the institution a million dollars.

Central Pacific Cupons.

NEW YORK, 16.—11.30 a. m.—Fisk & Hatch have posted a notice that coupons of Central Pacific bonds will be paid at the office of the railroad company.

Failure of H. C. Hardy & Sons.

H. C. Hardy & Sons suspended. All their contracts are provided for. Stocks that were heavy and demoralized on the announcement of this failure, afterwards rallied ½ to 2⅛. Some shares but few stocks heavy, New York Central selling at 108 against 110.

$3,500,000 Legal Tenders Paid Out.

NEW YORK, noon, 16.—The sub-treasury paid out $3,500,000 legal tenders this morning. This strengthens the bank reserves. Brokers report more willingness on the part of banks to make loans. Large amounts come from Canada, and heavy transfers are made from the other side. The first two hours of business, which is usually the most dangerous in a season of flurry, passed with only one small failure, which had no depressing influence.

The Outlook in Chicago.

CHICAGO, 16, 10 a.m.—The opening on change this morning was not accompanied by any excessive excitement, prices were generally stronger. July wheat rose to 90¾ then declined to 89¾, now steady at 90. July corn sold at 57⅝, receded again to 57⅞. The feeling is apparently one of greater confidence than in either of the two preceding days notwithstanding the last failures in New York.

11 a.m.—Markets were depressed and partially demoralized on receipt of the news of additional failures in New York and decline of stocks. Wheat declined 1¼ @ ⅝, corn 1.

The New Certificates Called For.

NEW YORK, 16.—Manager Camp of the Clearing House says: The banks are availing themselves now freely of the new certificates. He would not be surprised if $10,000,000 was taken to-day. Suspended firms are all busy straightening affairs.

Kansas Banks.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., 16.—All trace of yesterday's flurry in banking circles has disappeared. The banks are paying in full to-day, business moving on as usual.

Stocks.

NEW YORK, 16.—Noon.—Bar silver 11⅛, 3's 4⅝ 4's 16, Pacific 6's 29, Burlington 14¾, Central Pacific 39, Northern Pacific 21, perferred, 45, Northwestern 100, New York Central 9¾, Oregon Trans-continental and Nevada 21, Pacific Mail 22, Panama 98, St. Louis and San Francisco 18, Texas Pacific 11, Union Pacific 41¾, Fargo Express 95, Western Union 82, Oregon Trans-continental 11⅝.

Hanged.

GREENVILLE, S. C., 16.—Alfred and James McCullough, father and son, for the murder of Ephraim Saxon, and Riley Anderson for the murder of Louise Griffith and her babe, were hanged on the same gallows this morning. The Governor refused to interfere.

Wrecked on the Coast of Ireland.

LONDON, 16.—The steamship Illyrian of Liverpool for Boston, was wrecked last night near Cape Clear light, Ireland. All the people were saved.

American Stocks Weaker.

Since half-past 4, a strong downard tendency in American stocks, especially Lake Shore, prevailed. The street is crowded.

Bismarck's Successor.

BERLIN, 16.—The Emperor has accepted the resignation of Bismarck from the presidency of the cabinet and appointed as his successor Boetticher, Prussian Minister of State.

New Treaty.

SHANGHAI, 16.—The French Admiral Lespes goes to Tientsin to prepare the new commercial treaty.

Another Portrait.—Mr. C. E. Dallin, the sculptor, has just finished the clay model for a fine portrait bust of Captain Joab Lawrence, the order for which was received a few weeks ago and the work on it having occupied from twelve to fifteen days. It is a very striking likeness and is the result of careful study of the original. Mr. Lawrence sat about nine times, one hour at each sitting. The artist has reproduced with marked fidelity the various features and external points of character, and given Captain Lawrence a portrait of which he ought to be, and doubtless is, proud. Mrs. Lawrence has expressed great satisfaction and declares the likeness to be perfect. It is an excellent study for marble, in which it should eventually appear.

WOOLLEY.—At Pleasant Grove, May 10th, 1884, John Woolley; aged 91 years. Brother woolley was born at Great Gidding, Huntingtonshire, England; embraced the Gospel June 3d, 1855, (Elder Joseph Pritlove officiating) at a small village named Holme, in his native shire. Father Woolley came to Utah with his son Thomas, who went to the Missouri River to fetch him and family, in the year 1861. The deceased was ever firm to the truth. His kindness to the Elders in his native land was proverbial. Brother Woolley has finished a good work and gone to meet the reward of the just. In peace let him rest.—COM.

O. F. DUE,
Florist, Seedsman and Preserver of Fresh Flowers,
HAS REMOVED
To his new place of business, Third South St., No. 240 W, 2½ blocks west of Cliff House.

HIS BUSINESS PLACE OCCUPIES NOW 1¼ acres of ground. A very large, new greenhouse has been built on the ground last Fall and is now in good working order, filled with plants of all kinds for spring sale, such as house, bedding and basket plants in great variety, and at moderate prices.

Garden seeds, pure and reliable, in bulk as well as in packets, in great variety and at moderate prices, also peas, beans, sweet corn and herb seed.

All floral decorations made to order of live flowers, for weddings, funerals, etc., such as wreaths, crosses, anchors, hearts, pillars, etc., also hand bouquets, table bouquets, etc. Fresh flowers preserved cheap and perfect by the embalming process, so they will keep for many years. The largest stock of fancy baskets, everlasting flowers and ornamental grasses in the city.

Fruit trees, shade trees and shrubs, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, tomato and egg plants by the hundred or thousand in season. Orders by mail or express promptly attended to. Catalogue free to all customers. Visitors are cordially invited to look at the greenhouse.

Residence is the two-story house on the ground. The Denver & Rio Grande street cars pass by my place every 15 minutes.

Flower Seeds, Over 300 Kinds.
