Damp Weather. - To-day has fallen the finest shower for many months. At five o'clock this morning the rain descended in torrentsas if there had beeen a tremendous cloud burst. The grain produced by this welcome downfall cannot be properly estimated, there being no part where in has reached but what has been benefited by the thorough soaking the ground has received. It is especially a season of rejoicing for the "dry farmers," whose crops will probably be increased several bushels to the acre.

Falls, Idaho: A sad accident occurred near this place on the morning of the 12th instant, in the family of a rancher named Karl Suisted, which resulted in the death of Mr. Suisted and a little girl 18 months old, caused by the explosion of a lamp. It seems that the lamp, lighted, was on a shelf near the bed. During the night the lamp flared up and Mr. Suisted, with the child in his arms, reached for it to blow it out, when it exploded in his hands, setting his clothes on fire at once. He ran out of the house for the river, dropped the child on the way. He lived about eight hours and the child lingered for twenty hours. Mr. Suisted was running a sheep ranch for John W. Lowell. He was well known and highly respected by every one in this section, and leaves a wife and two children to mourn his untimely taking off.
