

Judge Armstrong Furnishes an Object Lesson for Law Breakers to Heed.

BOY BURGLAR GOT 1825 DAYS.

Dan T. Rychel, Aged 18, Was Given a Lecture in Addition to Stiff Sentence.

Two prisoners appeared before Judge Armstrong today in the criminal division of the district court for sentence. one for grand larceny and petit larceny and one for burglary. George Williams was sentenced to 8 years in the state prison at hard labor for grand larceny and 30 days in the county Jail for petit larceny

He was found guilty of stealing a cow and on another trial was found cow and on another trial was found guilty of stealing a buggy. The first charge was grand farceny and in the latter he was charged with grand far-ceny but the jury returned a verdict of guilty of petit farceny. Dan T. Rychel, the young man who burglarized the home of his benefact-or, H. M. Hoagiand, on the night of Dec. 31, was sentenced to 5 years in the state prison. Rychel stole several watches and other jeweiry and also a slik skirt which he pawned. He made quite a pica for elemency and asked silk skirt which he pawned. He made quite a plea for elemency and asked the court to be lenlent with him or account of his youth, he being only 18 years old. Judge Armstrong told him that a number of young men had appeared before him lately for scattence and that a great many crimes had been committed by young men. He thought it best for the public and the younger generation to imposs a severe penalty as a warning to others not to follow in the path of crime and vice.

STOLE BALL AND CHAIN.

Carl Warr, Member of Chain Gang, Escapel With His Shackles.

Several days ago, a young man named Carl Warr, was arrested for stealing a number of bicycles. He was arraigned before Judge Diehl and pleaded guilty to petit larceny. The court sentenced him to 100 days at hard labor on the chain gang. As usual with long term prisoners, War was handicapped with a ball and chain fastened to one of his ankles. But it proved no handicap to Warr. With other prisoners he was at work But it proved no handleap to walr. With other prisoners he was at work in City Creek canyon this morning and suddenly was missed. The guards searched thoroughly for him but the fellow was not located up to a late hour this afternoon. It is believed he made his way to some friends who filed the chain from his les and then filed the chain from his leg, and then

The police say if he is captured he will be charged with escaping and with the larceny of the ball and chain.

California's mining exhibit, like its ther exhibits, will be housed in the 'alifornia building, a beautiful structure built in the shipe of a Maltese ross, each wing of which will be a eproduction of an old Spanish mission. specimens of gold, copper and other res will be found there from the diferent countries where they are prouced. Nevada and Tuolumne countles have already secured some fine specihens of gold ores which they will ex-mens of gold ores which they will ex-hibit. Nevada county, which won a gold medal at St. Louis will, at Port-land, add its excellent collection of ores to the state display. The display in its entirety will show the mining in-dustry in every stage. A number of counties will make specialties of products which are pe-culiar to them, or in which they excel. Among these, San Diego county has already decided to give special atten-tion to its gems, it being the chief pro-ducer of these in the state, the num-ber and quality produced being far superior to any other section. Its tur-quoises, garnets, tourmaline crystals and other precious stones, which won high recognition at St. Louis, will be even better displayed at Portland. Sau Bernardina county will make a

Los Angeles county will have a display of tiles with its ex-hibit, and Ventura will make a fea-ture of its sandstone display. A feature of the state's display which will be of particular interest, will be the petroleum exhibit, which will be comprehensive and elaborate. Includ-ed in the petroleum exhibit will be sam-ples from every oil county and district in the state and from every producer. It will be the most complete exhibit of its kind ever assembled for a world's fair. In accordance with the exposiits kind ever assembled for a world's fair. In accordance with the exposi-tion's policy to make the displays at the western world's fair illustrative of the processes of manufacture rather than mere collections of finished materials, the petroleum exhibit will in-clude the crude materials, the finished article and all the by-products man-ufactured from it, so as to give a comriete and comprehensive idea of the nagnitude of the business to people not familiar with the oil producing industry. Besides the displays already men-tioned, there will be exhibits of marble, granite, terra cotta, slate, soda, and minerals of all kinds taken from the minerals of all kinds taken from the different sections of the state. The whole will be attractively arranged, and the ore displays will be shown in glass cases. The new ruling by which states are enabled to house their ex-hibits in their state buildings, will make it possible for Californians to see what their state has to show in the mineral line, without having to search for it among the hundreds of displays from all over the world in displays from all over the world in the palace of mines and metallurgy.

MISS FAY A PUZZLE.

That the interest of the people in the franchise extension applied for by the Utah Light & Railway company is real, was conclusively shown at the performance of Miss Anna Eva Fay at the Grand last night. One of the first questions answered by this little mystery was "Will the Light & Railway Company get the franchise for which it is now applying?" Miss Fay's answer came quickly, Yes; but not the full time asked for." The answer seemed to please the audience, which applauded the announce-ment that the franchise would be granted, vigorously. It was only one of many questions answered by this little woman, who has been called the "Woman Mahatma," answered by this little woman, who has been called the "Woman Mahatma," and every question but served to deepen the mystery that surrounds her. "How is it possible for Miss Fay to read these questions, many of which were never written in the Grand at all, but were prepared at home?" On Mon-day John M. Fairfield of the Commer-cial club prepared a business question at home and had it answered. Last night Walter Sloan, clerk in the civil division of the city court, asked "Will I be successful in business." 'You will," repiled Miss Fay, "aithough things may not appear as bright at the start as you think they should be." Mr. Sloan's question was written before he left the office in the afternoon, and he is com-pletely mystified as to how it was read and answered.

"Hallie" wanted to know if her "young man" loved her. "Yes, Hallie, he does," replied Miss Fay. "But you should treat him with more considera-tion than you did last Sunday." This reto ease, more or less, the tension under which the audience was laboring on account of the unusual and weird act which they were witnessing.

which they were witnessing. Unlike most "spiritualistic meetings," the house is not darkened during Miss Fay's performance, and there is abso-lutely no chance for any confederate to give her any clues as to the questions she is to answer. The writer retains the slip of paper on which the question is written, and frequently Miss Fay will describe the person writing the ques-tion, or the slip of paper upon which it is written, is written,

In describing her work Miss Fay said that she was unable herself to tell by what power she was able to read the questions but that she believed it was a gift and as long as she was so gifted she would try to do good with it.

SHOT IN THE CHIN.

John Cardwell, a Teamster, Hit by a Stray Bullet.

John Cardwell, a teamster for Louis Knight at Forest Dale, was shot in the chin early last evening in the outskirts of the town by a stray bullet, but where It came from and who fired it is not known. He was riding along the street in his wagon when suddenly a shot rang out and a bullet grazed his chin taking off a small portion of skin and covering his face and ciothing with

He stopped his team and made a He stopped his team and made a search in the vicinity for the person who fired the shot, but was unable to find any one who could throw any light on the matter. It might have been done by some boy who was probably having a little target practise, but the officers have not yet been able to find out anything about it. It was rather an unpleasant incident for Mr. Cardwell, and if the bullet had struck a little higher up, he might have been seriously wounded. He reported the matter to Sheriff Emery today.

Is Thoroughly Rain Soaked.

Hon. Thomas Judd is up from St. George to attend conference. He says that between January 1 and March 15, aver 5½ inches of rain fell, which has filled the soil with water, replenished the springs in the mountains, and filled up springs in the mountains, and filled up the streams. There is plenty of wa-ter in the Rio Virgin now. Mr. Judd says this beats all local records. The weather has been cold, but not enough to do any damage. The trees are leaf-ing out, the lucern is a foot high, and the almonds are about the size of pe-cans. The outlook for the southern part of the state is year promising part of the state is very promising.
