

HANGED HIMSELF TO AN APPLE TREE

German Restaurant Man Gambles, Gets Despondent and Commits Suicide.

USED PIECE OF CLOTHES LINE.

Mounted a Chair, Adjusted the Noose
And Jumped Off to be Choked to Death—A Gruesome Sight.

Some time between last midnight and 4:45 o'clock this morning John Miller, a German, aged about 45 years, and a cook by occupation, committed suicide by hanging himself with a clothes line on the limb of an apple tree in a lot on South Temple between West Temple and First West streets. How long the man had been dead cannot be determined. He died from strangulation, and when found by a policeman his tongue was hanging out of his mouth, and his face was badly discolored.

Miller had been in Salt Lake for a number of years, working at various restaurants. Some time ago he started a small restaurant, called the Millie Cafe, at the place mentioned above. So far as known the man was never married, and the only relative he had in this country is said to be a sister who resides in Buffalo, N. Y. When Sergeant Robert and Officer Armstrong found the body suspended from the limb, it was at once cut down and removed to Evans' undertaking parlor, where it now is. Justice Dana T. Smith was notified and viewed the remains. He decided that an inquest was not necessary.

Miller had been in the habit of arising very early each morning to build a fire and start breakfast. It is surmised that he arose earlier than usual this morning.

Going into a lot next to his place of business, he cut a clothes line down and, procuring a chair, mounted the same under the tree, tied one end of the rope to the limb and made a noose with the other end, adjusted the same around his neck and then sat in the chair. How long he lay there before he died is left to the quietude of conjecture. A passer-by saw the gruesome sight of the body hanging by the neck, and at once notified the police department. Sergeant Robert and Patrol Driver Armstrong went to the scene in the patrol wagon and cut down the body.

It was learned that Miller had worked several times for John Gallacher, the East Temple street restaurant man. He worked as dish washer and sometimes second cook. When Mr. Gallacher heard of the suicide this morning, he made the following statement about Miller:

"I have known him for some time. He worked for me, off and on, for several months. I cannot say whether or not he was a drinking man, but he was an inveterate gambler, and squandered his earnings playing roulette. I am satisfied he never got married. He is a German, but how long he had been in the country I do not know. I know that he has a sister in Buffalo, because I remember he paid her a visit. Some time ago he went to Bingham. I think it was about four months ago, and made a wide circuit of the country, getting money he used to start him up in the restaurant business on South Temple. His affairs evidently did not prosper very well, perhaps because of his gambling practices, for he came to me some time ago and borrowed $10 to help him out of some difficulty. I did not get him paid back."

From the statements and from the statements of others who knew something about the man, it is believed that his business was not paying, and that he had lost various sums at the gaming table, and became despondent and decided to kill himself.

Where Miller had cut the line with a knife, and then dragged the rope so plainly seen by the marks on the ground. He did not have far to fall after jumping from the chair, and was quickly choked to death. The body will probably not be buried until Miller's sister is heard from.

SUMMER COLDS.
Laxative Bromo Quinine, the world-wide Cold Cure, removes the cause, call for full name and look for signature of E. W. Grove, M.D.

VICTIM OF RHEUMATISM.

John Schuler, the 35-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Lewis of Frontier, Wyo., died this morning from rheumatism of the heart. Mr. Lewis is connected with the Frontier Trading company and on Monday last brought their only child to this city for medical treatment. However, his illness was of such a serious character that little relief succeeded early this morning. The funeral will be held on Sunday, the time and place to be announced later.

SUMMER THEATRICALS.

They Are Not Running Smoothly at Saltair—Miss Bateman to Quit.

The summer theatrical venture at Saltair has hit the rocks. The scenery, it is understood, belongs to the Salt Lake Theater. Yesterday afternoon a part of it was brought to the city. The rest is to come. Maude Langford of the resort absolutely refuses to say anything beyond the fact that she has been disappointed. And Margaret Conley of the show says he is done, and that there will be no more performances under existing conditions. Miss Victoria Bateman, he says, will come to Salt Lake and appear at one of the theaters here and give a series of her old successes for the remainder of the season, beginning probably next week.

HERE IN JULY.

Southern California Editors to Stop
Over En Route to Port and .

Edgar Johnson, editor and proprietor of the Fullerton Tribune, Fullerton, Cal., and president of the Southern California Editorial Association, is in Salt Lake today arranging for the excursion of the association, which leaves Los Angeles at 7 p.m. Thursday, July 6, over the Salt Lake Route, for this city and the Portland exposition. The editors are due to arrive here on the morning of Saturday, July 8, when they will be entertained at the Tabernacle and in Salt Lake City, and give a run out to the lake.

Mr. Johnson this afternoon met with representatives of the Commercial club and the Press club of Salt Lake, when he discussed the proposed junket, by some of the passengers began to realize what had happened, and then followed screams for help. Those in the out-of-service cars were mostly foreigners and were not able to make themselves understood. However, it was not long until a number of us freed ourselves from the wreckage and in a short time we were doing everything possible to help those not able to help themselves.

TRAMPS CAUSED RIO GRANDE WRECK

ASSISTED MANY.

For my own part, though badly wounded in the arm, I assisted in getting many out of the carriage, some of whom were bleeding from wounds caused by broken glass. It was quite dark, as the lights had gone out, but the moon was shining and we got along fairly well. We were soon in the train again. We suffered was from lack of food, as there was none on the train and we got none till we reached Helper, at which point the railroad company had made all arrangements for our entertainment. The wreck delayed us 12 hours, and most of the time we were unable to get any sleep. After the coaches went over they were dragged a distance of 250 yards by an electric measurement. The engine kept the track, but the tender was wrenched off and went over the embankment with the baggage and other cars. Fortunately, there were no fires on the train, also the remains of the wreck might have been more disastrous.

MR. ORR'S INJURIES.

Mr. Orr's injuries consist of a badly twisted wrist on the right arm, while he is racked with pain, due to the shock sustained. No bones are broken, according to the doctor. Who is in the hospital is in fair shape. Traveling with him was Miss Lucy A. Robinson of Edinburgh, Scotland. She was badly cut on the arms and was taken to Grand Junction for medical attention. Her injuries are not at all serious and she will doubtless be home in time to meet the two other patients at the Le D. S. Hospital, consisting of Miss Anna Carlson, Mrs. Mary Laufer and William Lazear, are doing well, having sustained serious injuries.

CALM IN TROUBLE.

Another passenger on the train was Thomas Baylis, who got on at Saltair, Colo., en route to his home at Laramie, Colo. Mr. Baylis was in the third passenger coach, which was not wholly overturned. He says it was the most orderly crowd of people he ever saw under such circumstances. There was apparently no fighting and passengers helped each other, particularly women and children, in the most gratifying manner. When the accident occurred nearly all were asleep and it took them some time to awake from their stupor and fully realize the situation. Mr. Baylis regards as most miraculous that no one was killed. He says the accident was of such a nature that it is hard to comprehend why the results were not much more serious than they actually were. He says the trainmen and railroad officials seemed astounded when they learned that not one on the wrecked passenger had lost his life.

Wants Guardian Appointed.

A petition has been filed in the probate division of the district court by Mrs. Ellen Merrill asking that George F. Gibbs be appointed guardian of the estate and persons of her two children aged 11 and 5 years. The children have an estate consisting of an item by Judge Ditch this morning. The defendant's bail was fixed at $250.

John Brennan, charged with a similar offense, was arraigned, entered a plea of not guilty, and the case set for the 30th of this month.

BUSINESS NOTES.

George Austin, agricultural superintendent of the Utah Sugar company, was in town this morning, carrying about the streets a large bunch of sugar beets, pulled from the farms near Garland. Mr. Austin says that nothing like them was ever seen at the same time of year. In fact, many of the beets are large enough to be run through the factory today, though, of course, they have not yet gathered a sufficient amount of saccharine content to justify working. The leaves are like many young umbrellas, and Mr. Austin says the spectacle of a vast field of heavy beet tops waving in the breeze is a most beautiful one to look upon.

Today's local bank clearings amounted to $20,000,000, against $19,000,000 for the same day last year.

The stock of the Johnson-Pratt Drug company was out this morning, and the Johnson-O'Connor-Pratt and All-Brite Drug company for $6,000. Mr. Birtch was formerly manager of the Gable-Brite Drug company for many years, but for the last year or two has been too ill to attend to business. However, he is so much improved that he feels able to return to commercial life.

W. S. McCormick was due in New York City today, from the other side, en route home from his European tour.

A man does not sell his services at the market "cheapest by name" but at "BEST" market. There is no more reason why a woman should do most of her shopping at stores "cheapest home," unless these stores afford the best opportunities.
