

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Butter is down, but some of it is as strong as ever, notwithstanding.

Mrs. Frances E. Willard says Mrs. President Hayes absolutely will not talk gossip.

A Washington paper says, "The wrecking of trains ought to be made a lynchable offense."

The silver question is thus summed up by the New York Commercial Advertiser—"Can you loan me a quarter?"

The New York Herald Personal man says, "It is strange that so few good men consider it wicked to be dishonest in politics."

Minnesota does not get complimented very highly for repudiating foreign bought bonds of certain railroads in that State, the State having foreclosed mortgages on the roads and taken them.

Krupp is ready to manufacture a 124-ton gun, if anybody wants a pretty little plaything of that sort. Charge, 500 pounds of gunpowder; bullet, one ton cold iron.

The Omaha Herald says, "The Herald has ceased to be the Mormon organ of Nebraska. Since the excursion of the editors of the State to Salt Lake City there are dozens of papers who are saying for the Mormons what we have been saying for twelve years."

The Omaha Republican says, "The St. Paul Press says that Kereene and 'lie' are cheaper and better than coal tar as a 'hopper-killer.' If 'lie' is death on 'hoppers' there ought not to be a 'hopper' within the limits of Nebraska afflicted with the buzzing of the mendacious Omaha insect."

The Washington Star says, "General Butler is getting a little rusty in his geography. He speaks of Wayne McVeath managing diplomatic affairs near the smallest court in Europe—say of Morocco. The Baltimore Sun takes issue with the General and insists that Morocco is not in Europe at all. The point seems to be well taken."

The San Francisco Chronicle of June 13 says, "The whatever low estate the Federal office-holders of California have fallen, that part of the press not under their influence or committed to their defense, right or wrong, which most directly and accurately reflects the sentiments of the people, with rare force and unanimity approves the course of the Chronicle in relation to the official and non-official land-grabbers and their confederacy."

The Cheyenne Leader says that from documents laid before Messrs. Gould and Dillon and a committee of the business men of that town, it was ascertained that Pine Bluffs was the most available point for the Union Pacific Railroad Company from which to start a road to the Black Hills, but the two gentlemen named doubted about the expediency of commencing the road at all this season.

The Plattsmouth (Neb.) Herald of June 14, J. A. Macmurray editor, says of this region: "No people but Saints, long suffering, industrious and patient, could or would have tried to redeem this region from the terrors of a desert and made it a habitable country. The average Nebraska farmer would have cursed himself to perdition, and growled the hair off his head before the first crop was raised."

Captain Burton has lately returned from a search for mineral wealth in the land of Midian. He found the remains of an ancient civilization, gold, silver, tin, antimony and turquoise. Each ruined town had its mining works; dams for the washing of sand and crushed rock were frequently seen; scoriae lie about near ancient furnaces; in short, the traces are numerous of a busy mining population in a country which seems to be full of mineral wealth. Midian is in Africa and belongs to the Khedive of Egypt.

The Arizona Miner of June 3 says, "The best legal talent in California declares that the word desert embraces land only of a barren waste, and that where there is dampness enough in the ground to produce grass, that excludes land from being taken up under the Act as desert lands. It is held that grass growing upon land is a crop, therefore we think it would be well for those of our citizens, who are interested, to look into the law before expending money and time on an uncertainty."

How does it read for a prominent New York paper to assert of a puglist and gambler that he is as sagacious, as honest and as statesmanlike as any other member of the Legislature of the Empire State, that in these things the said gentleman is the peer of any of his fellow senators? The New York Times says of the Hon. John Morrissy, "He has shown a degree of robust common sense and of clear and political insight in dealing with delicate and important questions, which have hardly been equalled on either side of the Senate."

The Washington Star of June 9 says, "The State department has received official notice from the American consul at Cape Town, that the colony of Transvaal, in South Africa, has been annexed to the British dominion by express desire of the inhabitants of the colony. They have attempted since 1852 to maintain themselves as an independent republic, but the warlike tribes constantly menacing their territory, have driven them to seek British protection. The Transvaal has been noted as 'the' commissioner in effecting the transfer, which was celebrated with great rejoicing by the people."

Correspondence.

From the Editor of the PINE KANYON, Tooele Co., June 18, 1897.

Sir—Fence or no fence in this county is a question of public discussion. I have considered the affairs of this county to affect the county in particular, and not the Territory, but the question being agitated through the press, its columns should be open to all correspondents. I therefore request this letter to be published at the earliest date possible.

I am in favor of good fences according to territorial statute, namely, four and a half feet high, to protect the crops from animals.

First—The community are stock-raisers on a small scale, and can not provide for and sustain them if they have not the benefits of the ranch; we are also agricultural community, and both interests are indispensable in our present condition to make a living. With good fences both the agricultural and the small stock interests are protected, and the people may live in peace and prosperity. In this county a few cows and their calves, and the work animals owned by each farmer, comprise the majority of the people, with but few exceptions.

The complaint is made that fencing material cannot be profitably obtained in the mountains. The reply to the foregoing proposition is that the coal burners do find at $5 per cord in the mountains what in one season or summer would fence most part of this county with good fences. One cord of pine logs, cut into fence rails, would make considerable fence, and there has been, and no doubt will be, very much timber got from the mountains, and burnt into coals, and hauled to the smelters for the great backs. The cutting down of the timber for coal is made a business of by many, which proves that fencing material is tolerably abundant.

The no fence party tell us they want to do the poor a good (we suppose in a similar way that hawks do good to chickens) by preventing the boys and girls from having the benefit of the ranch outside of their fields, and if they travel a few steps from the unpurged land to the plowed, to the plowed they are charged with damages, poundkeeper's fees, appraiser's fees, and making out of papers, and if the money is not forthcoming the poor have the mortification to see their little lands sold to pay the costs. This looks like eagle's friendship to young lambs.

It would be good if selfishness was not the prevailing motive, to accumulate the benefits of the great majority of the people.

The no fence proposition at present is considered by the most of the people as a very mischievous and indeed deprivation of the poor's privileges.

The training of cereals to grow without water is another assertion which is very doubtful. The natural grasses of the mountains, produced just in proportion to the amount of rain and snow fall annually—much rain, much grass; little rain, grass scarce, therefore vegetation is subject to the elements of nature, and to produce a crop, and where the former is lacking crops never did and never will produce satisfactory results to pay for labor invested.

To good soil, the no fence party to the elements of nature, and to produce a crop, and where the former is lacking crops never did and never will produce satisfactory results to pay for labor invested.

The seasons in this county do not regularly give us much to rely on in rainfall, and what does fall is mostly along the base of the mountains during the winter, affording little chance for crops in the valleys, except where the soil is damp by subterranean veins of water near the lake and a very few more places.

I am satisfied that very little can be raised to pay the expenses of plowing, sowing, reaping, stacking and threshing beyond a short distance from the mountains, and very much will be the kind of soil and good deep, plowing, without irrigation.

Second—If experiments had demonstrated that crops could be raised in paying quantities, say for five years, successfully, then proof could be produced to satisfy all enquiring minds, and silence all objections. But such experiments are with us in this country, paying no more than one in ten will pay more than one-fourth of the labor invested in preparing the soil for the seed to raise crops without irrigation, and failure would produce no satisfaction and indignation on the no fence party. Caution is a good part of valor. Is not the no fence proposition a very reckless one? All farmers in this county have found as much as they could do to raise satisfactory crops with irrigation. But what would they do in raising crops without irrigation? Each one may answer the proposition for himself and govern himself accordingly.

Some say our families should settle by us. Well and good if it can be done profitably; but if not profitably, we are not to follow the original command, cultivate the earth where it is agreeable to us in Arizona or New Mexico, or any other place. The garden of Eden was not large enough for us, all, nor will these valleys sustain all the increase of the people.

Third—The unlawful fences have been a source of much trouble and feeling in the community, but the no fence party will be productive of very much more. Many of the people's stock have already been put into the pound, and proofs have already been made, manifesting to make money of those who had no feed for the animals, thus dividing the community against each other and creating law suits and lasting bad feeling in the community, and the end is not yet.

Fourth—The poor already are destitute of a quantity of milk and butter. The reason is because they are not able to procure and sustain cows on the small resources they possess, for want of a little more water to supply the deficiency.

The assertion may be safely made that not more than one in fifty perhaps can sustain cows at all, if the ranches fact allowed the cows. The cry is, "Here they are!" Two months annually is about all the time the ranch is good to keep the cows in a herd. After that time the grass begins to be burned up, and the few stragglers that remain must be allowed the benefit of the mountains, or linger out a very poor existence, and if they or any of them should come down upon the no-fenced ranch with a cow, they are in the pound for damages.

Fifth—The no fence law will benefit the community but little, because it will deprive the mass of the people of the benefit of the mountains' little damp, suitable for farming, it generally comes to pass that a very few get the advantages of them, and the poor may wait for the next chance.

Sixth—The change is too revolutionary in its nature, and seriously affects the community, before they are prepared. Arrangements in com-

Caution to the Public.

New York, 19.—T. Von Hoffman & Co. have cautioned the public against purchasing certain securities issued during the night of June 1st, from a mail car, while en route from London to Paris. The securities consist of French rentes, Egyptian, Spanish, Russian and United States bonds, of the aggregate value of more than $75,000, with railway stock valued at several thousand pounds.

Rocky Mountain Visitors.

President Barnard, of Columbia College, Rev. Dr. Thomas, of Amherst, and a number of other gentlemen, of New York, Boston, and other cities, a party of about thirty persons, left New York, last night, in Pullman Palace cars, for the Pennsylvania Railroad, for a pleasure trip to the Rocky Mountains.

Visit of Governor Hampton.

Governor Hampton, of South Carolina, arrived in this city yesterday, and immediately left for Ocean Grove, below Long Branch, avoiding the company of his political friends, who were awaiting him at the New York Hotel. He will attend the anniversary of the Shields Guards at Auburn, New York, on Wednesday, and will add, to the interest of the occasion, the flag which was the ensign of the Palmetto regiment in the Civil war. He will then visit New York long enough to negotiate a temporary loan, which the Hampton legislature authorized, to meet the expenses of the war with the Carolinian government, until the treasury should be replenished by the regular tax levy.

Mining.

BALTIMORE, 19.—Joseph O. Glanville, collector in the freight department of the Northern Central Railway Company, has been missing since Friday morning. He is also vice-president of the Peabody Savings Institute. His accounts there are pronounced correct.

Austria and Russia.

CHICAGO, 19.—The Tribune's London special says, the attitude of Austria is getting more and more hostile to Russia. Starting out with friendly feelings, and feeling to share in the territorial distribution when Turkey should be dismembered, she has since been driven to the opposite standpoint by internal influences and outside pressure. The alliance of Russia and Germany is one cause of the disaffection. Recently overtures were made to England for an offensive and defensive alliance. Prince Milan's visit to the Czar was in opposition to the expressed desire of Austria.

Insurance.

BURLINGTON, Iowa, 19.—The most disastrous fire which has occurred in Burlington for four years, broke out this morning in the building of Bell & Co's Wholesale Dry Goods house, the fire consuming Bell's Dry Goods store, E. Chamberlain's Grocery, Joseph A. Griggs Music House, and damaging the house of Bilklin, Wheeler & Co., Wholesale Grocers. The losses are about $205,000. The insurance will, distributed, be about $150,000.

Georgia.

PATERSON, N. J., 19.—Two or three hundred employees of the Georgia and Southwestern Railroad, and Booth's six mills struck, today, for higher wages.

Milk Funnies.

Pure Liquors and Cigars, Summer Drinks of all kinds, always to be had at the new and elegant Armstrong residence at the lake, with usual urbanity. Call and see him, East Temple Street, four doors South of Wells, Fargo's Bank.

Caution to the Public.

New York, 19.—T. Von Hoffman & Co. have cautioned the public against purchasing certain securities issued during the night of June 1st, from a mail car, while en route from London to Paris. The securities consist of French rentes, Egyptian, Spanish, Russian and United States bonds, of the aggregate value of more than $75,000, with railway stock valued at several thousand pounds.

Rocky Mountain Visitors.

President Barnard, of Columbia College, Rev. Dr. Thomas, of Amherst, and a number of other gentlemen, of New York, Boston, and other cities, a party of about thirty persons, left New York, last night, in Pullman Palace cars, for the Pennsylvania Railroad, for a pleasure trip to the Rocky Mountains.

Visit of Governor Hampton.

Governor Hampton, of South Carolina, arrived in this city yesterday, and immediately left for Ocean Grove, below Long Branch, avoiding the company of his political friends, who were awaiting him at the New York Hotel. He will attend the anniversary of the Shields Guards at Auburn, New York, on Wednesday, and will add, to the interest of the occasion, the flag which was the ensign of the Palmetto regiment in the Civil war. He will then visit New York long enough to negotiate a temporary loan, which the Hampton legislature authorized, to meet the expenses of the war with the Carolinian government, until the treasury should be replenished by the regular tax levy.

Mining.

BALTIMORE, 19.—Joseph O. Glanville, collector in the freight department of the Northern Central Railway Company, has been missing since Friday morning. He is also vice-president of the Peabody Savings Institute. His accounts there are pronounced correct.

Austria and Russia.

CHICAGO, 19.—The Tribune's London special says, the attitude of Austria is getting more and more hostile to Russia. Starting out with friendly feelings, and feeling to share in the territorial distribution when Turkey should be dismembered, she has since been driven to the opposite standpoint by internal influences and outside pressure. The alliance of Russia and Germany is one cause of the disaffection. Recently overtures were made to England for an offensive and defensive alliance. Prince Milan's visit to the Czar was in opposition to the expressed desire of Austria.

Insurance.

BURLINGTON, Iowa, 19.—The most disastrous fire which has occurred in Burlington for four years, broke out this morning in the building of Bell & Co's Wholesale Dry Goods house, the fire consuming Bell's Dry Goods store, E. Chamberlain's Grocery, Joseph A. Griggs Music House, and damaging the house of Bilklin, Wheeler & Co., Wholesale Grocers. The losses are about $205,000. The insurance will, distributed, be about $150,000.

Georgia.

PATERSON, N. J., 19.—Two or three hundred employees of the Georgia and Southwestern Railroad, and Booth's six mills struck, today, for higher wages.
